19 Sororities Come of Age

Red ribbons, pink and blue ribbons, blue and black ribbons, green and red ribbons—the epidemic of ribbons all over campus means that sorority rushing is nearly over and there are many new pledges.

Sororities are an accepted thing on the Penn State campus now, but how they began is an integral part of the women's 75th anniversary story.

It was a gradual development starting with the formation of small social clubs in 1922. The first step was to petition the Student Welfare Committee for approval. The understanding at that time was that the matter of "going national" should not even be considered until the spring of 1924.

Nita-Nee First Club
The first local club established was Nita-Nee, now Kappa Alpha Theta, in January 1922. Soon four others followed—Sychor (Kappa Kappa Gamma) in September 1922; La Camaraderie (Delta Gamma) in November 1922; Areta (Alpha Omicron Pi) in December 1922; and Alfost (Chi Omega) in January 1923.

After the original group was organized, rules were adopted for rushing and pledging additional members. The sororities banded together in the Campus Clubs Council, the forerunner of Panhellenic.

One of the early rules was that a year's residence was required before bidding. The Dean of Women and others felt that freshmen women had an advantage living together as one large group for a year without any fraternity distinction.

Bidding System Modified
The present system of having bids go through the Dean of Women's office is a modification of an older system. Dean Charlotte E. Ray, in a letter to the

Wonder Why No Cuts; Subject — or Prof Interesting

Reports from the pre-law majors have it that not all the lush specimens of femininity are limited to the student body. Upon investigation, the subject of this rumor was found to be Dr. Elaine Windrich, blue-eyed, early twenty-ish political science professor.

Miss Windrich, who came to the College from the University of California, claims she is still suffering from our ice box weather.

When asked to comment on the comparative beauty of the two campuses, the Californian flashed a post card picture of her alma mater's floral-bedecked Student Union.

Spring Rain
"Of course," she continued, "I've never seen Penn State in the Spring. Does it rain much here?" The question remains ignored.

An expert tennis player, Miss Windrich won the University of California singles championship when a freshman in 1938, and captured the California tennis club doubles cup in 1940.

Serious Students
Concerning the student body, Dr. Windrich said, "They're amazingly industrious, and there seems to be a minimum of cutting." (—and U. of C. doesn't have a Corner Room either.)

Incidentally, that Ph.D. degree was acquired in only two years' work without even a pause for a master's. Miss Windrich confesses, however, that it took 16 hours a day of slave labor.

Dean of Women at Colorado College in 1930, said:

"After about a week of rushing in September, each fraternity submits to a disinterested person (in our case one of the student pastors, Mr. Carruthers) a list of the girls whom it wishes to bid.

"Mr. Carruthers then notifies each girl thus bidden that she has been bidden to a fraternity. He encloses a sheet giving the names of the nine clubs and fraternities and asks the girl to number this in the order of her preference.

"When the girl thus bidden re-

The final play-off in the WRA bowling intramurals will be held in White Hall Tuesday night. Monday the Delta Zetas bowl against the Gamma Phi Betas and the winners will meet the Atherton Hall team Tuesday to decide the championship.

Women Greet Debate Team

The Women's squad met opponents from seven different schools in Sparks at 7 o'clock last night in a series of non-decision debates preceding the 11th Annual Debaters' Convention, which starts today at the College.

Penn opposed the College in the orthodox style debate. Seton Hill, Geneva, and Misericordia presented the affirmative, Temple the negative, and Susquehanna both the negative and the affirmative. The question was, "Resolved, that labor be given a direct share in the management of industry." Shippensburg also participated.

Rifle Telegraphics

The women's varsity rifle team defeated University of Oklahoma and Massachusetts State College by a margin of 15 points in their recent telegraphic meet.

The College team scored 498 out of 500 points over 483 for the Oklahoma women and 480 for Massachusetts.

Jean Posey, Laura Wiley and Miss Rickard scored perfect targets, Mary Goodwin and Joan Heath shooting 99 to complete the varsity score. Five highest out of ten targets are submitted for intercollegiate matches. Also shooting were Barbara Knoll and Laurie Zekauskas, 99; Joanne Houtz, 98; Betty Jane Sammons, 97, and Lovetta Dinius, 95.

The team will meet University of Wisconsin tomorrow in their last match of the season.
