Co-op Store Saves Members Money for Past Ten Years

Ten years ago a group of ten families banded together to form a small buying club in order to cut food costs by wholesale buying. For two years, their headquarters was in one of the member's basements which was open several evening a week.

This cooperative venture has grown to be a full-size grocery, the State College Co-op Store, at 125 W. Beaver avenue. Its membership of over 400 families includes faculty people, townspeople, and farmers.

Doing a business volume of over $3000 a year in 1946, the cooperative has not only returned savings to its members but has served the community by helping lower prices through competition.

Rochdale principles under which the Co-op Store operates say that membership shall be open to anyone in sympathy with the club's purposes, regardless of race, color, creed, or economic status. Each member has only one vote regardless of the amount of capital he has invested in the enterprise.

Glenn Announces TB Test Results

The tuberculosis skin tests showed that 19.7% of incoming third semester, transfer, and graduate students had positive results, said Dr. Herbert R. Glenn, director of the College Health Service. For the men, the number was 23.9% positive and for the women, 15.5%.

"However, this means only that at some time during the student's life there was some trace of tuberculosis present and does not mean that there is any active tuberculosis in any individual who shows a positive test," said Dr. Glenn.

Dr. Glenn also said that x-rays taken this fall to spot active tuberculosis are now being read by the Pennsylvania Department of Health. An announcement of the results will be made sometime before the Christmas holidays.

"Students, on the whole, were found to be in excellent physical condition this year," said Dr. Glenn, "and the staff wishes to thank them for their cooperation in promptly keeping their appointments."
