Women Plan Teas

Campus Groups Include Town Dorms in Mother's Day Plans

Campus dormitories are entering into the spirit of Mother's Day with teas and entertainment for the visiting mothers on Saturday afternoon. The majority of these are from 2 to 3 p.m., giving the mothers time for a little sightseeing before the May Day ceremonies at 4:30 p.m.

Mac Hall is including Chi Omega, Delta Gamma, Phi Mu, and Theta Phi Alpha in their plans. Sally Henry is general chairman of the tea, while Ann Hagy has charge of refreshments; Ruth Ann Metzger and Doris Fry, of entertainment; Eva Mae White and Terry Hague, of the lounge committee.

A style show of campus fashions and musical entertainment has been planned for the Mac mothers.

In Milking Contest

Milk a cow! Who, me? That's what most girls would say, Ag students omitted, if someone ask-ed them to perform that feat. But seven brave Penn State coeds are going to face a crowd of critical watchers tomorrow afternoon in the Stock Pavilion and try to prove that it isn't as hard as it looks.

Four liberal artists, two edu-cation students and one Ag student will participate in the contest which is an annual feature of the Dairy Science Exposition, to which all parents are invited.

Watching a practice session among the Guernseys (these sessions are to make sure the girls sions are to make sure the girls don't try to pump the cows' tails) it was obvious that most of the girls had never milked before and were getting a big kick (not iterally) out of it.

For the contest, the cows will not be tied and the girls will have to follow them with their buckets. Dean Lyman E. Jackson will judge the contest and the girl getting the most milk in two minutes will win.

Senior Mortar Board Plans Annual Carnival

Mortar Board Carnival will take place on the West Parking Lot behind the Sigma Chi house the afternoon of May 17, from 2 to 5 p. m., according to Joan Harrington, president of the organization.

The Carnival which has now become an annual affair, is sponsored by Mortar Board, senior women's honorary to raise money for the continuance of the Charlotte E. Ray Scholarship Fund.

Tickets for the Carnival cost 25c, and will be sold next week by all sorority Panhel representa-tives, Mortar Board members, and at Student Union.

Sororities are planning to sponsor booths that will feature games of chance, fortune telling, and side shows. There will be several booths selling refreshments, said by a majority vote of the council. booths selling refreshments, said by a majority vote of the council. Moms Arrive For Weekend

State College is going to be a very crowded town this weekend. Mothers from Pittsburgh to Philadelphia and points east and west will be traveling to the College to be with their sons and daughters for Mother's Day. That doesn't include the fathers, brothers and sisters and the rest of the

As to where the parents are going to stay, 29 out of the 53 are going to have to stay in the dormitory with them, while the rest were lucky enough to find rooms

Many foresighted students made reservations for their mothers at the town hotels. The Nit-tany Lion and State College Ho-tels were both booked solid for Mother's Day weekend as early as the beginning of March. Even the hotels in Bellefonte had all their rooms reserved two months Fraternities are solving the problem by vacating one of the floors of their houses for the visiting mothers.

A call to the Post House revealed that the Greyhound Bus Company is planning to put on extra sections of some busses to take care of the influx of travel-ers. The Boalsburg Bus Company will run several busses on Friday and Saturday, and five or more special busses Sunday afternoon to take care of the mass exodus.

The Browse

Well neighbors it's Friday, May 9th and only two more days before Mother's Day. There's still time though to come to the COLLEGE BOOK STORE and browse for those extra special gifts for Mother. Just to help you out a little more we're going to list a few more we're going to list a few other suggestions for your Mother's Day gift. You've no doubt been following our suggestion list for the past week in this column, however, we've been saving a few things to tell you at the last moment. These are ideas which are, according to the old saying, "The ones you've been waiting for."

First on our list is that brand new book by Sinclair Lewis, Kingsblood Royal. It's a blazing story that will jolt the nation and doubtless is one of Lewis' best novels. Not only Mother, but the whole family will want to read this story of Mr. Blingham who looks for and finds the secret of his family, tree. How does he do family tree. How does he do it and what does he find that ruins his life? Well now, there's a question that can be answered by reading KINGS-BLOOD ROYAL. The book is now on sale at THE COL-LEGE BOOK STORE for $3.00.

Now, if good classical music is enjoyed in your home no doubt mother would really be pleased with one or more of these albums from our Record

Beethoven: Sonata No. 8
in C Minor op. 13 with Rudolf
Serkin at the piano, $4.20.
Delius: Concerto for violin and orchestra, Albert Sammons, violin with the Liver-pool Philharmonic Orchestra conducted by Malcolm Sargent.

• Mozart: Quartet No. 2 in E-Flat Minor for piano and strings—George Szell, piano, with numbers of the Budapest string quartet. $4.20.

Then for those of you whose mothers like popular music here's an album by Dinah Shore—A DATE WITH DINAH —$3.15. Not only are albums of other popular singure and of other popular singers and orchestras available at THE COLLEGE BOOK STORE and RECORD SHOP but too there are these latest hits on rec-

The Thrill is Gone They Didn't Believe Me Records by Frankie Carle, Cab Calloway and others.

There is one thing you don't want to forget and that is a card for mother on Sunday. Our selection is one of the most complete in town and we know that they will really please you.

Stop at the COLLEGE BOOK STORE AND RECORD SHOP during one of your sandwich hours soon and browse around for your gift for Mother's Day. There are gifts for every personality to please each individual.

May Queens Reign 23 Years

May Days seem to habitually suffer from bad weather. Even the first one in 1914 was postponed because of rain. Mildred Ride, mother of Mary Margaret Dunlap '45, reigned during this initial festival.

Both the first and second celebrations (1921) were held in McAllister Hall dining commons, as the girls feared the criticism of men students. The third May Day, 1922, took place on the lawn of Women's Building.

Since 1914, twenty-three May Day festivals have occurred. They were resumed last year, after a five-year war time lapse, with a new feature. Sally and Jayne Pollard, sisters, shared honors as Queen and Freshman attendant. Margaret Barnard '34 was the colly Freshman attendant to rule only Freshman attendant to rule as Queen in her senior year.

The crowning ritual tomorrow will be familiar to the mother of Sophomore Dorothy Huber, who alum ni secretary; and Robert C. will be visiting her daughter this Boedecker, historian. Ray F. weekend. Mrs. Huber, the former Boedecker had previously been Mary Youngs, accepted the crown elected house manager for the and septre at the 1923 festival.
