Wants Band In Texas

TO THE EDITOR: I am happy that the students are enthusiastic over the Cotton Bowl bid. We are equally as enthusiastic over Penn State's accept-ance, and although it is a long distance down to Texas we sincerely hope that many of the students can make the trip. We also earnsaily hope that it will be possible to bring the band. The visiting team's band not only adds color to the spectacle, but adds to the public's feeling that a bowl game is of some significance and not merely a commercial venfure.

Hoping to see you in Dallas and assuring you of our desire to cooperate in any way.

Sincerely, Jordan Č. Ownby,

President Cotton Bowl Association

Mr. Blatz Writes From the South

TO THE EDITOR: I am rapidly getting sick of letters that are written by guys like Shalowitz, Kaplan, Neckrith, Kloecher, Hancher, Herman, and Richards.—I refer to the "Sour on Sugar Bowl" let-ters these protectors of minority groups penned for your November 13 issue of the Collegian. Such groups and their counterparts are always whining about racial discrimination, religious in-iolerance, capitalistic exploitation and the like, but what have they really done to get rid of the problems?

For instance, last year a group of students were oing to do something about discrimination, which xists in State College, and not only down here outh of the Mason-Dixon line.

The Collegian cooperated to the extent of pub-icizing all their efforts. But what happened? Can the colored boys get their hair cut in State College barber shops . . . has the football team removed the ban it levied against having colored boys living in Greystone manor? And what is the point in talking about racial discrimination in the North? Negroes are no more discriminated against in the North than are the

It's down here in the South that the Negro is denied his rights. I suggest that Shalowitz, Kap-lan and company come on down to the South and voice their sentiments against discrimination.

I'd be only too happy to have them join me for I seem to be waging a losing battle and would ap-preciate a little support.

So before a bunch of guys try to keep Karver or Stone from racing in the Sugar Bowl because of the South's discrimination, I suggest that they either stamp out discrimination entirely in State College or else come on out here and put a stop to discrimination in the South.

I suspect, however, that they're a bunch of parlor pinks who do all their work with their mouths, prefacing most of their remarks with those famous last-words, "Some of my best friends are Negroes" or, "most of the Jews I know are the finest people" are the finest people." Mr. Editor, I will apologize for my nasty state-ments about these guys if I'm wrong in my sur-misal . . . perhaps they have stamped out all dis-crimination or even a little bit of it in State College; if they have though, you have been guilty of the terrible crime of not publicizing it in the Collegian.

Yours for a practical, not theoretical Democracy, M. A. Blatz, Norman, Okla.

• If ex-editor Blats had read carefully the letter he refers to, he would have realized that the writers had merely asked why a member of the track team was given permission to run in the Sugar Bowl tournament after the Athletic Advisory Board had turned down a similar invitation to the boxing team because of a dis-criminatory clause in the bid.

While we are pleased to inform Mr. Blatz that both Negro gridders are living in Graystone Manor, we are sorry to report that Negroes still can't get their hair cut in State College barber shops

One Man's Meat That's a Doak, Son

Phineas T. Glockenspiel, Collegian's eminent feline football authority, was on the telephone when we walked into the Collegian office yesterday. He indicated that the call was tong and for us to sit down and be quiet. "Okay, Millie, I'll see you New Year's Eve and you keep an eye on that Doak Walker guy for me, will you?" he was saying.

was saying. Sure, we'll go to the best places in Dallas — the Adolphus and ice show at the the party at the Plantation. You

Call me here at the Collegian if anything breaks before I get there. Sure, you can call collect. We have lots of money here. Goodbye, Millie." When he finished at the phone, he smiled and said. "Nice girl, that Millie, sweetest little An-gora kitten you ever did see." "Where did you meet her?" we asked P. T. as the little fellow leaned back in Editor Ostar's chair and lighted one of the cigars Froth Editor Art the little fellow leaned back in Editor Ostar's chair and lighted one of the cigars Froth Editor Art Stober had left in exchange for some free pub-licity he had hoped to get in Collegian. "Picked her up—er I mean, I met her at the TCU-SMU game last Saturday in Fort Worth. Went down there with Bob Higgins and the Lion to scout the Mustangs. Man. what a team Matty Bell has this year. That Doak Walker is the best passer the Southwest has seen since Samw Baugh and Davey O'Brien. He not only Sammy Baugh and Davey O'Brien. He not only makes the touchdowns but he kicks the extra points, too.

'And Doak's not the only one on the team either. Remember Bob Folsom from last year's great Army team? He's the guy that caught that winning pass that gave the Cadets their win over Michigan. He's down there too, dragging in Walker's passes. Then there's Gilbert Johnson and Sid Halliday—another there's Gilbert Johnson and Sid Halliday—another passing combination. "SMU has a great team—the best we've seen this season but we can beat them if we only get our passing defense down to a science like we have our ground defense. With less than a minute and a half remaining, SMU found itself six points behind. Three passes changed everything and the Mus-tangs tied it up. I'll be seeing those passes in my sleep," P. T. moaned. "By the way, you should see the classy buses sleep," P. T. moaned. "By the way, you should see the classy buses those Southwestern teams use to travel to the games. They're owned by the schools and are all painted up with the team's mascot, nickname, and colors. Understand they're quite a saving over using the train like the Lions do. "Hum Fishburn would have enjoyed seeing the TCU and SMU bands. They play entirely different than the Eastern bands. Play their marches and school songs in jazz tempo. When you close your eyes you could swear you were sitting in the Paradise." "Well, we've covered football, buses, and bands. How about those Texas women we've all heard so much about?" we asked. "This is for publication, isn't it? Well, I'll just say this-when you go to Dallas, fellows, go stag!'

U.S. Should Aid European Cultural Revival—Champlin

The educational and cultural recovery of Europe deserves as much American support as does the economic recovery of that continent, said Dr. Carroll D. Champlin, professor of education, when interviewed recently.

"There ought to be an educational and cultural plan comparable to the Marshall plan, to enable us to keep pace with Russia in that respect," he declared.

By subsidizing students from By subsidizing such key countries as Germany and Italy, Russia is getting in the first blows in the ideological struggle between democracy and communism, continued Dr. Champlin, who toured nine Euro-pean nations last summer. He described the young people tries as "disillu-shown by the youth of Russia, the Do Scandinavian countries, and England. "The UN educational, scientific, and cultural organization may eventually provide the much-needed rehabilitation program," speculated Dr. Champlan, "but un-til Russia joins this group, it can-not cover all of Europe."
