Churches Open Playgrounds

Supervised recreation for children over two years of age is provided at two playgrounds in Windcrest and the Community Hall, 9:30 to 11:30, Monday through Friday. Sponsored by PSCA and the Northern Baptist Convention, the work is being carried out through the State College Council of Churches.

Children less than two years may use the play space during this period if accompanied by a parent or if the parents are willing to assume responsibility for them. Parents are asked to register their children.

Music and story programs are being arranged for Community Hall. Children need not attend every morning, nor is it necessary that they stay for the entire morning. In case of bad weather, children may be taken to the Community Hall from 9:30 to 11:30.

Mary R. Armes, senior in the department of architecture has been awarded second prize of $75 in a national competition for designing a pasteurizing plant.

The contest was sponsored by the Kawneer Co. of Niles, Michigan and was one of the current problems for students in architecture at the College.

CIO Educator Claims
Business Runs Schools

Claiming that businessmen control most of the school boards in the country, Emory Bacon, of the education division of the United Steelworkers of America, yesterday told teachers enrolled in the Summer Sessions at the College that the democratic controls of education must be extended.

Bacon spoke on "Labor Looks at Education" at a session of the Pennsylvania Workshop.

"With most of the school children the sons and daughters of laborers, labor must have more voice in deciding how they are to be taught," Bacon continued.

The speaker said that his union stood for these things: extension of educational opportunities to include everybody; a fair dealing with all sides of controversial issues; trained skills for democratic action; more vocational schools; and Federal subsidies to public schools.

Bacon added that he did not favor passage of the present Federal school subsidization bill because it would also subsidize parochial schools.

"I do not favor Federal aid to any church school group," he said. "There must be a complete division of the church and state in the realm of education."

Church Group Seeks Alumnae

Active members or alumnae of Kappa Phi, women's social fraternity of the Methodist church, who are attending summer sessions at the College, shall contact Wesley Foundation, phone 2163, said Mrs. Laura Benner, co-sponsor of a local petitioning group.

Alumnae of the fraternity are organizing to aid the undergraduate students form a chapter at the College. Permission has been granted the local women by college officials and the student welfare committee to petition the national Kappa Phi office for a charter.

Chapters of the organization have been established at 32 universities. Two other colleges are petitioning Kappa Phi for charters.
