

Dramatists Seek Future Authors

The thirteenth annual competition for awards in dramatic writing has been announced by the Dramatists' Alliance of Stanford University. All persons, whatever their training, experience, or residence, are eligible to compete in these contests, which close February 15. Entries are to be mailed to Dramatists' Alliance, Box 200 Z, Stanford University, California.

The purpose of the competition and awards is to discover new and striving authors, and to recommend the best plays to community and college theaters and to established periodicals.

Those entering the best work may, for a special fee to cover clerical and editorial expenses, submit their entries to a discussion by the annual Dramatists' Assembly of 1948.

Information about registration papers, fees, and special services can be obtained from the above address. The Dramatists' Alliance advises that those entering the contest send for full information.

Post-Gazette Runs Story on Co-op

An article concerning the proposed cooperative store at the College was published in the December 18 issue of the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette.

The paper explained that the College chapter of American Veterans Committee had written to the Post-Gazette, telling that 93 percent of the student body had voted to have the cooperative. The article also pointed out the Board of Trustees' reason for disapproving the student petition.

In the Post-Gazette it was emphasized that the students' desire to have a cooperative was to aid the entire student body, and especially the veterans who are attempting to live on $65 and $90 a month.

MERRY CHRISTMAS

... such a little expression to mean so much to everyone. It can mean a lot more if we will but stop a moment to think of the other fellow. It doesn't take much to make a Christmas merry... just a little thought, a little kindness and a bright smile... your own cheerful symbol of that wonderful, intangible, Christmas spirit. May this not be for just these few days, but your own personal "spirit" throughout the year, and may this season be your brightest, happiest, and best one ever!
