

Between The Lions

with TED RUBIN

A great team played a great game, and the Warriors of Nittany maintained their unblemished record by triumphing over the stubborn Kernmen from Morgantown.

The score didn't tell the story, for the Lions' play was deserving of more than a seven-point margin. 365 yards by rushing to 48 is a more conclusive story, and a truer one. Highly publicized by pressmen, the Mountaineers' ground attack failed to function, as the sturdy Penn State forward wall and backers-up repeatedly hurled back the Morgantowners.

Brilliant in victory were Wally Triplett and Elwood Petchel, as the spearheads of the assault, and Joe Drazenovich, whose sterling performance in his role as middle man in the secondary and one of the key men in offensive line play. Joe tackled dead and diagnosed very clearly, and with Steve Suhey playing just ahead, the center of the line was impenetrable.

Revealed to the Beaver Field crowd were two Blue and White plays which seemed somewhat unique. In the second quarter, the Hig's version of the end-around failed inches short of bringing a first down on the opposition's fourteen. Pete Gorinski, who has developed into an excellent fullback, received Wolosky's snap back and as he darted forward, passed the ball off to Johnny Nolan. Nolan wheeled and tossed the pigskin to Dennie Hoggard, coming around from left end, who sprinted wide to the right, cut in along the sideline, and plunged forward as he was pushed out of bounds.

The last period substitution of Czekaj and Petchel, when the Lion attack had stalled on the West Virginia eleven with fourth down and six, occasioned bravos when the field goal attempt was faked, and Elwood wheeled around and streaked to the three. Petchel's left knee had been raised off the ground, which made the play legal.

Bushy-haired head linesman Paul Templeton, a former teammate of Mountaineer coach Bill Kern at Pitt, had a stormy halftime discussion with the latter when Kern stopped off on the way to the dressing room. Templeton was the official who called an unnecessary roughness penalty on quarterback Tom Keane, who rode Jeff Durkota hard into the ground. This inflection brought the ball from the Mountaineer twelve to the one from where Gorinski bulled over for the score.

Game captain Ed Kulakowski, who led the West Virginia huskies onto the field, fought desperately throughout the contest to bring home a victory. It was Kulakowski, from his tackle berth, whose spirited leadership during both of the successful goal line stands was responsible for holding down the Penn State score. Veteran center Leo Benjamin seemed omnipresent throughout the fray, with his number 55 an all too familiar sign to the Higginsmen.

Fans will long remember the two successive Petchel coffin-corner boots which angled out of bounds on the two yard marker, and Francis Rogel's phenomenal 35-yard run which was more like a jitterbug act as the driving fullback miraculously kept his feet and crossed the goal, only to have his six-pointer recalled due to a penalty. Chuck Drazenovich, a sterling blocking back, gave ground to no one, and Johnny Nolan was more than a match for the hardy Mountaineers.

To tailback Bobby Williams goes a highly approving nod, for rarely has Bobby run so well.

DRAZENOVICH

BENJAMIN

Archery Club

All men interested in forming an archery club are requested to report to Recreation Director Ray Conger in 213 Rec Hall at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

AP Ranks Lions Seventh; Joe Colone May Miss Game

Penn State's football powerhouse yesterday moved into seventh place in the nation, according to the Associated Press weekly football poll. The Lions received two votes for first place, and are second only to Michigan as the nation's top scorer.

Last week's national collegiate football statistics showed the Blue and White led the nation in total offense and rushing offense and defense.

RUSHING AVERAGE

In the four games played previous to the West Virginia tilt, the Lions had allowed an average of 6.4 yards per game gained against them. On the other hand, the Higginsmen had rushed for an average of 322 yards per game.

Practicing for what may prove to be a tough game against Colgate next Saturday, the Lions are still working without Joe Colone. Guard Joe Drazenovich received a sprained elbow in the Mountaineer game but will be ready to play against the Maroon.

OTHER INJURIES

Other players who were sidelined because of slight injuries received last Saturday were Bob Weitzel, who was cleated on the foot, Clarence Gorinski with a sprained ankle, and Bill Luther with a bruised lower thigh. All will probably be ready to play next week.

Although Colgate has only won one game this season, losing to Cornell and Princeton and last week tying Brown, the Maroon has always given the Lions a tough scrap.

ling with either Beaver House or the Bulldogs.

Phi Eps Top Sigma Pi, 13-0, in IM Fray; Phi Sigma Kappa Routs Sigma Nu

Phi Epsilon Pi gained the semi-final round of the IM football tourney by pummeling a tough Sigma Pi crew, 13-0. After a scoreless first half, Sam Freedson passed 20 yards to Bob Lindy for the first six-pointer and Bob Rittmaster tossed 40 yards to Marc Claster for the second. A short aerial from Claster to Rittmaster added the extra point.

Delta Upsilon Defeats Phi Sigma Kappa 28-13

Delta Upsilon, last year's runner-up, splashed to a 28-13 win over Phi Sigma Kappa Monday night as first round IM swimming competition continued.

After Keck had won the 60-yard free style for Phi Sigma Kappa, Delta Upsilon completely dominated the meet as Lee, Hogan, and Earnshaw chalked up wins for the victors.

Phi Sigma Delta outclassed a game, but undermanned, Phi Kappa Tau tank team 33-7

Netters Enter Finals in IFC Tennis Tourney

Five fraternity netters eliminated their opponents over the weekend and entered into the final playoffs of the tourney.

Dick Wertz defeated Ray Brodie in two identical sets 6-3, 6-3. Bill Mallory displayed championship form in downing Bob Hirsh by two shutouts 6-0, 6-0.

Russell Marker outplayed Bill Brinker by 6-2, 6-1 counts. Ralph Peters, a pre-tourney favorite, outlasted Bob Ogden 6-2, 8-6.

Bart Giles edged Herb Locke 6-4, 6-2 in a hotly fought contest. Final playoffs are scheduled for this week.

You're the man most likely to succeed!

...in Van Heusen shirts

They put you way out in front for style and comfort. You'll like the smart seamanship, the low-set collar models, the action-tailoring, figure-fit. Sanforized fabrics, laboratory-tested 1500 times a month. Get your money's worth—always say Van Heusen Shirts. $3.25, $3.95, $4.50. PHILLIPS JONES CORP., New York 1, N. Y.

Again! The Saturday Evening Post presents one of the great inside stories of the war!

HIGH LIGHTS FROM

General Patton's Own Story

FROM the journal of the late General Patton—written while he was directing his daring European campaign—comes his personal story of brilliant victory despite what he terms inadequate support from the high command. In his own salty words, America's most colorful soldier tells you the inside story of his lightning race across France... the Battle of the Bulge... his impatience with Montgomery and his occasional disagreements with Eisenhower and Bradley. Don't fail to read this blunt and candid journal by one of the greatest military figures of all time.

by GEN. GEORGE S. PATTON, JR.

Kalins STATE COLLEGE

Exclusive Agency for Van Heusen Shirts