

Pearl O. Weston Appointed Dean

Miss Pearl O. Weston, who had been acting dean of women since September, 1946, after the retirement of former Dean Charlotte E. Ray, was appointed Dean of Women, June 31 by the Board of Trustees.

A former teacher of physical geography at the Fifth Avenue High School, Pittsburgh, where she was president of the Penn State Alumnae Club of Pittsburgh and the Carnegie College Club, Miss Weston came to the campus as assistant to Miss Ray in 1942.

Miss Ray, who also was a former Pittsburgh teacher, first came to the College in 1923 as assistant dean of women while Miss Margaret A. Knight, then dean, went to Europe. She became dean when Miss Knight retired. At that time Miss Ray was dean of 300 women. The total college enrollment was approximately 2000 students.

Plenty of Beef

Penn State's 1947 forward wall packs a lot of weight. The starting line averages better than 200 pounds.

Hopes High

Penn State looks for great things this Fall from Horace Ashenfelter, a stand-out in cross-country and distance running.

Veteran Coach

Joe Bedenk, Penn State line coach, has been on the campus of his alma mater for the last 19 years.

Arclight Football

Night football agrees with Penn State. The Nittany Lions, winners over Washington State in a night game, have played three games under the lights in the last seven years, and have won all of them. They played their first night game in 1941.
