

Please Remember,
The Name Is DuBois

Jean DuBois, one of our new Sophomores, has what might be called a monotonous address. Her mail is directed to Miss Jean DuBois, DuBois Street, DuBois.

As a climax to this little matter, Miss DuBois transferred to the College from the DuBois Undergraduate Center.

Ed. Note: We hear Miss DuBois doesn't want to talk about DuBois any more, so this is all off the record.

Ultrasonic Sound Former La Vie Editor Weds
To Wash Laundry Ex-IFC President John Lloyd

Ultrasonic sound might well be the washboard of the future. Although research work in the use of ultrasonic sound for laundering has just been started at the Pennsylvania State College, Dr. Pauline Beery Mack, director of the Ellen H. Richards Institute, and Dr. Harold K. Schilling, director of the acoustics laboratory, predict that our shirts and socks might some day be washed with ultrasonic sound waves.

In a recent demonstration in the ultrasonic laboratories at Penn State, a soiled cloth in a bucket of soapy water was exposed to sound waves of 18,000 frequency. After the cloth had been exposed to the ultrasonic waves for ten minutes, it was examined.

Charlotte May Taylor '46 of State College was married Saturday in St. Paul's Methodist Church to John Frederick "Fritz" Lloyd '47 of Harrisburg.

Prof. Hummel Fishburn was organist at the ceremony, while Miss Josephine Rotilli and Genevieve Taras, students at the College, provided music at the reception held at the Centre Hills Country Club. The bride's sister, Mrs. John Ritenour of Pittsburgh was matron of honor, and Miss Ruth Twichell served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. James Craig Jr., Mrs. Leonard Ecker, Mrs. Ralph Lyford Jr., and Mrs. Eugene Taylor.

Richard Lloyd served as his brother's best man. Allen Hack, Charles McClintock and William Reid, fraternity brothers of the bridegroom and John Ritenour and Eugene Taylor were ushers. The couple will reside in Chicago where Mr. Lloyd is employed by the Portland Cement Co. The bride was a member of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority, editor of La Vie, president of Phys Ed Student Council and member of the Choir.

A member of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity, Mr. Lloyd was

Coeds to Register
Before Rushing

Any girl who is at all interested in joining a sorority must register at the Dean of Women's office from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. next Monday and Tuesday, said Mona Smulyan, president of Pan-Hellenic. The office will be open during the lunch hour.

A co-ed cannot be rushed unless she registers. There will be a $1.00 registration fee. Transcripts will not be required, but averages will be checked by the Dean of Women's office. No one with an average below a one should register.

In a Muddle Suzy Soph?
IWA Ready to Help Out

Susy Sophomore, who just came to campus is in a muddle. She's meeting new people, going strange places and in general trying to adjust herself to another life.

In the midst of new faces, new courses, and new ideas, another something new has been added. She's trying to figure out if she wants to join a sorority—and if so, which one.

A lot of Susy Sophomores, though, won't join sororities. Some of these girls aren't interested, while others just can't make up their minds yet. These girls, whether they're independent for only a little while, or whether they expect to stay independent their college careers, can take advantage of the Independent Women's Association for both fun and active work.

Meetings are held in 401 Old Main, 7 p.m. every Monday. The organization meeting will be this Monday. IWA offers bowling and skating parties after meetings, weekend and holiday dances with other independent groups. Picnics and hayrides are also planned for the enjoyment of IWA members.

IWA works with the College, as a recognized activity. It comprises one fourth of the Independent Student Council and also has a vote in Cabinet. An IWA representative is also a member of WSGA, thus representing the independent women in this capacity.

Newcomers Club
Invites Women
To Faculty Tea

The Board of Newcomers Club has invited all wives of faculty members of the rank of instructor and above, as well as all new faculty women of the same rank, to a get-acquainted tea.

Those who have not been contacted are asked to call Mrs. W. M. Wachter, 6452. The tea will be held at the home of Mrs. A. H. Forbes, 520 W. Fairmount Avenue, from 3 to 5 p.m. on Tuesday.

The committee in charge of arrangements for the tea are as follows:

- Mrs. S. H. Chamberlin, Mrs. J. E. Hache, Mrs. T. S. Whitehouse, Mrs. R. J. Schatz, Mrs. C. T. Pressler, Mrs. Wachter, Mrs. A. D. Brickman, Mrs. R. J. Gemmill, Mrs. A. Waggoner, Mrs. D. H. McKinley, Mrs. F. A. Coombs, Mrs. Joseph H. Boyd, Mrs. M. S. Osborne.

O'Brien Attends Speech Convention

Joseph F. O'Brien, speech department head, and four other members of the faculty will attend the sixth annual convention of the Pennsylvania Speech Association in Harrisburg today and tomorrow.

O'Brien will act as executive secretary of the executive committee at the convention. He will also preside over the Committee on Pennsylvania Oratory.

Paul R. Beall of the speech department will be chairman of the Labor-Management Relations Curriculum Committee. This group will discuss Speech in Labor and Industry at 8:30 Friday evening at the Penn-Harris Hotel.

On Saturday October 4, Matilda M. Onachilla of the College Speech Department will participate in a forum on speech correction.

Harold E. Nelson, new assistant professor in speech and radio at the College, is also attending the convention. He will participate in a discussion dealing with how the speech and dramatics teacher can use radio.

The Debating Association of Pennsylvania Colleges will meet concurrently with the convention Saturday afternoon at 1:30. Clayton H. Schug, women's debate coach at the College, will act as executive secretary at this meeting.

Mass Registration Nets First Victim

A young lady was the first victim reported as a result of the mass registration last week. She walked in the door of Rec Hall, the efficient College machinery began to operate, and the next thing she knew, she was registered.

It wasn't until the checker at the desk began looking at her partially filled out cards without the valuable signature of Mr. Watkins, that she was questioned.

"Are you a Sophomore, Junior or Senior?"

"No."

"Do you want to register?"

"No."

"Well, how did you get a matric card and an AA book and have your picture taken?"

"I didn't want them, I just walked in the door and got them. I want a job. Isn't this where you apply to work in a dormitory?"

When last seen, the young lady was heading for the Placement Service.

WSGA President Reminds Women of 'Pop-in' Night

Suzanne Romig, president of WSGA, has asked upperclass women not to forget "pop-in-night," which will be observed in the women's dormitories, Sunday between 7 and 9 p.m. As has been the custom upper class women at that time drop in to visit sophomore women. Sophomores will return the visit at a later date.

Grad Completes Training

Marjorie Blackwood, a 1946 graduate of the College, was valedictorian of a class of eight interns who recently completed their training with the Eastman Kodak Company, Rochester, N. Y. Upon completion of their training, the interns are awarded membership into the American Dietetics Association.

While a student at the College, Miss Blackwood was president of Alpha Lambda Delta, a member of Cwens, Thespians, Mortar Board, and Omicron Nu, home economics honorary.

Grad Appears In N.Y. Roles

Claire Frontman, the former Claire Cohen, has recently appeared in "Hotel Universe" and "Daughters of Atrous" at the National Theater Conference Try-out Studio in New York City.

These plays were presented as a means to show the talent of promising actors and actresses to those who can help them in the theater world.

A student of A. C. Cloetingh, head of the dramatics department, Mrs. Frontman was a member of Players and Theta Alpha Phi, dramatics honorary, and had leading roles in several Players productions including "I Remember Mama," "Our Town," and "The Hasty Heart."

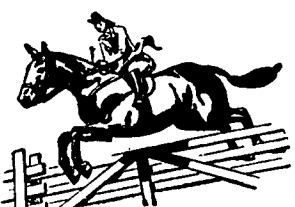

Mrs. Frontman was married July 3 to Richard Frontman, an actor in his own right and 1946 graduate of the College. The ceremony took place in Harrisburg, with Arlene Caplan, Alpha Epsilon Phi sorority sister of the bride, serving as maid of honor, and Jack Seitchik serving as best man for his Beta Sigma Rho brother. The couple is living in New York City.
