

Singing on 'Key'

Although the Key Party ran a poor second in the elections last spring, their platform committee also set down an impressive list of "major objectives."

Inasmuch as only one of the three class presidents elected ran on a Key ticket, it shouldn't be beyond all hope that the student body could look forward to at least one-third of the platform being carried out.

Point number three on the platform attracts the eye of the voter. It suggests ways of making Penn State a more enjoyable place to attend.

Part of the formula for a "life of bliss" as set down in the platform was the promotion of recreational facilities on Sunday. Here the party representative in Cabinet got off to a fine start by sponsoring the senior class "Sheepskin Serenade."

The attendance was gratifying, and all indications pointed toward bigger and better "Serenades." Somewhere along the line the idea fizzled and it became a "one Sunday stand." As a result, Penn Staters are back again beating a path up to the Old Main tower on Sundays instead of enjoying the promised recreation.

Part two of point three in the platform reads,

Petitions of Interest

There are two petitions now sitting on the counter at Student Union window which warrant careful consideration and attention from the student-veterans on campus.

One petition supports Rep. Edith Rogers in her fight for HR 870, the House bill to increase veterans' subsistence.

The other goes to Senator Martin, backing the three-fold Senate bill to increase veterans' subsistence, on-the-job training and to reduce

"Foster coeducational swimming at the Glennland Pool." It is difficult to determine whether it is worse for the politicians to set down promises and never carry them out, or lure the voter with planks that have about as much chance of being carried out as you and your date have of swimming together in Glennland. They may as well have said the Nile River.

It is true that the College did provide an artificial pond for skating this winter, but they also charged ten cents for the use of it. As for adequate tennis court management, we'll have to wait and see.

Anyone who had difficulty getting to the Ski Lodge this winter should have approached the senior class president on the matter. It was his party that promised transportation both to the lodge and Whipple's Dam. We know that the ride to the lodge never materialized, but we'll be looking forward to the bus service to Whipple's when it gets a little warmer.

Fare? Why no, it's on the Key Party... they promised it as far back as last Spring. With only one man elected perhaps they could have settled for providing the transportation one-third of the way, or better yet, cut the platform down to one-third and carry it out.

the period of maturity for the terminal leave bond.

Since both bills are now in committee, the Penn State AVC chapter is anxious to have all veterans sign these petitions as quickly as possible so that they may aid in getting the bills out on the floor of the House.

So, if you want to increase veterans' subsistence or on-the-job training drop in at Student Union Desk before going home for the holidays.

Minutes of Cabinet Meeting

Charles Pfeegor, senior class president, read a letter from James Smith, acting chaplain of the College, announcing that Dr. Daniel Poling will speak at the Baccalaureate service, Sunday, June 8.

It was pointed out that Dr. Poling was one of the speakers suggested for commencement by the committee for improving commencement exercises.

Albert Green reported that an estimated $5000 to $6000 will be needed to purchase new uniforms for the Blue Band. Prof. Hummel Fishburn, head of the music department, recommended that class dues be increased fifty cents per student for two semesters to cover the cost. It was felt that this would be the only way the Veterans' Administration would pay the amount on veterans' fees.

Cabinet decided that this assessment would be presented in the new budget next month so that Cabinet could act upon it in time to have it voted upon by the student body at the All-College elections.

After a third reading before Cabinet, the amendment to Article 12, Section 2, of the All-College Constitution was passed by unanimous vote.

The section now reads, "Any amendment or revision by Cabinet must be placed before the student body for purposes of ratification at a general election if a petition requesting such action is signed by at least 300 students and presented to Cabinet within two weeks following the published announcement of passage of the amendment."

Cabinet also passed a motion of recommendation that the Interclass Finance Committee rules continue to require Cabinet's approval of tentative budgets for school council-sponsored activities requiring allotments from the committee.

However, it was pointed out that this budget could be an estimated one, so that school councils need not account for every penny in a proposed list of expenditures.

Cabinet agreed not to contribute to the campus Red Cross drive, since most members of the student body already have donated individually or through other groups.

A letter was read from Pollock Circle Council, stating that Pollock Circle wished to be included in the campus switchboard system to eliminate paying for campus calls from the Circle. The council requested Cabinet to approve a committee to investigate the matter.

Since Cabinet had already found it impossible to remedy the campus switchboard system because of the unavailability of equipment, it was suggested that the question be postponed until later in the semester, when more telephone equipment might be available.

However, Russell Smiley was asked to head a committee to contact Grounds and Buildings about revamping the entire campus telephone system for more efficient service.

Charles Willing, alternate to Eugene Fulmer in Cabinet, suggested that Robert Fredrickson, author of a Collegian letter advocating action toward better student-faculty relationships, be appointed to head a committee for that purpose.

It was decided that such activities should be left to the individual school councils.

Fred Kecker read a letter from the State College Community Forum, in which Cabinet participates. Each participating group, at the beginning of the season, had donated $25 to the fund for the forum series in Schwab Auditorium, and the forum now plans a meeting to decide what should be done with the $25, since the amount was not used for the forum series.

Cabinet agreed that the $25 should be kept in the forum fund to provide a bonus number in next year's Community Forum Series.

Robert Foote, All-College president, reported a suggestion that professor-rating questionnaires be used in the school councils.

The Liberal Arts Student Council and the Agriculture Student Council already use such a questionnaire, which permits the professor to learn what the students think of him as a professor and of the course as a whole.

Letters

Boxing Award

TO THE EDITOR: Last week some doubt was raised about boxers that received their letters and an explanation was called for.

Article XIV of the constitution and by-laws of the Athletic Association of the Pennsylvania State College, section 17 reads:

The six-inch block letter "S" shall be awarded to any member of the varsity boxing squad who has participated in at least one-half of the regularly scheduled meets, or to any member of the varsity boxing squad who has participated in the regularly scheduled intercollegiate boxing tournament.

Each member of the boxing squad was considered and met the above requirements except Green, who was given an award by request of Coach Leo Houck since Green is a senior.

—Bronco Kosanovich,
Secretary, Men's Athletic Association.

AVC and Skytop

TO THE EDITOR: On behalf of the members of AVC and their guests who attended Skytop for our opening night, we would like to publicly thank the 3 Bar 3 Boys, Marvin Fisher, Howard Kleidman, and Herbert Rossman, for their splendid performance. Our plaudits also to Henry Glass, who emceed the show; and William Walker, who sang his way into everyone's heart.

Members and guests were unanimous in commending the performers for their excellent presentations. We hope that in the near future we will be able to invite the 3 Bar 3 Boys, Henry Glass, and William Walker back to Skytop to entertain all our members and friends.

—Ed Banyai,
AVC Regional Representative.
—Earl Kemmler,
Centre County Chapter Chairman.
—Maur Levan,
House Committee Chairman.

under a wide range of velocities and pressures. An accurate weighing mechanism will be used to determine forces acting on the test models.

The new tunnel will be housed in a building near the Ordnance Research Laboratory. The building will provide office space for operating personnel, as well as service shops and other facilities for preparing and testing models. It is expected that the project will be completed in less than two years. When completed, it will constitute one of the most complete testing facilities in any field of similar experimental work in the world.
