Propaganda Outlawed

LAKE SUCCESS — The United Nations Assembly has approved by acclamation a world condemnation of propoganda tending to threaten peace. The action was taken after Russia criticized the proposal as failing to name countries where war propoganda is especially widespread. Earlier in the propoganda debate in the UN, Russia accused the United States, Greece and Turkey of carrying on war propoganda. But later the Soviet Union withdrew the charges.

Renewed Violence

JERUSALEM — New violence has cost the lives of a Jewish police sergeant and a Jewish civilian. The sergeant was shot to death by two men who forced their way into his apartment. The Jewish civilian was shot down by police after he had opened fire on the Tel Aviv police station.

Foreign Aid Clash

WASHINGTON — A major clash on foreign aid is expected at the special session of Congress opening on November 17. The Marshall aid program got qualified backing today from Senator Vandenberg. The Michigan Republican conditioned his approval of the program, however, on a frank canvass of American resources and a sound administration with adequate cooperation. He also said he wants to know just what the cost of the Marshall plan would be.

whether a solid student vote could swing the Sunday movie measure one way or another.

Today's election is the second race in which students will participate. American Veterans' Committee, thru a delegation headed by Ed Banyai, senior class president, attempted to secure voting privileges for the entire student body last year. The request was turned down by the local election board.

An appeal was carried to county judge Ivan Walker who instructed the election board to grant voting rights to students with established residence in the boro, according to Ed Banyai. The decision mainly affected married students living in town or at Windcrest.

Judge Walker Approves

A single student was permitted to plead his individual case of permanent residence to Judge Walker. Ed Banyai himself was able to prove himself a resident of State College and to secure voting rights.

The polls are located at the Alpha Fire Co. for residents west of Frazier street, at Nittany school for residents east of Frazier street, and at College Heights school for voters living behind campus.

Education Majors To Submit Names

Students of the School of Education, interested in a student council, are urged to give their names, semester, activities and average to the head of their respective departments, said Jack Bohm, organization committee chairman.

Each department of the school will have one representative on the council for every 100 students or major fraction thereof.

According to present enrollment figures, Bohm said, the secondary and elementary education departments and the home economics department will each have five representatives, psychology will have three and the music and industrial education departments will have one each.

The department head will nominate three times the number of representatives necessary and this group of nominees will be voted upon in a school-wide election.

All names must be handed in by 5 p.m., Wednesday. Elections will be held one week later on Wednesday, November 12.

With the organization of the Education School Student Council, Bohm said, all schools of the College will have their own student-administration liaison group.
