WSGA To Study Coed Permissions

WSGA senate at its meeting last Thursday night voted in favor of a further investigation of coed blanket permission systems on other campuses. The system, if found advisable, may be set up on this campus in the near future.

The investigating committee, headed by Senior Senator Virginia McCluskey, will include these representatives, Anna Keller, WRA; Terry Klosterman, Owens; Eloise Rile, Panhellenic Council; Jean Robbins, PSCA; Jane Rosenthal, IWA; Lorrie Muntz, Junior Service Board, and Elaine Nelson, the Daily Collegian. A representative from Mortar Board will be appointed at a later date.

The committee, Miss McCluskey said today, will contact the nine colleges in our enrollment class as well as others.

Blanket permissions, which the WSGA house of representatives voted in favor of last Tuesday night, would enable a coed to leave the campus at any time during the semester if the dean of women had full written permission from the girl's parents.

One roter, reportedly a Delta Chi, told a friend he could do better than the Panthers. The friend said "Okay, I'm the Pitt coach and I'm sending you in."

In rushed the roter without reporting to the officials and when the pile was uncovered the yellow-sweatered roter was at the bottom, to the delight of the fans. Police led the impromptu grid star from the field, but he was released after the game.

As the minutes sped on and the Penn State score rolled up, it became apparent that the jubilant State students would make a try for the goal posts.

As the game-ending whistle was sounded, hundreds of State fans made a mad dash for the nearest goal post and soon had it apart before they realized they had torn apart the Penn State posts.

Pitt Goal Goes Down

Their forces bolstered by several hundred, the goal post-hungry students made a hundred yard fight to the Pitt goal. Police and an out-numbered group of Pitt students tried in vain to frustrate the attempt. By the time the second posts came down, an hour had passed, but few fans had left the stadium. Many agreed the post-game show was better than the one-sided game.

Another group of students rushed after Coach Higgins and raised him to their shoulders as the Blue Band started a victory parade. The "Hig" was visibly impressed as he had never expected the ceremony.

The last time State students' spirit had been so high was in 1942 when the Lions went down to Philadelphia and defeated their Penn cousins.

Student Breaks Leg After Pitt Victory

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 24—(AP)—George Baldwin, 21, of Canton in Bradford county, a student at Pennsylvania State College, lay in a hospital bed today and reflected on the bad luck he suffered in the wake of State's 29-0 gridiron victory over Pitt Saturday.

Baldwin slipped on wet leaves and fell, breaking a leg, while leaving the football game. It was the second time he broke the leg in three months.

During the week December 8 to 13 students will meet with their advisers to fill out schedules for next semester. Class rosters will be made up from the registration cards using a priority system by semester.

Graduate students who desire to schedule undergraduate courses should register during first phase registration in order to assure themselves a place on the class roster.

The committee for first phase registration includes Dr. Lyman E. Jackson, dean of the school of agriculture, chairman; Dr. Edward Steidle, dean of the school of Mineral Industries; and Mr. Ray V. Watkins, scheduling officer for the College.

Everyone agreed it had been a wonderful weekend but as one student said "Thank goodness we only play Pitt once a year."

Only reported casualty of the weekend was Donald Baldwin,

First phase registration for the Spring semester will begin December 8, said Ray V. Watkins, College scheduling officer today. Time tables will be available at the scheduling office following the vacation, he added.

First phase registration is the name adopted by the scheduling committee, Mr. Watkins explained. If no changes are made in a student's schedule after this period, this will be his official registration. It corresponds to what was known last semester as pre-registration.

Second phase registration, the filling out of the usual blanket form, will take place February 6 and 7.

WSGA Senate Vetoes Move-up of Elections

WSGA senate voted against moving the election period from April to February at their meeting in White Hall Thursday night.

The change, which was primarily suggested so that the past president would be on campus one semester after being in office and could thus help the incoming president, was defeated because it would move the semester requirement for each senator back one semester.

This would mean that the sophomore senator would only be starting her second semester on campus when she took office. It was the opinion of the senate that a girl who had been on campus such a short time would not be qualified for such a position.

Duties of the sophomore senator are to be chairman of the Freshman Council and be responsible for the council's organization within one month after the beginning of college in the fall. As the WSGA constitution stands now, the sophomore senator is at least third semester when she takes office.

However, Dean Pearl O. Weston
