this era was "Take the college of the state to the people of the state."

In the fifth case there are items representative of the student life and customs of the time. According to Mrs. Cromer, Dr. Sparks was always quite close to the students and some of his last messages to them came in the form of a column which ran in the Collegian. Both the first and last of these are in the exhibit.

The closing scene of the display shows the newspaper clippings of his death and funeral and the final tributes paid to him by the students, faculty and townspeople.

Artists'

In the fall there will be a ticket sale of any seats left at the time, but the number of seats so available is very uncertain.

Although prices are higher than last year, Dr. Marquardt said they are only about one-half the price prevailing at some other colleges with the same quality of artists in the high-priced fields.

The majority of the seats will be sold at $8.00, tax included, while a few will be available for $6.90. Subscribers to the series may specify which of the two nights they prefer, and approximately where they wish to be seated. However, they must abide by the ticket-sellers' judgements should their first choice of seats be unavailable.

improved during the season. The topic for this semester's contest was "Should labor be given a voice in the management of industry?" Neilly in his contest speech took the stand that labor should have a voice in industry.

Gilbert's talk, on the other hand, was opposed to granting a direct share in management to labor until organized labor is mature enough to guarantee success of the plan.

Judges for the finals of the speaking contest were Coleman Bender, Holle G. DeBoer and William Hamilton. The two winners of the contest will be awarded gold watch-charm gavels.

Charlie Spivak Attends Phi Sigma Delta Party; Calls Affair 'Terrific'

"Terrific" was Charlie Spivak's comment on the Phi Sigma Delta Esquire Party Friday night. Sponsored by Esquire Magazine, all decorations were provided by the magazine, according to Danny Brecker, social chairman of the house.

Spivak and his bandmen dropped in on the party during Senior Ball intermission. After making his way through the swarms of coeds and imports who swamped him as he entered the Phi Sig house, Spivak joined the party, then in full swing.

Pin-up girls, miniatures of "Esqy", balloons, etc., all provided by Esquire Magazine, decorated the house. Even the dance programs were keyed to the Esquire theme.

Surrounded by photographers, Spivak spoke to the crowd of party-goers over the microphone and complimented the house on the "terrific" party.

'Varsity Sweetheart' Helps To Dissolve 20 Year Debt

The financial success of "Varsity Sweetheart," recent production of the Penn State Thespians, will enable the organization to pay approximately $700 on a debt which was incurred more than 20 years ago.

H. R. Kinley, president of the Thespians' Board of Directors, reports that 3239 persons saw "Varsity Sweetheart" during its three-night showing—probably an all time record.

There were 3042 paid admissions, Mr. Kinley said, giving the Thespians a net income of $2366.43. Although expenses for scenery and costumes were unusually high, he reported an estimated profit of nearly a thousand dollars.

The Board of Directors recently voted to reduce the organization's indebtedness by $700 and approved the purchase of much needed stage and lighting equipment from the profits of the recent show.
