

WEATHER
Cloudy and Warmer

The Daily Collegian

GIVE TO THE RED CROSS

VOL. 45—No. 15

WEDNESDAY MORNING, MARCH 5, 1947—STATE COLLEGE, PA.

PRICE FIVE CENTS

Late AP News

Courtesy Radio Station WMAJ

LONDON—Britain is expected to pass the Palestine question on to the United Nations at any moment, perhaps tomorrow. This word comes from authoritative sources along with the disclosure that UN officials are taking preliminary steps to expedite an inquiry into the Holy Land problem.

WASHINGTON—In an urgent note from Greece to the State Department the Greek government literally begged American money to meet immediate needs, and for American experts.

Secretary of State George Marshall said yesterday that Greece is on the verge of economic collapse. He added that granting aid to the Greeks is a matter of primary importance to the United States.

Britain will reduce her forces in Greece despite United States offers of financial aid, government sources say.

WASHINGTON—State Secretary Marshall testified before the Senate Foreign Affairs committee that hundreds of thousands of occupational troops maintained by the Big Four can be removed if there is quick approval of peace treaties with Italy, Hungary, Bulgaria and Roumania.

DUNKIRK—A far-reaching agreement was reached by France and Britain yesterday when they signed a treaty to act jointly against any future aggression by Germany. The alliance is binding for fifty years. The ceremony took place against the tragic backdrop of Dunkirk, where British arms suffered their worst defeat in World War II.

MEXICO CITY—A gay fiesta day in colorful Mexico City greeted President Truman yesterday. Crowds surging to enter the national stadium trampled two persons to death and injured four others.

Mexican President Aleman called his guest "the new champion of the solidarity and understanding among the American Republics." Mr. Truman in return proposed a toast to Aleman as the "perfect host and a great man."

Council Appoints Committee Heads

Committeemen for Pollock Circle Council were appointed at a recent meeting by Albert Honig, president. The chairmen and their committees are as follows: Harry Dunegan, cultural; Edward Hinkle, recreation; Edmund Koval, scholarship; George Lychkoff, health and sanitation.

Donald Mitchell, fire prevention; John Mulhall, athletics; Bernard Pollack, program; Milton Shapiro, public works; William Steiner, public safety; and James Stevenson, social.

Council discussed the possibility of joining ISC as a member organization and appointed Ray Gold as a representative on the Student Union Committee to succeed Emory Brown who has moved from Pollock Circle.

Permission was granted for the Council President to represent the Council and to sign for any movements against race discrimination.

Old business which was reviewed included a discussion on the installation of dust filters, funds and treasurer's report, fire fighting procedure and scholarship reports.

I Like 'Em All

"When you get my age, they're all cute," said Mr. Kaye Vinson, owner of Kaye's Korner, when asked to nominate the typical Penn State coed.

"However, I think she would be neat, happy-go-lucky, and always enjoying herself. It's going to be a hard job to pick one out of the bunch," he said.

Home Economics Club

All members are urged to attend a meeting of the Home Economics Club in Room 110, Home Economics building, at 7 o'clock tomorrow evening.

Fee Payments Monday

Fees for the spring semester will be paid in Recreation Hall from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday with no break at noon.

Six windows will be devoted to the distribution of AA books. Three windows will be for veterans. Married students can get an extra book by paying $1.50 tax providing they show proof of their marriage.

Mortar Board Backs Drive

"Will you donate a quarter to give some Belgian or French child a book so they can learn to read and write?" That question will be asked many times during the next few weeks.

Mortar Board, senior women's society, is starting a campaign to collect funds to sponsor a school in Europe to replace one that was destroyed by the Germans.

According to Joan Harrington, Mortar Board president, students will be contacted in their living units for contributions. Organizations and townspeople will be canvassed.

Dr. Howard Kershner, vice-chairman of the Save the Children Federation, Inc., who spoke at the College recently, told of the great need for school buildings and supplies to give the children in Europe an opportunity to learn to read and write.

"The funds collected in this drive will be sent to the Save the Children Federation, who will care for the school," said Miss Harrington. "The size of the school Penn State will sponsor will depend upon the generosity of the students."

Choir Adds Members; Plans Easter Program

Nineteen members have been added to the Chapel Choir, making a total of 110, according to Mrs. Willa Taylor, director. The group is now planning an Easter program with an orchestral background.

The additions include June Corson, Elizabeth DeMuro, Phyllis Mask, and Gloria Trovaidi, soprano section; Gladys Cheesbrough, Helen Reed, and Phyllis Starr, alto section.

Bernard Byers, Howard Cox, James Farrell, James Mitchell, David Ralinston, and Clifford Taylor, tenor section; Donald Myers and Elwood Stefler, baritone section; Gerald Gilman, David Norris, Andrew Petrunchik, and Roy Rumbaugh, bass section.

Four Entries in, as Search Widens for Typical Coed

Froth, sponsor of the All-American Coed of 1947 contest at Penn State, reported last night that four entries have been submitted to the Student Union office. Meanwhile, males young and old, rich and poor, were still commenting on their version of the typical College coed.

Walter C. "Dad" Larson, 76-year-old Spanish-American War veteran, said, "The ideal college girl is a good entertainer and a good story teller in a manner reflecting a lot of self-respect and dignity."

Switching to the negative approach, "Dad" added, "I don't like some of the girls around here because of the sloppy shoes and dirty overall, they wear, and some with their hair blowing all over their heads as if they didn't know what a comb was for."

After a great deal of prompting, Herbert Inhoof offered his 12-year-old version of what a typical American coed should be like when he said, "She should be able to play baseball and be a good dancer." Then he added shyly, "She ought to be a good housekeeper like my mother too."

The strong arm of the law in the person of Captain Mark, head of the Campus Patrol, said, "My recent visit to Atherton Hall during a fire drill at 2 o'clock in the morning upset completely my previous satisfactory conceptions of beautiful Penn State coeds."

Meanwhile, Peter Bates, a student at the College, was interviewed in the office of Burgess Yougel, where he was appearing for a traffic violation. Temporarily on the outs with the law, Bates

Four Compete For Quill Girl

Graduating senior women will elect the annual Quill Girl during the week of March 10, according to Lynette Lundquist, president of Theta Sigma Phi, women's national journalism honorary.

Theta Sigma Phi, which sponsors the election, will select the annual Cap and Matrix Girls. Their names will be announced along with Quill Girl at the annual Matrix table March 17 at the Nittany Lion Inn.

Candidates for Quill Girl are Joan Harrington, president of Mortar Board; Mary Margaret Barnett, president of Junior Service Board; Jean Nelson, president of WSGA; and Ann Baker, president of WRA.

The girl most outstanding in activities will be chosen Cap Girl while the girl who has done the most for the College will be chosen Matrix Girl.

Dean Questions Fast Education

Addressing the representatives of 48 member chapters of the Middle Atlantic Regional American Veterans Committee, Dean Ben Euwema of the School of Liberal Arts, cautioned all students not to "short change" themselves educationally, last Sunday.

The student veteran, he said, is attempting to rush through college too fast. More stress should be given to courses which will stimulate thought, he added.

William L. Batt Jr., vice-chairman of the Middle Atlantic Region, who opened the one-day conference, stressed industry's need of men and women with specialized skills. It was his belief, however, that a practical education was not irreconcilable with a liberal education. In this Dean Euwema concurred.

The chief problems dealt with at the conference were veterans' subsistences, housing, and the post-war educational scene.

In connection with veterans' subsistences, a resolution was made calling upon Congress to enact HR 870, introduced by Edith N. Rogers, Mass., and providing for an increase in subsistence. This bill is now in committee. Letters and post cards to congressmen were asked for in order to bring the bill into open hearing. Petitions, now at the student union desk, will be sent to Mrs. Rogers. (Continued on page two)

Players' Production of Skylark Features Sophisticated Comedy

"Skylark," a sophisticated comedy in which Gertrude Lawrence starred a few seasons ago, will be produced by the Penn State Players Friday and Saturday nights at the State College Hotel, and will be continued on various dates through the semester.

The show is an arena production. The audience will be seated around the four sides of the main dining room of the hotel while the action of the play will take place in the center. After the play, refreshments will be served.

Police 'Tag' 165 Vehicles

State College borough police placed tickets on 165 motor vehicles Sunday and Monday nights for violations of the borough ordinance which prohibits parking on local streets between 2 and 6 a.m.

Most of the parking violations were made by members of the College's fraternities and, according to Chief Burgess Alfred Yougel, tickets were given because vehicles interfered with the operation of snow plows. Cars which did not hinder snow-removal were not ticketed, although the borough ordinance specifically bans all overnight parking.

Chief of Police John Juba said that the ordinance is actually in effect throughout the year but is enforced only two or three times a year when snow plows are needed to clear the town's streets.

Student complaints on the issuance of tickets were based on the fact that there was no previous warning and that facilities for parking their cars off the streets do not exist in State College.

The borough authorities suggested that cars be parked on vacant lots of private owners, but admitted that they had no real solution to offer.

Police teams accompanied plow crews and ticketed vehicles which did not permit adequate clearing of streets.

Engineer Sells Booths For Fifth Annual Dance

Booths for the fifth annual Engineer Slide Rule Ball, March 15, go on sale at the Student Union desk in Old Main today. Checks for the booths which are selling for $4 each should be made out to the Penn State Engineer, according to Herbert Locke.

Any organization or group of men can get a booth. Only 44 booths may be sold in accordance with College authorities, so those organizations contacting Student Union first will receive the booths. Deadline for booths is Saturday noon.

Tickets for the Slide Rule Ball went on sale yesterday, being sold by members of the Penn State Engineer, staff and members of the Engineering Student Council. Priced at $3.60, the tickets will be sold at Student Union and at the Athletic Store beginning March 13.

Committee for the dance is Herbert Locke, chairman; Nicholas Bilbo, advertising and publicity; Leon Lock, tickets; and Kenneth Harschbarger, decorations.

Future Farmers Hold Second Barn Dance

The second annual F.F.A. Barn Dance will be held in the Stock Pavilion from 9 to 12 Saturday evening according to Ann Buganich, chairman of the dance.

Jim Freyersmith and his Bald Eagle Ramblers will furnish the music for the square dancing. The admission price is seventy-five cents per couple and forty cents per person.

Assisting Miss Buganich will be Robert L. Smith, publicity; Dewey Brumbaugh, tickets; Lorin Weigart, refreshments; Lee Dymond, decorations; and Jim Freyersmith, music.

Police 'Tag' 165 Vehicles

State College borough police placed tickets on 165 motor vehicles Sunday and Monday nights for violations of the borough ordinance which prohibits parking on local streets between 2 and 6 a.m.

Most of the parking violations were made by members of the College's fraternities and, according to Chief Burgess Alfred Yougel, tickets were given because vehicles interfered with the operation of snow plows. Cars which did not hinder snow-removal were not ticketed, although the borough ordinance specifically bans all overnight parking.

Chief of Police John Juba said that the ordinance is actually in effect throughout the year but is enforced only two or three times a year when snow plows are needed to clear the town's streets.

Student complaints on the issuance of tickets were based on the fact that there was no previous warning and that facilities for parking their cars off the streets do not exist in State College.

The borough authorities suggested that cars be parked on vacant lots of private owners, but admitted that they had no real solution to offer.

Police teams accompanied plow crews and ticketed vehicles which did not permit adequate clearing of streets.

Individual tickets can be purchased at Student Union one week in advance. Group arrangements must be made at the dramatics office.

There are two remaining Players productions to be given this semester. "The Barretts of Wimpole Street" will be presented under the direction of Mr. Kelly Yeaton April 24, 25, and 26.

"I Remember Mama" will be given on Mother's Day weekend, May 8, 9, and 10. It will be directed by Mr. Robert Reifneider.

News Briefs

Dean Warnock
Arthur R. Warnock, Dean of Men, will be the guest speaker at the annual Blue Key banquet to be held at the State College Hotel at 7 o'clock tonight.

Penn State Grange
All members of the Penn State Grange and those interested in joining are urged to attend an open house at 100 Horticulture, 7:30 o'clock tomorrow. There will be square dancing and refreshments, according to Joseph Slick, publicity chairman.

Alpha Tau Alpha
Randall Campbell was recently elected president of Alpha Tau Alpha, national agricultural education honorary. Others elected are Joseph Sick, vice-president; Earl Fox, secretary; Herbert Heberleik, treasurer; Dewey Brumbaugh, sergeant-at-arms; and Chester Lathrop, reporter.

Lion Coats
Graduating seniors can order their Lion Coats at Student Union this week, Catherine Garrett, chairman, said. The price is $1.90 and deadline is Saturday. The Lion Coats committee also includes Paul Bender, Wayne LaPoe, Marie Schanbacher, Patricia Trester, and Charles Zink.

Dean's List
Joseph F. Miller, Jr., has been added to the Dean's List for the School of Engineering. Miller, a sophomore in electrical engineering, compiled an average of 2.66.

Alpha Delta Sigma
Mr. Robert VanSlambrouck, instructor in journalism, will speak at the meeting of Alpha Delta Sigma, professional advertising fraternity, at 7:15 o'clock, according to Professor Donald Davis of the journalism department.

Yougel Squelches Rumor

According to Burgess Alfred E. Yougel, the borough manager of State College draws a salary of $5100 per year. Yougel offered this information in order to squelch rumors among some students that the borough manager had a salary ranging up to $25,000.

Clerk Nominates Clerk

Mrs. Linda Draper, a clerk at G. C. Murphy's, nominates a co-worker, Miss Nancy Hawthorne, as the typical Penn State coed. "Mary gives a neat appearance, is a good sport, and is always happy with both her work and her school books," Mrs. Draper said.