

WRA Marks Thirty Years As Coed Athletic Sponsor

Women's Athletic Association had its beginning thirty years ago and out of this organization has emerged the present-day WRA.

The aims and purposes of WRA are to provide recreation and promote the development of skills in various sports and activities.

Officers are elected by the women students of the College. Lee Ann Wagner now officiates as president.

Aims of the organization are fourfold. The first is the competitive program involving interclass sports and intramurals. Second is the club activities program which includes various clubs in the recreational field.

Another feature of WRA is the individual participation program which attempts to encourage women students to enter into various sports activities.

To broaden the interest of WRA and to fuse these interests with the campus projects program, and at the same time provide leadership opportunities for sports-minded students, the project program has been set up. In this phase of the WRA, women students aid in organizing annual dances and children's parties.
