Denny Resigns

WASHINGTON—President Truman has accepted the resignation of the 35-year-old chairman of the Federal Communications Commission, Charles Denny. The resignation, accepted with regret, will be effective October 31. Denny said it is not possible for him to remain in the government service from a financial standpoint.

Angry Words at UN

LAKE SUCCESS—United Nations developments are highlighted by angry words concerning the Balkan and Palestine issues. In the political committee, the entire Russian bloc said it will boycott the commission approved yesterday to watch over the Balkan borders.

Pakistan angrily proposed that the 57-nation Palestine committee close debate without hearing from Russia and the United States. Both big powers have remained silent in the Holy Land debate.

Typhoon Hits Guam

GUAM—There's still no definite news as to how badly the historic island of Iwo Jima has been hit by a savage typhoon. One weak radio message was received at Guam, which said that every building on Iwo was flattened or badly damaged. But no word about the garrison of about 300 men and dependents has been received.

Fred Waring Schedules Broadcasts from Schwab

Penn State has hit the Fred Waring jackpot. Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians will come to the campus Sunday night, October 19, to do not one broadcast, but three. The famous Penn State alumnus and his distinguished troupe will do the following shows, all in Schwab Auditorium:

Lancaster Pastor Speaks in Chapel

Monday, October 20, 10 to 10:30 a.m., the Fred Waring N.B.C. show.

Monday, October 20, 10:30 to 11 p.m., the General Electric show.

Tuesday, October 21, 10 to 10:30 a.m., the American Meat Institute broadcast.

Two of the three broadcasts will be open only to students and the special guests of Waring and a third will be open only to faculty and townspeople and Waring guests. Tickets will be distributed free, but no one without a ticket will be admitted to any broadcast.

Student tickets will be given out on the following basis: Because of seniority on campus seniors will have the first opportunity to obtain them, one to a person. They must apply at the Student Union desk between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. Wednesday, October 15. All students must present their own A.A. books. No tickets will be held for seniors beyond 5 p.m. Wednesday, the committee on arrangements announced.

Students will not receive single tickets for both shows, but for the broadcast of their preference. On Thursday, October 16, from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m., juniors will receive their tickets at the same place and in the same manner. Remaining tickets, if any, will go to sophomores Friday morning from 8 until noon.

The hours, place of distribution, and other details about faculty and townspeople tickets will be announced soon.

Prom Group Votes No Corsage Dance

Junior Prom will be a "no-corsage" affair, Abram Bosler, chairman, announced at All-College Cabinet meeting last night.

Cabinet approved the resolution that All-College President Thomas Lannen send a letter to the Centre Daily Times encouraging townspeople when voting on the Sunday movie issue to consider the lack of student entertainment facilities.

John Sigler, speaking for Forensic Council, enlisted the support of Cabinet for the Oxford debate, October 22. David Harris of Oxford will speak on life in English universities in 10 Sparks at 4 p.m. while the actual debate will begin at 8 p.m. Richard Hill and Harris Gilbert will contest the question against Sir Richard Boyle and the Honorable Anthony Benn of Oxford.

"Beat Pitt" tags will be ordered after an approximation has been made of ticket sales. Jack Tighe reported that these would be financed by the Athletic Store.

Cabinet agreed to advance their time of meeting to 8 p.m. to facilitate attendance by all voting members.

Mona Smulyan reported the ten proposed additions to the existing Student Union Board. Cabinet approved this decision.

Lawrence Foster, Robert Koser, Suzanne Romig, Lee Ann Wagner, and Robert Troxell were selected to work with Ridge Riley.

Glee Club Harmonizes To Give Concert On Corner

Passers-by in the downtown area stopped in surprise Wednesday night and remained to hear something unusual in the way of college spirit.

Penn State songs in four-part harmony floated across College avenue from a vantage point on the campus opposite the Corner Room.

The strains of "The Nittany Lion," "Blue and White," and other College favorites issued from two dozen members of the Penn State Glee Club who were taking a break during the making of a record for broadcast during the forthcoming Pennsylvania Week.

As if four hours of rehearsal and record-making weren't enough for one evening, the enthusiastic harmonists began an impromptu session on the sidewalk outside the Corner Room.

At that point a borough policeman intervened, saying that he didn't mind their singing—he was outnumbered 30 to one—but that they were blocking traffic. Undaunted, the choristers moved to campus territory and continued. When the session finally broke up, the cluster of spectators rewarded the singers with applause.

Managers Wanted

All men interested in becoming assistant managers of wrestling are to contact head manager Jack Holmes, 4975. There are several positions open. Holmes said, and sophomore men are particularly urged to come out.

PSCA Plays Host To Conference

This conference will include delegates from the Middle Atlantic Region of the Student Christian Movement which embraces colleges in Pennsylvania, Delaware, New Jersey, Maryland and West Virginia.

Last year this conference was held at Beaverbrook in the Poconos where more than 230 students heard leaders in the field of politics, religion, economics and labor. PSCA sent eleven delegates, including the following: Rustum Roy, Dorothy Park, Peggy Huston, Peggy Weiss, Jeanne McBeath, Gilma Olson, Dr. James Moyer, Rev. Donald Carruthers, James Smith, Emory Brown and Pat Woods.

The 1948 Conference will be held either at Beaverbrook or near the University of West Virginia, explained Robert James, one of the three regional chairmen of the Student Christian Movement. Any student may attend the Conference who is an active member of the Association at his or her college, he added.

Greeks Must Sign For House Guests

Fraternities wishing to house women guests in their chapter houses or annexes the weekend of October 24, 25, should register with the Dean of Men's office, according to Willard F. Agnew, president of Interfraternity Council. This should be done early enough to permit an examination of facilities, the IFC head added.

The Committee on Student Welfare has been unable to agree upon a year-around policy governing the housing of fraternity out-of-town women guests at party weekends. Therefore, last year's policy will govern the weekend.

Collegian Subscriptions

By JOE PASQUARELLI
Sports Editor of the "Ram"

It was a little disheartening to hear Bill Corum, on the Pigskin Parade a few weeks back, mention that Penn State was fielding the best team in 28 years. We or Rose Hill might, by a stretch of the imagination, say that Fordham will be fielding the best team of the past two years.

No slight is meant for the Ram gridiron crew when it is said that this year's team hardly approaches in ability the great pre-war teams of Jim Crowley. It is too bad, from a strictly competitive point of view, that our two teams could not have met at the peak of their football supremacy.

Last year's squad, loser to Penn State 68-0, was woefully weak in reserves and was built around one or two players who had pre-war experience. The record of 7 defeats and no victories hardly tells the story, though, for at least three games were lost in true heart-breaker style.

Fordham is not a giant killer, so the prognosis for the game Saturday against the juggernaut that
