

Between the Lions

with TED RUBIN

Caution is the word to the dynamite-laden Penn State football team which engages our oldest rival, Bucknell, on the New Beaver Field gridiron at 2 p.m. Saturday. Although the Lions boast their finest team in years, and Bucknell appeared none too impressive in either its pre-season scrimmage with Franklin and Marshall or its 25-0 victory over little Alfred, the annual Lion-Bison contest always finds the Lewisburgers "up."

Bucknell has a new head coach in Harry Lawrence, former Baltimore City College High School mentor, who jumped from high school ranks to college circles on the basis of his fine record in the Maryland city. Lawrence's eleven years lost but ten games out of eighty-five during his nine years at the mast.

The Nittany Lions' fleet and flexible backs should be able to dent the line of the visitors, since that seems to be their soft spot. The Thundering Herd lacks its '46 first string tackles and guards, and Colone, Joe, Petchel, Rogel, Williams, Luther and others should be able to scamper through these spots.

Where the Lions are deep in line reserves, Bucknell is rather weak. It's a tough job to be a durable iron man up on the forward wall, and depth in line-men is nearly always a necessity in building any championship squad. The Hig has them this year; there are two reserves, and good ones, for practically every position, and assistant coach Joe Bedenk has welded a swift and sure bunch of sharp blockers and deadly tacklers.

The boys are cooperating and determined to do anything to benefit the team. It's a wonderful feeling to talk to a few of the Nittany footballers about the squad. They're not so much concerned about themselves and how much they get to play, but are pushing and praising and saluting their colleagues on the firing line.

Last year saw a 48-6 Penn State slaughter of the Thunderless Herd. It was the season's opening game, and Larry Joe's day, for the great spot runner, inserted very opportunely by the Hig, ran the ball five times and registered three touchdowns.

That was State's twenty-fifth win against eleven setbacks in the series which was inaugurated in 1881. This year will see the Higginsmen the heavy favorite to duplicate last year's decisive triumph.

When the Blue and White leaves the field after the 1947 opener, there'll be a lot of praises sung by close followers of the game for our center, Johnny "Shag" Wołosky. Johnny is one of the most underrated and least publicized members of this fine team, and his ability and will certainly should merit more bouquets. He's a cagey player who uses his skill and weight to best advantage. His tackles of Washington State runners resounded mightily over the Hershey field in our initial game. He's number 55, so watch him!

Best Bantam?

Bob Higgins calls Elwood Petchel "the best 140-pound back in the country."

Dodgers Try for First Win As Series Moves to Brooklyn

wells clipped the Dodger pitching for two singles and a triple. Tommy Henrich had a single and a homer and Johnny Lindell had a double and triple. Billy Johnson also made a single and a triple for New York and the three Yankee triples equalled the World Series record for three-baggers in one game.

REYNOLDS

Behind all this Yankee power, Allie Reynolds was hurling steadily and went the route for his first series win. He gave up nine hits, including two each by Pee Wee Reese and Jackie Robinson and a home run with no one on by Dixie Walker in the fourth inning.

The game was close for the first four frames. The Yanks clipped starting pitcher Vic Lombardi for a run in the first inning on singles by Stirnweiss and Henrich and Lindell's double play bouncer. Brooklyn tied it in the third on a walk to Reese and singles by Stanky and Robinson.

New York 101 121 40x—10 15 1

Vic Lombardi, Hal Gregg (3), Hank Behrman (7), Rex Barney (7) and Bruce Edwards; Allie Reynolds and Yogi Berra.

Home runs, Dixie Walker, Brooklyn, 4th, none on, first in series; Tommy Henrich, New York, 5th, none on, first in series.

First NYC Game Since 1941

A Penn State football team plays in New York City for the first time since 1941 when the Lions engage Fordham University at the Polo Grounds October 11. New York University bowed to the Lions, 42-0, in the 1941 game.

IM Office Urges Independent Entries

Independent and fraternity entries for intramural competition in touch football, swimming, and tennis singles must be turned in to the intramural office in Rec Hall by 5 p.m. Friday.

No restrictions have been placed on the number of entries that independent groups may submit, but fraternities are permitted to enter only one team in football, and swimming, and not more than two men in the tennis tourney.

Football teams will be composed of a minimum of nine players and swimming crews must include at least five members. An entrance fee of $1. per team will be charged for football and swimming participants, and a $25 charge will be levied for each tennis entry.

Intramurals

A special invitation has been extended to all independent men by the intramural sports department of the School of Physical Education for participation in the intramural sports program of the College during the current academic year.

Eugene C. Bischoff, Director of Intramural Sports and Harold "Dutch" Sykes, assistant director, have formulated plans to accommodate the enlarged turnout of athletes expected from the swollen enrollment ranks. "Fraternalities are traditionally avid participators in intramurals because of their compact and organized nature but individual independent men and independent houses are also urged to make use of the department's recreational facilities and program," the office emphasized.

Golf Tourney

Golf coach Bob Rutherford has issued a call for students to sign up for the All College golf tournament.

Entries for the tourney may be made at the caddy house, with all students eligible. Qualifying rounds must be played before October 9.

An announcement concerning match play and flights will be made following the close of the qualifying round.

Basketball Managers

Candidates for assistant basketball manager should report to Rec Hall any day at 6:30 p.m.
