MOSCOW—The first indication that the Moscow Conference may reach a compromise on Germany came last night. Secretary of State George Marshall and Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov agreed that the four powers might be able to reconcile their positions.

Authoritative sources think France soon will try to break the deadlock on Germany by proposing an 8,000,000-ton steel capacity, also a compromise on the reparations-export program clash between Russia and the western powers.

PALESTINE—One British policeman was killed in the Holy Land last night when a bomb exploded among a group of Britons returning from a motion picture. Five other Britons were injured. The incident occurred between Haifa and Tel Aviv.

SALONIKA—A Greek government representative says that today will see the launching of full-scale military operations against guerrillas. He says the activity will get under way near the Albanian frontier in the Mount Gremmos area.

ASUNCION—From the South American Republic of Paraguay come unconfirmed peace reports. Rumor has it that negotiations aimed at preventing further bloodshed in the 13-day-old civil war are under way between government forces and the insurgents who control the northeastern part of Paraguay.

LAKE SUCCESS—The United Nations Atomic Energy Commission turned the whole problem of atomic energy control over to committees. The action was unanimous. (Continued on page two)

Chemists Speak For Student ACS

To stimulate interest in the formation of a student branch, the American Chemical Society will sponsor talks by three Penn State chemists at an open meeting in 119 New Physics at 7:30 tonight. Dean Frank C. Whitmore, of the School of Chemistry and Physics; Dr. R. Adams Dutcher, head of the department of agricultural and biological chemistry; and Dr. A. W. Gauger, director of Mineral Industries Research, will discuss "What I Would Do If I Were a Young Chemist."

Dr. Dutcher presents the agricultural and biological aspects of chemistry. Ceramics, fuel technology, and metallurgy will be emphasized by Dr. Gauger. Dean Whitmore will cover the fields of inorganic, analytical, organic and physical chemistry.

In extending an invitation to the public, Dr. C. R. Kinney, professor of fuel technology and secretary of the Central Pennsylvania Section of the A.C.S., said that the wide scope of the discussions should help chemistry students decide in which field to specialize.

Drama Laboratory Airsteels Play on WMAJ

"Luck" by Wilbur Daniel Steele will be presented by the Drama Laboratory over WMAJ 2:30 Sunday afternoon in the fourth of a weekly series. Portman Paget will direct the show. Twenty-five members of Mr. Kelly Yeaton's Drama 480 class work in the Drama Laboratory. Winfield Clearwater, Richard Frontman, Irving Feldsott, Margaret Heagy, and Frank Palmer have parts in this week's production.

Because of technical difficulties encountered during the first three programs, Mr. Yeaton expressed an urgent need for any student with experience as a sound effects man. Also desired, he added, are radio scripts of local problems—as long as they are not too dull.

Mr. Yeaton has been using Kozlenko's collection of "100 Non-Royalty Radio Plays" to find suitable scripts for the show.

WRA Head Names Primary Victors

Ann Baker, president of WIRA, has announced the balloting results from Tuesday's primary elections.

Claire Parks and Lee Ann Wagner are finalists for the office of WIRA president.

Claire Lee and Delores Piccone are leading nominees for the office of vice-president.

Pauline Globish and Nancy Romig are competing for intramural chairman of WIRA.

WRA President

ANN BAKER

The positions of secretary-treasurer, assistant intramural chairman and two sophomore representatives cannot be filled until next fall due to the absence of freshman women last fall.

WIRA and WSGA final elections will be held in the women's dormitories and at SU from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday.

A total of 902 coeds voted in the WSGA-WIRA primaries this year, as compared to a total of 500 women voting in the primaries and 800 in the final elections last year.

WIRA Executive Board proposed the new system of voting in the dormitories and at SU, in place of the custom of holding the polls in Old Main, in the hope that more coeds would turn out for the voting.

Elections Committee

New appointees to the All-College Elections Committee, at the recent meeting of Cabinet, were Robert Britton, Robert Evans, and Ted Rubin.

Women To Submit Entries For La Vie's Belles Section

Entries for the Belles Section of the first post-war La Vie may be submitted by all women's organizations, according to Stephen Sinichak, photographic editor.

The contest is open to all senior women students. A 5x7 or larger photograph of the entrant should be submitted to Student Union not later than next Wednesday, March 26.

Senior members of the La Vie staff will choose six women from the contestants for the Belles Section.

Winners will be announced in the Daily Collegian. Appointments for photographs to be taken will be mailed to the winners.

The Belles Section has been a major feature of the annual publication of La Vie, although this section was omitted in the war issue.

PA Films Picture Democracy at Work

The workings of American democracy will be shown in two Public Affairs films today. The two films, "You the People" and "The Gallup Poll" will be shown in 10 Sparks at 10, 2:20 and 4:20 o'clock.

"You, the People" is from the MGM "Crime Does Not Pay" series. It dramatically portrays the fight of one city for an honest election.

In this movie one gets a warning of the many ways that may be used by unscrupulous politicians to "fix" elections. The idea is also put across that every citizen can do something to fight crooked politics.

Seven Pre-Med Seniors Enter Medical Schools

Seven pre-medical seniors have been accepted for September admission into four different medical schools, according to Dr. James H. Olewine, pre-medical advisor.

Jefferson Medical College in Philadelphia seems to be first choice of the students, with four resuming their studies there. They are William W. McBride, James McCowry, Robert McLaughlin, and James Thompson.

Also studying in Philadelphia will be Miss Eleanor Aurand at University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine and James Sommerfeld at Hahnemann Medical School. Elfreem Fieldman was accepted by Long Island College of Medicine.

Trouble Again Stalks Lounge-Lizard Car; Catches on Fire

The evil spirit that seems to be locked in the hood of Carl Tandler's Crossley, making it do things entirely out of character for an automobile, got loose again Tuesday.

Damage estimated at $300 resulted when fire broke out in Tandler's abbreviated motor vehicle, parked in the 200 block of W. College avenue.

When last seen by the Collegian the Crossley was furniture in the lounge of Dorm 4, Pollock Circle. How it got there was never satisfactorily determined. How it got out is another mystery.

Possibility that a short circuit in the wiring system had caused the blaze was advanced by Tandler, but it seems more likely that the fire was actually judgement day catching up with a non-conformist automobile.

Free Movies

Common Sense Club will sponsor free movies at Schwab Auditorium beginning at 7 p.m. Saturday. More than two hours of films have been scheduled for the program.

"The Thirty-Nine Steps" and "The Spanish Earth," the latter a documentary film on the Spanish Civil War, will be shown.

Pundt Speaks At LA Series

Dr. Alfred G. Pundt, associate professor of history at the College, will speak on "Germany's Academic Goose-Step" at the second of the Liberal Arts lecture series to be held in 121 Sparks, 8 o'clock tonight.

Dr. Pundt, who has travelled in Europe, was in France when World War II started in September, 1939. Entering the Army in 1942, he was assigned to Military Intelligence Service and worked with the German Order of Battle.

He later was transferred to European Civil Affairs Division and became chief of the Educational and Religious Affairs Branch for Bavaria.

His work, which continued until he was relieved from active duty in the grade of major in June, 1946, was concerned with the de-Nazification and reopening of schools in Bavaria.

A native of Iowa, Dr. Pundt received his bachelor's degree from the State University of Iowa. He received his advanced degrees from Columbia University and has been on the faculty at the College since 1931.

250 Receive Sketch Requests

Requests for biographical sketches to appear in "Who's Who in the News" have been sent to 250 students, according to Stephen Sinichak, editor.

Students to be included in Penn State's Who's Who had been chosen by a Selections Committee last week.

Those selected will have until April 3 to return the biographical information requested, Sinichak said.

"The book will give much-needed recognition to those students who have been doing such a worthy job on campus. I wish the publishers of 'Who's Who in the News' success in their initial venture," said Robert T. Foote, All-College President.

The book, which is being published by Sigma Delta Chi, National Journalism Fraternity, and Theta Sigma Phi, National Women's Journalism Honorary, will become a permanent annual publication.

It will feature the students prominent in the news, limelight at the College. Publication is expected early in May. Meryl Brown was selected as assistant editor.

Casts Chosen for Players' Shows; Davis, Baum Head First Production

Casts have been selected for the two Players shows, "The Barretts of Wimpole Street," to be given April 24, 25, and 26, and "I Remember Mama," scheduled for Mother's Day weekend, May 8, 9, and 10.

Barbara Ann Davis as Elizabeth Barrett and Martin Baum as Robert Browning have the leading roles in "The Barretts of Wimpole Street." They are supported by Harry Natschke as Mr. Browning. The rest of the cast includes Anne Marie Condrin, Gerald Gilman, Laura Johnston, Raymond Kelly, James Latz, James McCoy, Jerome Sittkin, William Bruce Sloan, Jane Staus, and Frederick Vogel.

College Orators Meet; Open State Convention

Students from 18 colleges and universities will convene at the College for the Twelfth Annual Pennsylvania State Debators Convention tomorrow and Saturday, according to Joseph F. O'Brien, professor of speech and coach of the Men's Debate team, who has arranged the program.

General topics that the delegates will debate will include: "What is the best solution to labor strife in America?" and "What is the best solution to the problem of medical care in the United States?"

Each college will probably send six delegates to the convention, said Fred M. Kecker, convention manager. The department of speech will be host to the gathering.
