

Lacrossemen Open Season Against Duke Blue Devils

Penn State's 1947 lacrosse team will play 11 games this season with Duke University and Washington and Lee on its first southern trip since pre-war days, Graduate Manager of Athletics Neil M. Fleming announced recently.

The Lion stickmen open their season against the Blue Devils at Durham April 7, with the W. & L. game scheduled for the following day at Lexington, Va.

Five home games are booked for Coach Nick Thiel's team, with home-and-away games being played with Sampson College and single games with Loyola College of Baltimore, Syracuse, Drexel and Swarthmore.

NEWCOMERS

Four newcomers, Duke, W. & L., Sampson and Colgate, are on the schedule and are expected to field experienced teams, according to Coach Thiel.

Last year's squad won seven while losing to Army, Navy and Johns Hopkins—the big three of lacrosse.

Navy is the only opponent from the big three to meet the Lions this season.

"It looks as if I'll have to develop new men to strengthen the squad which will compete against the strong competition we have to face this season," said Thiel as practice sessions began in preparation for the opener less than four weeks away.

NOLAN OUT

John Nolan, 1946 All-American, did not return for the Spring semester because of illness at home and Thiel expects difficulty in finding someone to fill the gap in midfield.

Holdovers include defensemen Art Tenhula and goalie Bill Hollanbach, both members of the All-North squad in '46. Both were named to the '46 All-American lacrosse squad.

Tenhula will be moved to the midfield spot this season, said Thiel.

The schedule:

April 7, Duke at Durham, N. C.; 8, Washington and Lee at Lexington, Va.; 19, Loyola at State College; 26, Navy at Annapolis, Md.

May 3, Syracuse at State College; 7, Sampson College at Sampson, N. Y.; 10, Drexel at State College; 16, Colgate at Hamilton, N. Y.; 17, Hobart at Geneva, N. Y.; 24, Swarthmore at State College; and 31, Sampson College at State College.

NROTC Rifle Team Wins; ROTC Takes 2 Out of 3

By their recent victories over the Universities of Missouri, Nebraska, and New Mexico, the NROTC has maintained their undefeated record in rifle competition; while the pistol team also remains in the winning column with their victories over Northwestern, Oklahoma, and the NROTC staff.

The ROTC rifle squad has also added the University of Pittsburgh and Montana State to their list of victories, but recently lost to the Oregon State cadets. Their match with the Lehigh ROTC team has been cancelled.

Tennis Schedule

Tennis, a wartime casualty at Penn State, will be revived this Spring with the opening match against Georgetown at Washington, D.C., April 18.

Neil M. Fleming, graduate manager of athletics, said 12 matches have been booked, six at home and six on the road.

The schedule:

April 18, Georgetown, at Washington, D. C.; 19, Maryland at College Park, Md.; 26, Davidson, May 3, Pittsburgh; 6, Cornell; 10, Colgate; 16, Syracuse, at Syracuse; 17, Colgate, at Hamilton; 21, Bucknell; 24, Pittsburgh, at Pittsburgh; 28, Pennsylvania, at Philadelphia; 31, Syracuse.

Jack Biery High Scorer

Jack Biery, averaging 12 points per game, led the Penn State scoring parade in the 1946-47 basketball season with a total of 218 points in 18 games.

But it was Bruce Dietterick, reserve center at the season's beginning, who set a new modern Penn State scoring record in the Lawthermen's last game of the season against Colgate. His total for the night was 27 points.

Biery had previously set the record at 25 points for a single game at Susquehanna in the season's opener. He also equalled his Rec Hall record of 22 points—set originally in 1942—in the home West Virginia game.

Second in the Lion scoring was Johnny Rusinko with 181 points followed by little Milt Simon with 142.

Incidentally, Jack Biery, and Simon were the only Nittany Lion cagers mentioned on the AP All-Pennsylvania selections. Both made honorable mention.

The Lawthermen throughout the season tallied a total of 870 points against 799 for their opponents. Game average was 48-44 in favor of the Lions.

Between the Lions

By BEN FRENCH

The boxing intercollegiate last weekend proved to be a surprise to everyone but Lion coach Leo Houck. Leo predicted that there would be many upsets and that Penn State would have a better chance than the dopesters anticipated.

Jim Cassidy is just as confused about that knockout in his Saturday night fight as are the fans who saw it. Cassidy told us after the fight, "one minute I was boxing and the next thing I saw was Dr. Greiss looking down in my face."

No one seemed to see a knockout punch thrown. Only two solutions are a short jab thrown in the clinch or Cassidy was butted down in the clinch. Only mark on Jim is a bruise under his right eye.

Jackie Tighe was congratulated by his father, an ex-fighter himself, after the Lion captain won the 165-pound title. Jackie was protecting a cut on his nose received at the Michigan State meet the week before.

For a while early last week, Tighe, with three stitches in his nose, was doubtful if he could enter the tourney. Rollier, Tighe's opponent in the finals, fought the same type of defensive fight at Syracuse a few weeks ago and the referee called it a draw.

Goodman trophy winner Glenn Hawthorne was rated by Coach Houck as the best looking boxer in the tourney. Houck is trying to talk Glenn into making the trip to Madison, Wis. late this month for the National tourney but Glenn says he wants to concentrate on his studies and responsibilities as father of his ten-month-old daughter Susan.

Susan was at the fights Saturday and started to cry while her father was in the ring. Glenn said he could recognize the cry and looked around a couple of times during the fight. A picture of Susan, Mrs. Hawthorne, and Glenn adorned the sports page of the Pittsburgh Press last week.
