Amendment Rejected

WASHINGTON—The House went to work on financial aspects of the Foreign Aid Bill today and firmly rejected two amendments aimed at altering the amount of the assistance fund. First, the House turned its back on an amendment to hoist the amount to $661,000,000. A few minutes later, it turned down an amendment to lower the amount by $300,000,000. A final vote on the aid bill is expected tomorrow.

Loyalty Check

WASHINGTON—It was made clear today that the State Department will take advice from the Loyalty Review Board, but that the State Department will make its own final decisions in cases involving security. That was announced by Director Hamilton Robertson of the Office of Controls who said he spoke on the authority of Under Secretary of State Lovett.

Marshall Accuses

WASHINGTON—Secretary of State Marshall called a show-down of his own at London today. He flatly accused the Russians of taking $500,000,000 worth of German assets from Eastern Germany each year. Marshall demanded that this practice halt within three weeks.

Watkins Releases Finals Schedule

The schedule of final examinations for the current semester and regulations governing the reporting of examination conflicts were released by Ray V. Watkins, scheduling officer, last night. Conflicts will be allowed only for students who have two examinations scheduled at the same period, or three examinations on the same day, Watkins said. All conflicts must be reported at the Scheduling Office not later than December 20.

Grades for graduating seniors are due in the Recorder's Office by 8 a.m. January 29. Any graduating senior having an examination scheduled after 7 p.m., January 28, should arrange with the teacher for a special examination.

German Dept. Sponsors Sing

The eighteenth annual Christmas Sing, sponsored by the German department, will be held in Schwab Auditorium at 7 p.m. next Thursday, December 18, preceding the all-College Christmas Sing. The program will be conducted by Professor Emeritus George J. Wurfl, who, in 1930 founded the sing, which has become one of the traditions of the Christmas program. Further details of this year's program will be announced later.

The third All-College Cabin Party of the semester will be held at Ralph Watts Lodge Saturday and Sunday, December 13 and 14, Scott Rhodes and Jean Ropps, co-chairmen of the PSCA lodge committee said today.

The group will leave from the rear of Old Main at 2:30 p.m. Saturday and return Sunday morning.

Tickets are one dollar, which includes transportation and two meals, and are available in 304 Old Main.

Due to limited space at the cabin, the party is limited to nineteen boys and nineteen girls, Rhodes said.

Senate Group Denies YPCA Student Charter College Policy Shuns Political Favoritism

The Senate Committee on Student Welfare yesterday denied the petition of the Young Progressive Citizens of America for a charter as a student organization.

The committee adopted the report of a sub-committee consisting of Arnold J. Currier, associate professor of chemistry, chairman; Arthur J. Warnock, dean of men; and Thomas J. Lannen, All-College President.

The YPCA, however, was granted the privilege of holding business meetings in College buildings as an informal group.

In its report, the sub-committee stated that "a study of the statement of purposes of the Progressive Citizens of America indicates that though it is non-partisan in the sense that it is allied with no political party, its objectives are political; that is, it exists for the purpose of organizing support for legislation which it favors and for candidates for public office which it favors."

"As stated in the By-Laws of Young Progressive Citizens of America 'the young voters and pre-voters division of the Progressive Citizens of America shall be named the Young Progressive Citizens of America.'"

A section of the YPCA constitution submitted with the petition stated that "The national constitution of the Young Progressive Citizens of America . . . shall be binding on this organization."

The report pointed out that the sub-committee recognized "the purposes of the parent organization and this student organization as being legitimate and commendable in citizenship education, its specific question is as to whether or not a student organization with such purposes and objectives should be granted recognition as a chartered campus organization to use rooms in College buildings for its meetings, to use College auditoriums for meetings open to the public, to use the name of the College in its organization name, and to participate in campus activities as an organized unit."

"The College by its very nature is concerned with the citizenship education of its students, and has both encouraged and provided opportunities by means of which both students and faculty members may have the benefit of objective discussions of issues in the political field."

'TUB' Nears Completion; Opening in February

The TUB (Temporary Union Building) now being erected behind the College infirmary is moving rapidly to completion. Construction work has progressed to the point where workmen are nailing shingles to the walls. The roof is having the last few shingles nailed down. Much of the piping and air circulation systems have been installed.

Many of the windows are still unglazed and of course interior finishing has not yet been applied, but the TUB should be ready for use by the beginning of the next semester, according to George Donovan, Student Union manager.

VA Seeks Unpaid Vets

Veterans who have not received their November subsistence checks should notify the Veterans' Administration, which will undertake a special investigation this week, said R. E. Stroud, senior training officer of the VA at the College.

Band to Miss New Year's Tilt

The Blue Band will not accompany the football team to the Cotton Bowl, it was stated late yesterday afternoon by Harold R. Gilbert, graduate manager of athletics.

After much discussion, a committee representing the Athletic Association in conference with representatives of the College administration, and on the suggestion of certain student leaders, reached the decision yesterday.

In a telephone call to Prof. Hummel Fishburn, head of the music department and director of the Blue Band, Mr. Gilbert explained that because of the expense of the trip it would not be wise to take the organization to Dallas.

Asked for an estimate of the expense that would be entailed in sending the 80-piece band to the Cotton Bowl, Professor Fishburn said that to finance such a trip would require a minimum of $12,000.

Mr. Gilbert declined to comment further on the grounds that an additional statement "might be misunderstood."

AVC Presents Jazz Concert

Jazz comes to Schwab next Monday night in the form of a concert sponsored by the AVC and featuring the Tru Blu Sextet.

"Shoelless" Lou Levi and his Tru Blu Sextet will be on hand at Schwab Auditorium at 7:30 next Monday night and pure jazz will be the order to the day. The other members of the Sextet, George Greenly, Dave Briner, Bob Miller, Lynn Christy, and Bill Keefauver, will each do solo work during the show in addition to their regular duties with the organization. There will also be a commentary by Jim Frakes.

Tickets for the affair are still on sale at the Book and Record Shop, Hotel State College, McMullins and Student Union, and from AVC members, said Ben French, chairman.

Gregory Family In Double Trouble

Trouble always comes in pairs as the Gregory family of 813 Foster avenue well knows. Alex Gregory, a third semester student in the College and editor of Critique, slipped in the bathtub Thursday night and fractured his back.

The same evening, the Gregory Building on the corner of Allen and Beaver streets, was seriously damaged by fire. The building is owned by George J. Gregory, Alex's father.

Alex is in the Centre County Hospital and will remain there for six months, according to the hospital.

Ed Student Council Elects Lotz President

James Lotz was elected president and Larry Shamback, publicity chairman of the Education Student Council recently. Runners-up in the election, Susan Bisset and Marjorie Gorham were named as alternates for John Bohm and Jean Posey who are practice teaching.

Any suggestions to be forwarded to the Student Council are put in the boxes placed in the lobbies of the Burrows Building, the Home Economics Building, or Student Union.

Committees have been set up to organize a Faculty-Student Mixer to select speakers for the remainder of the semester.

The Council plans to hold weekly meetings in order to facilitate more rapid organization. The next meeting will be held at 1:30 p.m. on Saturday.

Thespian's Hot 'n Gold Review Opens Tonight

Tonight marks the opening of Thespians 50th anniversary show, "Hot 'n Gold," a revue of hits from past productions. It will be presented in Schwab Auditorium at 7 o'clock tonight and also Friday and Saturday nights.

Tickets are still available for all performances. The time has been set early so that students wishing to see the show on Saturday night may also attend the basketball game in Recreation Hall.

"Hot 'n Gold," the original title song, will start off the eight scenes in act one. An all-male scene will follow featuring Robert Koser and Wendell (Fuzzy) Lomady as his "female" co-star, assisted by the Male Glee Singers and the male chorus.

Debalers Argue World Union

Two delegations from the Men's Debate Squad will argue the pros and cons of federal world government with 34 eastern colleges at Burlington, Vermont, tomorrow.

Harris Gilbert, men's debate manager, will represent the College in a pre-meet radio round table, "The Cracker Barrel Hour," Station WCAX, Burlington, at 6:20 on the dial, will carry the program. One delegate each from McGill University, Mount Holyoke College, and the University of Vermont will also speak.

Gilbert University of Vermont will also speak.

Joseph F. O'Brien, men's debate coach who will accompany the team, considers the radio appearance quite a distinction in view of the fact that 34 colleges were eligible.

At the tournament, sponsored for the second time by the University of Vermont, Harold Brown and Robert Kagen will support the affirmative view of world federation. Harris Gilbert and Richard Hill will defend the negative stand.

There will be four rounds of debating with each team participating in every round. The orthodox style of debate has been chosen for the tourney. Results of each singular debate will be announced, but no overall winner will be declared.

Saturday, the 196 delegates at the meet will be divided into 12 committee groups to formulate bills concerning the form of international world government desired. At 7:30 p.m. a pseudo-con (Continued on page three) ing Robert Koser and Wendell (Fuzzy) Lomady as his "female" co-star, assisted by the Male Glee Singers and the male chorus.

Adele Yablon and William Mc-Turk, veterans of past Thespian shows, will feature the song, "I've Got Designs on You," taken from the 1931 show, "Reely and Truly." One of the biggest hits of all Thespian shows is the tune, "I've Been Looking for Someone Like You," the song used in the next scene. Again the male chorus appears with Hillard Madway as the male lead and Raymond Fortunado as his "girl."

Torch Singer

Marcia Romanoff, Thespians' torchy singer, gives her rendition of "Call to Love," done in the fall show by the "original," Dorothy Johnston Evans.

Prof. Hummel Fishburn, head of the department of music, wrote the song featured in the next scene. "In a Garden of Tulips with You." Assistant dean of men at the time, Professor Fishburn wrote most of the 1925 show, "Wooden Shoes," from which it was taken. Peggy Cunningham, Thaddeus (Tad) Komorowski, and the girl dancers take part in this scene.

Act II

Act two starts off with a scene from the 1934 show, "We the People." "A Babe in Hollywood" features Barbara Cooper, Lomady, and William Bonsall, and is followed by "I'm Just a Rollin' Stone," with Robert Koser, Bea Stern, Lomady, Virginia Gallup, and the Glee Singers.

"So Sweet, So Sweet" features Fortchies Four with Prudence Roat and McTurk. The show's finale is a medley of past Thespian tunes. New lyrics have been written to fit the football success of the Blue and White's season.

"Hot 'n Gold" is under the direction of Sock Kennedy. Pepper Birchard is acting as production manager assisted by Bea Silverstone and Nicholas Vlanich.
