

Oxford Debaters To Side Against Anglo-U.S. Amity

Oxford University of England will debate the negative attitude on the proposition that an all-purpose Anglo-American alliance can best prevent future wars, in Schwab Auditorium, 8 p.m. Wednesday.

The British viewpoint will be argued by Sir Charles G. Boyle and the Honorable Anthony N. W. Benn. The affirmative stand of the College men's debate squad will be presented by Harris Gilbert and Richard Hill.

Prof. Joseph F. O'Brien of the speech department, coach of the local team, will act as chairman of the debate being sponsored by the Institute of International Education.

An address by David K. Harris on Oxford University will precede the lecture in 10 Sparks, 4:15 p.m. Wednesday.

Local Debaters' Merits
Harris Gilbert scored first place in the 1947 term-end debate contest. He is manager of men's debate and chairman of the board of dramatics and forensics.

Richard Hill, vice-president of the Pennsylvania State Debaters' Convention, won first place in the John Frizzell Ex-tempore Speaking Contest last semester.

Faculty Lists 497 Alumni

By Bennett Fairorth

The grass is green enough in the College's own backyard for over 533 alumni.

One or more degrees have been earned at the College by 497 faculty members in teaching, research, and extension who are on campus and at undergraduate centers. Of those 353 took their bachelor's degree here.

Four-Degree Holder

Star alumnus on campus is Dr. George L. Haller, acting dean of the School of Chemistry and Physics, who earned four Penn State degrees. Dean Edward Steidle of Mineral Industries School received two degrees here.

Principal holder of Penn State degrees among department heads is three-time winner, Dr. Clarence E. Bullinger of industrial engineering.

Department heads who earned two Penn State degrees include Dr. Henry S. Brunner, agricultural education; Prof. Hummel Fishburn, music; and Prof. David

R. Mitchell, mining engineering.

Three-Degree Alumni

The School of Chemistry and Physics boasts 10 professors who each took three degrees here. All other schools combined claim nine faculty members, each of whom hold three Penn State degrees.

Approximately 110 alumni—holders of one or more degrees—have joined the ranks of the Engineering School. Close behind trails the Agriculture School with 107 alumni on its staff. Runners up are Liberal Arts, 99 alumni; Chemistry and Physics, 81; Mineral Industries, 47; Education, 37; and Physical Education, 16.

Further breakdown of statistics indicates that faculty members who hold two Penn State degrees total 152, the School of Agriculture leading with 37, followed by 34 two-degree holders in the Liberal Arts School.

Administrative Alumni

Officials in College administration who took their bachelor's degree at the College number 27 and include J. Orvis Keller, in charge of extension, and C. S. Wvand, administrative assistant.

Also listed are Registrar William S. Hoffman, Scheduling Officer Ray Watkins, Bursar Russell Clark, College editor Louis Bell, Alumni secretary Ridge Riley, and Pearl O. Weston, dean of women.

Of the library staff, seven earned one degree here and two received two Penn State degrees.

Syracuse Dean To Address Chapel

Dr. Charles C. Noble, dean of Hendricks Chapel, Syracuse University, Syracuse, N. Y., will speak on "Person to Person" in Chapel Sunday.

Author of numerous articles and educational material for young people and camping groups, Dr. Noble is a director of the New York State YMCA, chairman of the State Boys' Work committee, director of the Rotary Club, the American Red Cross Neuropsychiatric Clinic for Returning Veterans, the Council of Churches, and the YMCA.

Member of Phi Gamma Delta fraternity, Dr. Noble has specialized in personal counseling in his ministry, which has included Methodist Churches in the Bronx, Brooklyn; Hartford, Conn.; Glens Falls, and Syracuse, N. Y. He was educated in the Newton, Mass., High School, Wilbraham Academy, Williams College and Union Theological Seminary, New York City.

Blue Band To Salute Pennsylvania At Half

Blue Band will salute the state of Pennsylvania during the half-time intermission at the Penn State-Syracuse game Saturday as its addition to the College's Pennsylvania Week contributions, said Professor Hummel Fishburn, director.

Universal and Pathe newsreel cameramen will also be on hand at the game, added Louis H. Bell, director of the Department of Public Information.

Queen Assured Trip

This year's Belle of the Belle Hop is going to really get to Pittsburgh for the Pitt-Penn State game, which is better than last year's winner fared.

Cynthia Doane, last year's queen, never got the hotel reservation, which was part of her prize, because of a hotel strike at the time of the game.

In order to make good, the Greeters Club will present hotel reservations to both Miss Doane and this year's queen at the dance, November 1.

The Graduate School and the School of Education were developed during the administration of Dr. John M. Thomas, who was president of the College from 1921 to 1926.

Chose MacCallum Circle President

James MacCallum, recently elected president of Dorm 10, Pollock Circle, was elected president of the Circle Council at its organization meeting last night.

Other officers of the Council are Donald Mitchell of Dorm 3, vice-president; Edward Opferman of Dorm 7, secretary; and Harry Dunegan of Dorm 8, treasurer.

A newcomer to Penn State, MacCallum is a sophomore majoring in commerce and finance. Immediately upon election he took charge of the meeting which had been presided over by Thomas Reissmann, resident counselor.

Food Committee

First action of President MacCallum was the appointment of a food committee to take necessary action towards improving the food and general condition of the Pollock Circle dining commons.

Heading this committee is Leo Skellchock, a major in hotel administration. He will be assisted by Donald Mitchell, and Robert Amberlang.

A constitutional committee composed of Walter Bienko and James MacGilloway was appointed to recommend changes in the Circle constitution so the council may work in close harmony with the Nittany Dorm Council.

WELCOME! WELCOME! WELCOME!

You who are returning to the Campus for the first time since the war, or for that matter—for the first time since last year, will see a great many changes and improvements taking place. In fact, some of you old-timers won't know which way to turn. That is just our point, for the place to visit—as always—is THE COLLEGE BOOK STORE. Walk up Allen Street, turn RIGHT to number 129, and there you are. IT'S THE ONE BRIGHT SPOT IN TOWN for you who are hunting the unusual in books, Christmas cards, records, and children's books and Pennsylvania Dutch Gifts you won't find back home in Hickory Corners.

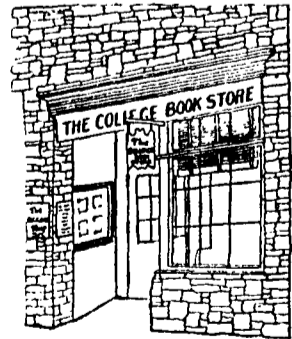

While you are here, why not pick up your Christmas Cards? Select from our many exclusive lines. Do it now while it is still early, we will take care of your order and send the cards to you within a week or two. Examine our new boxed assortments. We feel we have the best lines we have ever had, and that is saying something!

SPEAKING FRANKLY, by James F. Byrnes, is really news, as those of you who read the daily papers know. The book has not just been reviewed in the usual manner, it has had front page news stories, it is selling like hot cakes, and has just been out two days. Wouldn't you like to know what Stalin said when he was told about the atomic bomb? What the Russians really want? These and many other questions which are on your mind today are answered by a man who was on the spot and KNOWS.

Look over our stock of records while you are here, and take home one of those albums you have been looking for, and have not been able to find. Have you heard CHARLIE McCARTHY on records? ED-DIE CANTOR?, and your other radio comedians? Did you know that we have complete albums of these favorites? They are excellent—made up from the best of their radio programs, and make very good listening.

If you have not brought Junior along, you will probably want to take him something. Don't forget that promise! Look over our complete stock of children's books. There are so many excellent ones to choose from you won't be able to make up your mind.

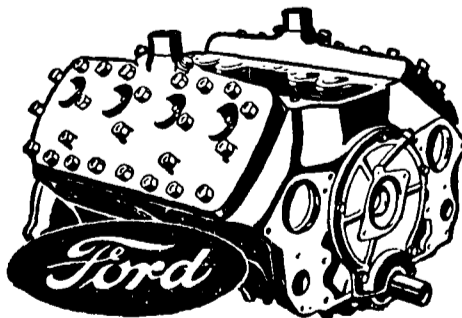

Take a good look at this cut at the bottom of the column—and remember if you haven't gone through this door, you're in the wrong place.
