NLRB Reverses Counsel

WASHINGTON—The major decision in Washington came from the National Labor Relations Board when it reversed its general counsel, Robert Denham, and ruled that top officials of the AFL and CIO do not have to sign non-Communist affidavits under the Taft-Hartley law. Denham had claimed that no union in either organization could make use of the Labor Relations Board unless the top executives did swear they were not Communists, but says he will bow to the board's ruling reversing him. AFL President William Green says it's a victory for his claim that the unions in the federation are autonomous.

Attlee Reshuffles Cabinet

LONDON—Prime Minister Attlee has reshuffled his cabinet. He has demoted the fuel minister, Emanuel Shinwell, and dropped five other senior members from the government. The idea is said to be to get some new blood in the direction of Britain's critical affairs.

Robot Plane Home

WASHINGTON—The Air Force has revealed that its trans-Atlantic robot plane has flown home from England, again, with no one at the controls. The plane took the four-motored plane from England to Newfoundland entirely by automatic means. But this time a human pilot made the landing because the Newfoundland field lacks the necessary equipment to do the job with no hands.

Committee Calls Dorm Elections

A nominations committee for Pollock Circle has been selected and is now supervising nominations and elections for officers of the individual dormitories, said Thomas Reissmann, resident counselor.

Each dormitory is represented on the nominations committee by a former dorm president or mail clerk. It is the duty of each representative to hold meetings this week in his dormitory for selection of a dormitory president, vice-president, secretary, and treasurer.

Dormitory presidents comprise the Pollock Circle Council, and will hold their organizational meeting next week.

Oldest Campus Pinnings Featured in Contest

Campus couples who have been "pinned" for two years or more are invited to enter a contest sponsored by Froth magazine, said Ann Stoltz, women's editor. The couple which has been pinned for the longest period will be featured in the Old Mania department in the November 4 issue of the humor magazine.

Miss Stoltz has requested contestants to submit their names to Student Union by 5 p.m. Monday. She also asked that fraternity social chairmen submit names of members recently pinned or engaged.

Editorial Candidates

There will be a meeting of all editorial candidates for Daily Collegian in 8 Carnegie Hall at 7 p.m., Wednesday and Thursday nights, Allan W. Ostar, editor, stated yesterday.

Nation Mourns 'Prexy's' Death

Messages of sympathy over the death of Dr. Hetzel have been received from people in all walks of life throughout the United States, the President's office reported yesterday.

Included among the many messages was the following telegram from the faculty and students of Temple University, addressed to Adrian O. More, assistant to the president.

"The faculty and students of Temple University express to the folks at Pennsylvania State College their sorrow at the passing of their president."

A few of the other messages of condolence received were from C. B. Hutchison, vice president of the University of California at Berkeley; Major General Edward S. Bress, in charge of Reserve and ROTC at the War Department; and from the president of the Board of Trustees at the University of New Hampshire.

First Critique On Sale Tuesday

Critique Magazine's first issue of the school year will go on sale Tuesday, October 14, according to Alex Gregory, editor-in-chief.

Critique, student literary publication of the College, is being sponsored by the School of Liberal Arts. Faculty members representing the School of Liberal Arts as a board of advisors are Prof. Donald W. Davis, Prof. A. Pauline Locklin, Prof. Louis F. Peck, and Prof. Harold Dickson.

The literary magazine is planning four issues a year, each to contain a sampling of the feature and fictional writing representative of Penn State. Feature material in the magazine will be of interest to agricultural and technical students as well as liberal artists, according to Gregory.

Subscriptions priced at 40c for the year, are now on sale at the Student Union desk or in 5 Carnegie Hall.

Chessmen Elect New Officers

John Ekey was elected temporary president of the Chess Club at a recent meeting of the organization. Other temporary officers elected are Perry Smith, vice-president; Marion Schwimmer, corresponding secretary; and Richard Cressman, recording secretary. Permanent officers will be elected within a month.

Plans for the future include a return match with George Koltonowski, world's champion blindfold chess player; and tentative contests with the University of Pennsylvania, Cornell University, the Red Rose Chess Club of Lancaster, United States Military Academy, and United States Naval Academy.

State Party Plans Organization Session

State party will hold its first meeting of the semester in 121 Sparks at 7 o'clock tonight, Jeff Hathaway, acting publicity director of the organization, revealed today.

Abe Bosler and Bob Frankhouse, co-clique chairmen, urged everyone interested to attend, particularly sophomores. Part of the meeting will be devoted especially to sophomore orientation in campus political activities.

Cop Climbs Tree By Tri-dorms For Nuts

A campus cop was up a tree yesterday afternoon.

Unfortunately for all those students who crave retribution for ticket doling on the part of the local police force, it was a literal tree, and a sturdy one.

Suspiciously enough, the tree was near Tri-dorms, but innocently enough, the cop was looking for chestnuts.

Boro Requests Water Saving

A public appeal was issued Monday by the State College Borough Water Authority requesting the cooperation of all water consumers in a voluntary conservation program.

The College water system is connected with that of the borough so that one system may "borrow" from the other, it was pointed out. The College frequently finds it necessary to use borough water during its peak season in the winter months, while the town is supplied in part by College water during the dry summer months.

Insufficient rainfall during the period since June of this year was blamed for the emergency shortage of water. Rainfall records of this period compiled by Authority officials and released yesterday show a consistently below-average rainfall during the drought months.

For September, when normal rainfall is 3.04 inches, this year's figures show only 0.77 of an inch. No appreciable precipitation has been recorded for October, although averages indicate 2.97 inches this month.

Photos Postponed For Illness Only

Reappointments for La Vie senior individual pictures will be made only for illness, Marjorie Mousley, photo editor, stated today.

Only two-thirds of the students scheduled for photographs keep their appointments, and no guarantee on rescheduling can be given if they do not notify the Penn State Photo Shop for a re-appointment, according to Miss Mousley.

When a student receives his appointment card, if he cannot appear at the scheduled time he is to immediately call the Photo Shop, and they will reschedule him. In case of illness, the student must show a dispensary excuse dated the day of appointment at the La Vie office in 412 Old Main to be rescheduled. (Continued on page two)

Panhandlers Discover No Inflation Here

Two panhandling sightless musicians with an accordion, accompanied by their Doberman seeing-eye dog, strolled slowly along College avenue and S. Allen street yesterday afternoon.

They might have heard of the "big league" inflation running rampant in State College. At least, with so many students walking the sidewalks, they thought it wouldn't be too difficult to pick up a little money in exchange for their music, woe-fully amateur.

The reward of the middle-aged unfortunates was small, however, for in the bottom of the tin cup held outstretched by the accordionist's companion was a lone nickel.

If there is any moral to this story, it's this: perhaps Uncle Sam has made too little provision for the extra-curricular expenses of his nephew-students.

Students Hurt In Auto Crash

Roger K. Nowell, sophomore pre-law student at the College, who suffered a possible skull concussion in an automobile accident yesterday morning near Tyrone, was reported by attendants of the Phillipsburg Hospital to be in a "fair" condition last night.

Nowell and C. Thomas Lewis, a sophomore in civil engineering at the College, were involved in the accident at 7:15 o'clock yesterday morning while returning to the College from their homes in Hollidaysburg.

The car, operated by Lewis, crashed into the rear of a truck six miles northeast of Tyrone, reported Pvt. James Showers, of the Hollidaysburg sub-station of the Pennsylvania State Police.

According to police, Lewis suffered facial cuts and was treated at the Phillipsburg Hospital dispensary. Nowell was in a semi-conscious condition.

Because of road repairs traffic was limited to one lane. Private Showers explained. He said that the truck had stopped to allow incoming traffic to pass. The truck driver said it was "very heavy" at the time of the crash.

Glee Club Holds First Rehearsal

The Penn State Glee Club will hold its first rehearsal in 200 Carnegie Hall at 7 o'clock tonight, according to Frank Gullo, director of the group. Members are requested to bring $3.00 to the first rehearsal as a music deposit.

Composed of a total of 102 voices, the club's membership includes 24 first tenors, 25 second tenors, 26 baritones and 27 basses. Rehearsals are scheduled for every Wednesday from 7 to 9 p.m.

Those included in the organization are, first tenors, James Beach, William Parsons, Ray Fortunato, James Farrell, David Eldridge, Mayard Hill, R. T. Tealle, George Thomas, Lorin Weigard, George Oehmler, Michael Samchok, William Ruth.

Thousands of Fans Miss Nittany Lion

Thousands of fans who are still rejoicing over Penn State's overwhelming victory in Saturday's football game have a feeling of incompleteness.

For the first time in many seasons the Nittany Lion is not on hand to give the team support and the crowds laughs.

Eugene Wettstone, assistant professor of physical education, states that the lion suit is worn out. Dr. Carl P. Schott, Dean of the School of Physical Education and Athletics, is in doubt as to where money for a new suit should come from.

Fordham Tickets On Sale

Tickets for the Fordham-Penn State game, scheduled for the Polo Grounds, New York, Saturday, are on sale now at the Athletic Association office in Old Main, Harold R. Gilbert, graduate manager of athletics, said today. It had previously been announced that the 230 available tickets would go on sale Thursday.

President's Aide To Direct College

James Milholland, president of the Board of Trustees, has directed that matters requiring attention of the President's Office will be handled by the assistant to the President until the Trustees have determined upon their new organization of the President's Office, it was reported yesterday.

Assistants to the President who will assume temporary direction of the College are Adrian C. Morse, in charge of Resident Instruction; J. Orvis Keller, in charge of Extension; Samuel K. Hostetter, in charge of Business and Finance; C. S. Wyand, Administrative Assistant; and Wilmer E. Kenworthy, Executive Secretary.

Such matters as are beyond the Assistants' authority will be referred to the president of the Board of Trustees for consideration, the report stated.
