BULLETIN

Additional nominations to the WRA and WSGA slates were made last night at a meeting in 110 Home Economics building.

Candidates added to the WRA slate were Renee Mowles and Jacqueline Wengert, vice-president; and Betty Vandenberg, intramural chairman.

Other WSGA nominations were Jane Fouracre, Eleanor Kelly, Patricia Kincaid, and Terry Klosterman, treasurer.

Ruth Hatfield, Jean Posey, and Jacqueline Zivic, senior senator; Madelyn Bush, Laura Johnston, Elizabeth Parkhurst, Mona Smulyan, and Betty Williams, junior senator.

The judicial records and averages of the new nominees will be checked, said WSGA President Jean Nelson.

Runner-up for WSGA president will be secretary and runner-up for vice-president, one of the junior senators.

Positions which will be filled by sophomores next fall are secretary-treasurer, assistant intramural chairman, and sophomore representative, all of WRA. Sophomore senator is the opening on WSGA.

WRA and WSGA primaries and elections will be held in the dormitories instead of Old Main as was the custom, according to WRA President Ann Baker.

The proposal came from the WRA Executive Board in the hope that more girls would turn out to vote.

Polls will be set up in Atherton Hall, McAllister Hall, Grange Dormitory, Watts Hall, Irvin Hall, and Jordan Hall. Women living in town dormitories and private homes will vote in the Dean of Women's office.

Primaries will be held from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., March 18, and elections from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., March 21.

LA COUNCIL

Four vacancies were filled in the LA Student Council at an election held last night at 7 o'clock in 10 Sparks, according to Ted Rubin, president.

Those elected were Herbert S. Abrams, Howard Back, Bunny Rosenthal and Selma Zasofsky. Twenty-five students had been nominated for the positions.

WASHINGTON—United States foreign policy is being made on three levels. And future security may depend on whether those three levels can be merged.

In Moscow, the policy-shapers of the Big Four powers have taken a step forward in their face-to-face conference.

At Lake Success, the United Nations are still working on a joint program to harness the atom.

And in Washington, President Truman has gone of Congress with a direct bid to invest four hundred million dollars in the Mediterranean.

WASHINGTON—The Chief Executive told a joint session of the Senate and House that money, guns and troops must be sent to Greece and Turkey. He admitted that the huge investment would go into a bulwark against Communism.

But Republican Representative Thomas Owens of Illinois made this statement, "The United Nations died today."

WASHINGTON—The United States Chamber of Commerce issued a report entitled "Communists Within the Labor Movement." It charged that differences with Russia may inspire American Communists to touch off a round of strikes. The spokesmen for business urged both employers and workers to oust Communists from union leadership.

Matrix Guest

MRS. VIRGINIA G. McCONE, director of Retail Merchandising for the Ladies' Home Journal, will speak at the 10th annual Matrix Table at the Nittany Lion Inn Monday.

The speaker, formerly advertising manager of John Wanamaker's Philadelphia Store, is a graduate of Stanford University. Not solely a business woman, she is the mother of two children, aged 7 and 10 years.

Artists Revive Costume Ball

The Beaux Art Ball, annual costume dance sponsored by Scarab, architectural honorary, and Pi Gamma Alpha (art honorary) will again be revived on campus April 12, for the first time since 1939, reported Edward Lenker, publicity chairman of the dance.

"In past years," said Lenker, "this costume ball was one of the largest and most popular dances of the school year. This year we hope to restore the affair to its former popularity."

Commenting on past dances, Lenker said that students came to the ball dressed in anything from orange crates to Frankenstein, and that prizes were awarded for the prettiest, most original, most humorous, and other costumes. Sometimes a queen was chosen to reign over the dance.

The Beaux Art Ball is strictly a student affair, Lenker made clear, and will feature the Campus Owls Orchestra. All advertising and decorations will be original and done by students in the art and architectural departments.

He also said that the dance is being held after the Easter vacation to enable students to look for original costumes at home.

Committee heads for the ball are Robert Christensen, chairman; Betty Schmitt, decorations; Patricia Meily, entertainment; Edward Ghezzi, program; William Skelly, finances; and Lenker, publicity.

SU Donations Nearly $6800

Almost $6800 has been contributed to or earmarked for a student union building fund, it was revealed today by Carl R. Barnes, executive accountant for the College.

The Class of 1945, with a gift of $3382.87, and WSGA, contributor of $2,000, head the list of donors and were specific in designating the money be used toward a student union building.

Other contributions intended for "general student benefit" have been channeled into the fund. They include $1,000 donated by Walter E. Fausel, $200 from J. A. Anley, $100 from C. R. Mason and $102.50 in cash and war bonds from A. J. Henehen.

Talent Night Names Judges

Five judges have been selected to determine the winners of the cash prizes in the Penn State Club's All-College Talent Night program, at Schwab Auditorium Friday.

Students on the judging staff are Vera Slezak, Ben French and Stephen Sinichak. Two faculty members will complete the group.

A dozen acts are included in the show, and the Modernaires have been signed to provide a musical background, according to Hugh Odza, Penn State Club publicity chairman.

Tickets priced at thirty cents are now on sale at Student Union.

PA Films Show World Hunger

Europe's need for food will be the theme for today's Public Affairs Films, announced Miss Jean Moore, chairman of the Public Affairs Film committee.

There will be only three showings today, Miss Moore added, at 10 a.m., 2:20 and 4:20 p.m. The evening presentation has been cancelled, she said.

The featured film in 10 Sparks today is "World of Plenty." Its companion picture, "Our Children," forcibly demonstrates the responsibility of the United States to see that food is adequately distributed.

"World of Plenty," according to Miss Moore, shows that there is an adequate supply of food in the world. Both films, she pointed out, have been selected in order to cooperate with the current ESCA drive to send food to Europe.

"The problem of feeding Europe is largely one of distribution," explained Miss Moore. "These films show why it is vitally important to us as world citizens to provide food for all, and thus insure peace, through a healthy new generation."

Students Plan Capital Trip

Fred Kecker will head the Penn State delegation of students attending the Inter-Collegiate Government Conference in Harrisburg April 18, said Edward Abernethy, publicity chairman.

The entire convention will be patterned after a model state legislature including floor debates, committee reports and other law-making procedures. Governor Duff will present the opening address. All committee meetings will be conducted in the Capitol building.

Every college and university in Pennsylvania will be represented at the convention, said Abernethy. The Penn-Harris Hotel has been designated as student headquarters during the conference.

All students interested in machine politics, legislative procedure and governmental operations are invited to join the delegation. Professor M. Nelson McGeary, professor of political science, is in charge of the trip.

Students who wish to attend the convention should contact McGeary as soon as possible. A preliminary meeting for all interested students will be held in 119 Sparks at 2:20 Tuesday afternoon. The political science department wishes to remind students that the conference is not limited to those majoring in political science.

AA Books

Students entitled to Athletic Association books who have not yet picked them up may do so as soon as possible at the Athletic Association window in Old Main.

Forum Speakers

H. R. Knickerbocker

Walter Duranty

Engineer Gives Awards at Ball

Presentation of two awards will be featured at the annual Engineer Slide Rule Ball this Saturday.

Winner of the $50 scholarship given annually by the Penn State Engineer will be announced. This scholarship was open to any student registered in the School of Engineering and was awarded on the basis of necessity.

The queen, who has been chosen by Edward Thornton of the New York model agency from coed photos submitted, will receive a loving cup engraved with her name and title as queen.

Charles Hoyt, ticket chairman, requests that all Engineer Student Council members and Engineer staff having tickets turn them in to 416 Old Main by 5 o'clock today.

Tickets will go on sale at Student Union Friday morning and at the Athletic Store Saturday. Only 1500 tickets will be sold, said Hoyt.

PSCA Divides Dance Class

Registration for the PSCA dancing class is so large, according to Bruce Wennerstrom, director of the class, that he has decided to conduct two classes per night.

The first class in the Fox-Trot will begin at 7 and a Lindy class at 8 tonight. Due to this large number no more students can be accepted in either class at the present time. All students interested may sign the waiting list at the PSCA office.

Any student having sufficient experience in dancing and is interested in instruction assistance is requested by Mr. Wennerstrom to contact the CA secretary or report to room 417 Old Main at 6:45 today.

Forum Lecture To Feature Russia Debate

Walter Duranty and H. R. Knickerbocker, veteran journalists and foreign correspondents, will debate on "Can Russia Be Part of 'One World?'" in the fifth of the series of Community Forum lectures in Schwab Auditorium at 8 o'clock.

Knickerbocker, roving correspondent for International News Service and Pulitzer Prize winner, says of Russia, "Its government is neither by nor of the people although it claims to be for the people."

Duranty, the Author

Duranty, author of several books on Soviet Russia, maintains that Russia wants only to live in peace in order to develop its own vast resources and to repair its war damages.

"It has so much territory at home," he says, "to be thinking about imperialism or world communism, which Stalin and its present leaders have progressively thrown overboard."

A native of Texas, Knickerbocker went to New York at the age of 20, after study at Southern Methodist University and Texas A. and M., and took a course in journalism at Columbia University.

Four years later, a succession of newspaper jobs behind him, including positions with the New York Sun and the New York Post, he sailed for Germany and enrolled at the University of Munich to study psychiatry.

Launched as Journalist

The Beer House Putsch in 1923 put an end to Knickerbocker's studies and launched him upon a career in journalism. Since then he has been dubbed by Alexander Woolcott "The Richard Harding Davis of our time."

News Briefs*PSCA Movie

"Palestine Question—A Powder Keg," a sound movie, will be shown at the joint meeting of the CA Club and Commission VI of PSCA in 304 Old Main at 7 o'clock. Following the film, Dr. Raymond Shibli, of the mathematics department will speak on Palestine. There will be dancing and refreshments after the meeting.

Dairy Science

Dr. Clare W. Pierce, professor of agriculture economics, will speak to the Dairy Science Club, 117 Dairy building, 7 o'clock tonight. Dr. Pierce has been on leave of absence with the Pittsburgh Dairy Council.

Andrew A. Borland, professor of dairy husbandry, will speak about the Dairy Exhibition to be held at the College May 10.

Circulo Espanol

Elaine Mahuran was elected president of Circulo Espanol, newly formed Spanish club, at its first meeting Tuesday night. Mary Velasquez was elected vice-president; Sylvia Schenfeld, secretary; and George Ginty, treasurer.

Hobby Bulletin

A hobby bulletin has been posted on the Student Union bulletin board for registration of individual and group hobbies. Students possessing or desiring hobbies are requested to sign their names on the placard, said F. F. Morris, chairman of the Committee on Hobbies.

X-GI Club Dance

X-GI Club is sponsoring a dance at Woodman's Hall at 8 p.m. Saturday.

Men from Pollock Circle will be guests and will be admitted by their meal tickets; regular club members will be admitted on their membership cards, said Mort Grossman and Martin Freedman, co-publicity chairmen.
