

Painters Show Oil Canvases In Annual Campus Exhibit

Oil paintings of approximately 100 summer artists, the largest class to date, will be exhibited at Mineral Industries Art Gallery, 8 a. m. to 10 p. m. today, the last day of this 15th annual art showing.

Hobson Pittman, noted painter of oil and pastel canvases and instructor of the oil painting class, will speak at the gallery, 8 o'clock this evening on the works represented in the collection and the eight prize winners.

Prize Winners

Two juries, one lay and one professional, were chosen to judge the paintings. Each jury awarded four places. The selections of the professional jury in order were: "The Dresser" by Pat Sullivan, "Heading Home" by Mary Cochlin, "Still Life" by Everett C. Hoffman, and "Watermelon" by Blanchard Gummo.

The professional board consisted of Milton S. Osborne, head of the department of architecture; Harold E. Dickson, professor of fine arts; Dean Stambaugh, instructor of art at St. Albans school, Washington, D. C.; M. Dean Ross, assistant professor of fine arts; and Hobson Pittman.

Lay Jury Awards

Four choices by the lay jury were, "Trail Beyond" by George S. Zoretich, "Pennsylvania Countryside" by Jean Francis, "By the Brook" by W. E. Rittenhouse, and "Geranium" by Marty Shomberg.

Representatives of non-professional art appreciation were Mrs. Marion Trabue; Edward Steidle, dean of the School of Mineral Industries; and C. M. Henderson.

Rules for Awards

Stipulations for the awarding of prizes specified that no previous winners were eligible for top honors. William Keeler of Keeler's Book Store will present the eight prizes of art books and materials.

All canvases in the exhibit are for sale. Margaret Sanger, birth control advocate, and Mr. and Mrs. Wassell, Philadelphia are collectors just returned from British showings, are here to purchase canvases.

Artists in Course

Beside regular college students, Mr. Pittman's oil painting course this summer has attracted professional painters. Elizabeth Davis, onetime first winner now in the class will present a one-man show in Pittsburgh August 9.
