

One Man's Meat

The Kennel Club Set

By Ben French

We ran into Phineas T. Glockenspiel, Collegian's eminent authority on culinary arts, yesterday afternoon, he had an unusually healthy look about him.

"Why P. T., old man," we greeted him. "You look positively robust. Don't tell me you've gone back to K rations. Or are you being rushed by a fraternity?"

"Better than that, Ben," he answered with a satisfied smile. "I was invited to an exchange dinner with the coeds at Ath Hall. Damn nice of the girls! They realize that they can't keep all the Circulites from starving but they can give nourishment to a fortunate few. However, the mess hall did come through with pancakes for Sunday morning breakfast.

The fellows really went for them. The cook was so rushed that I went back and helped him give the cakes, the old backward flip. It brought back memories of the good old days when I was a short order cook.

"Well, tell us, Phineas," we asked, "how did the Ath Hall dining commons compare with our Circle mess hall?"

"I can see why the girls can't understand our gripes. It was like eating at the Waldorf Astoria. It was the same food but what a difference in the cooking and serving. Why, even one of the serving girls smiled at me! I will admit that the servings were not as large as Miss Fall gives but the cooking, plates, table cloths, etc., made a big difference.

"We were cordially greeted at the door by Dean Weston who said she hoped we enjoyed our dinner. We offered sincere thanks to Dean Weston and the girls of Ath Hall. We certainly did enjoy it but we'll feel a little ashamed when you visit 'Peasants' Haven' next Sunday."

"Hasn't the food improved at all at the Circle?" was our next query.

"It would be completely unfair to the management if we gave the impression that every meal is a stinker. That's not true at all. Sometimes we have excellent meals. But then too, we have meals like Saturday's lunch. The menus labeled it "hash" but as I sat down, Ed Banyal came up to me, wagging his tail and licking my hand.

"Surprised, we asked Editor Ostar how he liked the 'hash' and he replied 'arf, arf, Red Heart.' We tossed him a dog biscuit it had been saving for a fox terrier friend. Now I can't prove that it was Red Heart—probably wasn't—might have been Thrivo or Ken-L-Ration for all I know. Needless to say most of it helped swell the garbage can.

"One more gripe, if you don't mind, and then I'll move on. The stipulation in the Pollock Circle contract states that you must eat at the mess hall if you live in the Circle. Yet, these men have no opportunity to work for their meals. Independents downtown and fraternity men can earn their meals at other fraternities or campus dining halls but the 'peasants' are stuck with compulsory board bills and no chance to cut down on expenses.

"There are plenty of men in the Circle who need the jobs to keep in school or to buy the barest of essentials. Can they do the work? Other dining halls use student help quite successfully so why not in the Circle? An unofficial estimate reveals that $4000 could be saved each year by using student help. And $4000 will buy a lot of steak—or Red Heart?"

"Oh well, Phineas," we remarked as he turned to leave. "we don't have to go to college. We could dig ditches, you know!"

The City of Dallas noticeably lacks shade trees. A great many of the structures in the city have a "new looking" appearance. Dallas is well deserving of all the praise the proud residents bestow on their city. The people are friendly, and always willing to entertain visitors.

Spread out like a fan, Dallas' University Park and Highland Park, the two main suburbs, serve as ideal residential areas. Both are located a few miles north of the business district.

The attractive campus of Southern Methodist is located in the University Park section; many of the campus buildings are constructed of red brick.

Here's Your Chance TO GET TO DALLAS!!
FOR ONLY $39.63 ROUND TRIP

AMERICAN TRAILWAYS
BUSES HAVE BEEN CHARTERED
FOR THE ALL IMPORTANT TRIP

LEAVING FROM HARRISBURG OR PHILADELPHIA
MONDAY DEC. 29 — ARRIVING DALLAS, WED. DEC. 31

LEAVE DALLAS THURS. EVENING JAN 1
ARRIVE AT STARTING POINT SAT. JAN. 3

FRATERNITY and INDIVIDUAL PARTY RESERVATIONS
TAKEN — CALL 6691 — 8:30 P. M. — 10 P. M.

YPCA-

(Continued from page one)

politics . . . whether or not this policy has been a proper one or not may be a matter of opinion, but it is the established policy of the College."

Supplementing this action, Dean Warnock stated that this same policy has been followed heretofore in the cases of student Republican and Democratic political clubs and that there was nothing new in the decision.

In concluding the report, the sub-committee stated that it did not believe that denying the petition would serve to limit in any way the student petitioners in enjoying the opportunities open to all other citizens for holding political views of their choice or associating with political parties or political action movements of their choice.

When contacted last night, YPCA leaders had not been officially notified of the Committee's decision and preferred not to comment on it at that time.

Dr. Walter Coutu, associate professor of sociology, is faculty advisor of the group. A regularly scheduled YPCA meeting will be held tonight.

Bridge Club, WRA Hold Tournament

The first in a series of tournaments between the Men's Bridge Club and the WRA Advanced Women's Bridge Club was held in the N.W. unit of Atherton Hall Tuesday night.

Winners for the evening were: North-South, Joan Berchtold and Reginald Kimble Jr. first, John Hauptman and George Widdowson second, and Thelma Geier and George McMurtrie third. East-West winners were Sydney Puloer and Myron Weinberg first, Lois Metzler and Warren Haney second, and Eleanor Tobias and Rodney Hilbert third.

These tournaments are being sponsored for the benefit of those

Pi Lam Pledges Invite Brothers, Guests
To 'Go to Hell'

For a solid week, Pi Lambda Phi fraternity has been heating the house with sulphur and brimstone and stirring its coffee with stalactites in preparation for a trip to Hell this weekend during its pledge dance, "Pi Lam's Purgatory."

With Satan himself as technical advisor the Pi Lams have been able to bring to the campus a little corner of perdition.

Overriding a blackball vote, His Santanic Majesty is bringing with him such netherworld characters as the Devil Rhythm Boys and Lila, the 15-foot dragon.

The pledges are now secretly hoping the Devil doesn't teach the brothers any new stunts before their initiation.

Pi Tau Sigma Smoker Welcomes 18 Pledges

Pi Tau Sigma, ME honorary, pledged 18 students at a recent smoker held at the Delta Sigma Phi fraternity.

Those elected for membership were: Seventh semester: Paul J. Adams, Preston E. Baustian, Arthur G. Bornstein, Charles S. Gilbert Jr., John D. Hazinski, Donald R. Herb, George P. Jones, Philip W. Reed, Stewart T. Sando, and Frank Tidona.

Sixth semester: Russel A. Berger, George F. Bierman, Jack J. Biery, Henry C. Meier, John P. Schoening, and Dale E. Woomert.

Fifth semester: James T. Adams and Ray F. Boedecker.

Louis J. Bradford, professor of machine design, spoke to members and guests of Pi Tau Sigma on the history of the national fraternity.

Interested in playing duplicate bridge, said Clark Wahl, men's club president. The next meeting in the tournament will be held in the N.W. unit of Atherton Hall at 7:15 p.m. next Tuesday.

AEPi Head Installs College Chapter

Pi Deuteron Chapter of Alpha Epsilon Pi fraternity was officially established as a member of the College's group of national fraternities at initiation ceremonies held at the Nittany Lion Inn Sunday.

Louis Heller, supreme master of Alpha Epsilon Pi, officiated at the initiation. Among the guests present were George Toll, executive secretary, who acted as toastmaster, Dean Warnock, Rabbi Benjamin Kahn, and Wilmer E. Kenworthy.

The recently installed officers of the Pi Deuteron chapter are Leon Beratan, master, Ramon Garfinkel, lieutenant master, Harold Gittlen, scribe, Morton Grossman, exchequer, and Morris Ziswasser, member-at-large. Herbert F. Wischnia is faculty advisor, and Jerry Wolf an AEPi from the University of Miami, is now a member of the Pi Deuteron chapter.

Others initiated were Sol Blatt, George Dessauer, Martin Friedman, Sidney Gold, Lawrence Goldberg, Bernard Hanes, Bernard Kaplowitz, Paul Kossman, Arthur Labovitz, Leon Lock, Donald Meiser, Gerald Mormorstein, Leo Polak, Floyd Selbst, Maurice Serkin, and Charles Feitelman.

A ritual team from AEPi at the University of Pennsylvania officially made Pi Deuteron the 42nd chapter of Alpha Epsilon Pi.

Debaters-

(Continued from page one)

gressional session, with all the delegates as members, will pass bills representing the results of their thinking.

Among the colleges participating are Amherst, Dartmouth, Saint Lawrence, Syracuse, Rhode Island State, Temple, Vassar, United States Military Academy and Rutgers.

Black Suede
Red Calf

A flip quip of a shoe on a high-time heel.
Just one of our gay party of young Mademoiselles so complement-ary to the "new look" in fashion. $16.95

Mademoiselle, you'll love to be in our shoes.

Charles Shop