

Forget Your Woes, Vets; Go to Campus Aid Bureau

Rivaling the traditional army chaplain, Professor Robert E. Galbraith heads Penn State's moan and groan bureau.

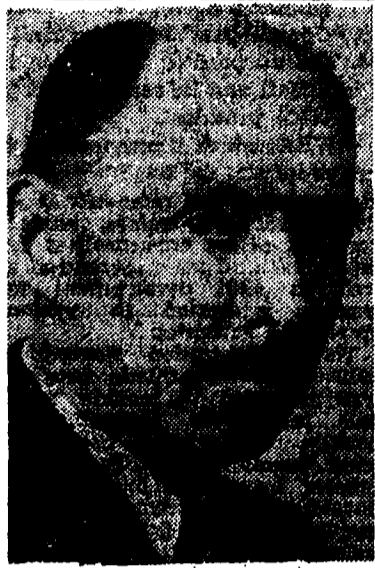

Located in 109A Old Main with the title of Faculty Counsellor of Veterans, Galbraith is assisted by Richard H. Baker.

Problems ranging from flunking out of school to housing are handled daily. If you go broke, call to receive VA subsistence, or just plain run short, you can borrow money through this office.

They supervise two loan funds of $1500 each. A single veteran may borrow up to fifteen dollars at a time for food or other emergencies. They also supervise the Kunkle Loan Fund from which married veterans may borrow up to $150 a semester.

Advice and assistance is given in such things as how to change your course, where to look for a job, where to find a lawyer or a doctor and countless other questions.

This office also handles the renting of trailers or space for private trailers to married veterans. No space or trailers are available now and there is a waiting list of about five hundred.

Railroad Cars May Furnish Alumni With Living Quarters

This year's homecoming alumni may not be faced with any sleeping or eating problems when they return to the campus for Homecoming Weekend, October 17 and 18, according to Ridge Riley, chairman of Homecoming activities.

Alumni from the large eastern cities — Philadelphia, New York, Baltimore and Washington—may be able to come all the way from their homes to the campus via the Pennsylvania and Bellefonte Central Railroads. If plans materialize the Penn State Homecoming Special will include eight Pullmans. A diner will be parked for Saturday night occupancy on the tracks near the Power Plant.

Other highlights of the weekend will be the Penn State-Syracuse football game, the Thespian "Alumni Revue," the traditional cider party and smoker, and continuous showing of a film about Penn State entitled "Your College," in the Little Theater in Old Main.

Homecoming festivities begin with alumni registration in Recreation Hall at 3 p.m. Friday, followed by the Junior Varsity football game with Syracuse at 4 p.m. There will be an executive board meeting in the Nittany Lion Inn at 6 p.m. Friday, and a student-alumni pep rally in front of the Lion Shrine at 8 p.m.

Alumni Registration
Alumni registration will continue all day Saturday. At 9 a.m. an alumni golf tournament, with individual and district club prizes, will begin. This affair has been revived from a pre-war annual contest.

From 9 a.m. to 12 noon there will be campus bus tours leaving from the front of Recreation Hall.

continuous showing of "Your College"; and "Know Penn State," an open house by the schools of the College with special exhibits in Recreation Hall. The Alumni Council will meet in 121 Sparks at 9:30 a.m.

Veterans Administration Has Large Staff To Help Veterans With Most Problems

The Veterans Administration maintains a fairly large staff on the campus for the purpose of helping veterans with problems which arise in conjunction with their education, according to Robert E. Stroud, senior training officer of the VA office at the College.

The training section office of the Veterans Administration is located in the red brick building directly across from Carnegie Hall and facing Pollock Road. The staff there consists of four training officers and three secretaries.

Veterans under Public Law 16 with problems involving subsistence, change of course or changes in schedule should consult Mr. Stroud or Thomas L. Weyandt on the first floor of the building. Veterans with the same problems but who are training under Public Law 346 should see Paul Frantz on the second floor.

Any problems arising out of On-Job-Training or from off-campus training centers should be taken up with Raymond K. Foust whose office is on the second floor.

Helps with Curriculum Choice
Also located on the first floor is the vocational advisement section under the supervision of Franklyn D. Fry. This section works with the College psychology department and aids veterans in the choice of a curriculum.

Complete information concerning registering with the VA will be given out at the mass meeting to be held in Recreation Hall on Sunday evening.

The greatest problem the VA faces is the non-receipt of subsistence by veterans. The chief causes for this, according to Mr. Stroud, are failing to file a change of address and improper registration.

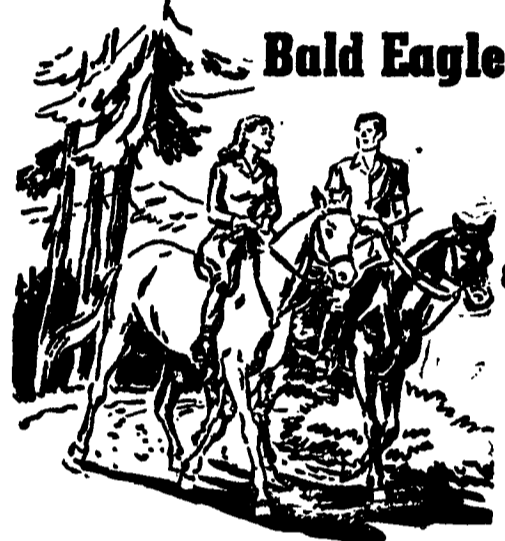

Veterans' Registration
Veterans under PL 346 transferring from a credit class center need a certificate of transfer from John Taylor of Central Extension. Veterans coming from an undergraduate center are handled the same as veterans returning from previous semesters and simply register as a reentering veteran.

Veterans under PL 16 who interrupted their training or who are transferring from an undergraduate center or a credit class center need new letters of authority.

Besides the office on the campus, the Veterans Administration maintains an office downtown on the second floor of the Metzger Building. This office handles such problems as insurance, terminal leave, claims for medical and dental care and hospitalization. Edward L. Wagner is the contact representative in charge of this office.
