

Mr. Waring, Trustee

The surprise appointment of Fred Waring to the Board of Trustees by Governor Duff was well received by both students and some administrative officials at the College.

It has been expressed by student government leaders and in the Daily Collegian that many of the present members of the Board are too far removed, both in age and distance, from the present trend of campus life to fully appreciate the problems which confront the undergraduates.

While no one expects Waring to establish residence in State College, his recent visit to the campus indicates that his interest in Penn State has not waned. While here, he had the initiative to mention the need for a new auditorium over a nation-wide hook-up, and to talk to students about other campus needs.

The appointment of Waring may indicate a future trend in the selection of Trustees. Perhaps the governor believes there is a need for younger, more progressive Board members. The rapid expansion of the College in recent years would bear this out for while the College is getting older in years it is getting younger in its ideas.

We can't help but feeling that the co-op issue wouldn't have suffered such an initial blow if Waring and others like him were deciding its fate.

—LGF

Letters —

Bemoans the Missing Band

TO THE EDITOR: Enclosed (seven column picture of band) is one of the many items from the Miami, Fla., newspapers publicizing the University of Kansas band which made the trip to the Orange Bowl through state subscription.

It's too bad they had to make excuses on the radio for our band when actually it was the financial situation which stood in the way. We should all take our hats off to Kansas for their spirit in raising, through state-wide subscription, $18,000 to send their 120-piece band which was beneficial in establishing good-will far beyond the cost.

Someday we'll come from behind the old mountain and see how the rest of the country lives.

—S. Biederman

• It's tough on the outside too!

College Calendar

All calendar items must be in the Daily Collegian office by 4:30 p.m. on the day preceding publication.

Friday, January 9

PENN State Bible Fellowship, 200 CH, 7:30 p.m.
MILITARY Film, 119 New Phys, 7:30 p.m.
COLLEGIAN Junior and Sophomore Editorial Boards, 8 CH, 4:10 p.m.
COLLEGIAN candidates, 9 CH, 4:30 p.m.

Saturday, January 10

WRESTLING, Penn State-Princeton, Rec Hall, 7:30 p.m.
CHESS Exhibition, NE Atherton Lounge, 2 p.m.
EDUCATION Student Council, 110 HE, 1 p.m.

Sunday, January 11

CO-OP Meeting, Aud, 7 p.m.
ALPHA Phi Alpha, 415 Old Main, 3 p.m.
CHRISTIAN Science Group, 405 Old Main, 7:30 p.m.
TALENT Show Rehearsal, 405 Old Main, 2 p.m.
LIBERAL Arts Student Council, 127 Sparks 7 p.m. Important.
PENN State Bible Fellowship, 304 Old Main, 3:30 p.m.

Monday, January 12

ARTISTS' Course, Carol Brice, Aud, 8 p.m.
ALPHA Phi Alpha, 415 Old Main, 7 p.m.
X-Club, 210 Main Eng, 7 p.m.
4-H Club, 405 Old Main, 7:30 p.m.
IWA, 104 Temp, 7 p.m.
PHILOTES, WSGA Room, 7 p.m.
EARTH Science Research Colloquium, 202 EE, 4 p.m.

At the Movies

Cathaum—My Wild Irish Rose
State—Something in the Wind
Nittany—Unsuspected

College Hospital

Admitted Wednesday: Jane Kelley, Joseph Morel, Jr., Malka Hoffman.
Discharged Thursday: Paul Waterman, Albert Daugherty, Gerald Huber, Harry Bennett.

Placement Service

National Supply Company, January 12 eighth semester men, C&F, A&L, ME.
Sears, Roebuck and Company, January 13, eighth semester men, C&F, A&L, Ed.
Firestone Tire & Rubber Co., January 15 and 16, eighth semester men, A&L, C&F.
Burrows Adding Machine Company, January 19, C&F, A&L (acc'l).
Arrangements for interviews should be made at once in 204 Old Main.

One Man's Meat Ties and Blankets

by Ben French

"Whew!" said Phineas T. Glockenspiel. "What a town that Dallas is!"

"You had a good time at the Cotton Bowl game then, Phineas?" we asked Collegian's feline authority on football weekends.

"Well, to be truthful, I didn't see much of the game. We went to a New Year's Eve party out in Highland Park and never arrived at the stadium until the end of the first half. From where we sat we couldn't see any difference between the great Doak Walker and our own Elwood Petchel and SMU can keep their Johnson and Folsom as long as we have Frannie Rogel, Larry Cooney, and Chuck Drzenovich. And did you see the work of the Seven Mountains and their replacements—the Nittany foothills!"

"I take it then that you're satisfied with a tie," we remarked. "Never satisfied," Phineas replied, "but Bob Higgins' boys made us proud to be from Penn State when they roared back after spotting the Mustangs two touchdowns."

"Now that football is over for another nine months or so, the only question remaining is what happens to the $66,000 or so from the proceeds of the game. I hope that the Athletic Association uses it to help some of the other sports as well as football. Not enough emphasis is placed on the so-called 'minor' sports such as basketball, boxing, wrestling, etc. Those athletes work just as hard for their alma mater as the pigskin luggers and get much less in return. Even the 'S' on their varsity sweaters is smaller."

"There's much talk around campus of different organizations giving scholarships to the football team but what about the other sports. Who talks about giving aid to members of the cross-country team for instance? And don't forget, they're National champs! To our way of thinking, there's nothing wrong with helping members of the football team through school. Students who work on publications or in politics receive a little money so why not the athletes? But let's spread it around to all who spend their free time training for a College team."

"And while we're on the subject, let's not limit an athlete to one sport. In the off-seasons, footballers should be able to take part in boxing, basketball, or any other sport if they choose. Let's not build up a great football team at the expense of Penn State athletics as a whole."

"Have you heard of this 'blanket permission' ruling that the coeds are trying to have put into effect?" we asked Glockenspiel.

"Yes, I have," he replied. "At first I thought the girls were trying to get permission to carry blankets on campus but now I see that I was wrong. Under the proposed plan, parents of the girls would notify the Dean of Women's office at the beginning of the year that their daughter has their permission to leave campus at any time without a special letter from home. A postcard would be sent to the parents each time the girl signs out."

"It sounds like a good idea but like all progressive ideas brought up by the girls, it will die a lingering and unpublicized death. The coeds, themselves, are afraid to speak out in favor of it because there are too many ways the D of W's office can retaliate. Sure, the girls make their own rules through the WSGA Senate but I just wonder how many rules they have passed that weren't first approved by the D of W."

"Phineas, I thought you had learned that you can't buck City Hall," we scolded. The feline authority crawled back in his hole and began nibbling at his bitter camp.

Here and There

by Dick Sarge

ISOLATION WARD?

It was the first period of the big game on the West Coast and Southern Cal had just kicked an extra point to make the score 10-7, favor of Notre Dame. The three patients in the men's ward at the infirmary settled back on their beds and turned the radio volume up again to catch the kick-off details.

But at that moment the nurse entered the room, admonished them for breaking regulations and took their portable radio away from them. That, on top of their ailments, isn't exactly conducive to rapid recovery.

SOMEONE'S OFF THE BEAM

Gerry Karver, Penn State's stellar mile runner, wore the colors of the College in the Sugar Bowl track tournament January 1. Curt Stone ran for Shanahan A. C. of Philadelphia.

What stand has the College taken now regarding participation in events from which Negroes are barred? Didn't the boxing team turn down a Sugar Bowl offer for that reason? Weren't the only terms under which the football squad accepted the Cotton Bowl invitation those which allowed Hoggard and Triplett to play. Didn't Penn State cancel an engagement with Miami U. last year for the furtherance of these lofty ideals?

Penn State, after adopting the finer view of the situation, now is obligated to maintain its stand. Sure, we wanted Karver to compete in the fast company of his calibre. We wanted him to get the national spotlight. But, isn't Penn State definitely opposed to discrimination in athletics?

What about it, Senate Committee on Eligibility? And what is the Athletic Advisory Board going to do about it?

CHINESE STYLE NEXT, PERHAPS

The Post Office department is considering a suggestion to change the method of addressing envelopes to speed sorting and delivery by post office personnel.

If adopted, the regulation would require letter writers to place the town and state on the first line, the street address next, and the name of the addressee on the last line—or completely inverted from the present style.

THE DAILY COLLEGIAN 19 Prizes Unclaimed

Successor to the Free Lance, est. 1871

Published Tuesday through Friday mornings during the College year by the staff of the Daily Collegian of the Pennsylvania State College. Entered as second class matter July 5, 1934, at the State College, Pa., Post Office under the act of March 3, 1879. $2.50 a semester; $4.25 the school year.

Alan W. Ostar - Editor
Donald W. Ellis - Bus. Mgr.

STAFF THIS ISSUE
Managing Editor - Jo Fox
Assistant - John Bonnell
News Editor - Arni Garton
Assistant - Dot Werlinch
Assistants - Jack Lapos, Elaine Kats, Rita Roum

Nineteen gifts remain unclaimed in the annual Christmas season prize plan sponsored by the Commerce Club. Those who hold winning tickets and have failed to claim their prizes are requested to do so immediately. Unclaimed numbers include: 1049D, 2625H, 3410A, 3142D, 3316F, 3476C, 3683D, 4364D, 4503D, 9800D, 4680A, 4814A, 4897C, 5003H, 5091C, 5654A, 7124G, 7548, 9162F.

Winning tickets should be presented at the office located on W. College Avenue.

Editor's Mailcall

Thanks, Ladies

TO THE EDITOR: We are happy to find that there are six coeds on this campus who have our interests at heart.

Considering that a majority of the men are vets with several years of military discipline under their belts, a statement of ten o'clock permissions is a joke. If only a letter from mother could have kept us out of the guardhouse for coming in five minutes late! Besides what can a clean-cut, red-blooded American boy do in this burg after ten o'clock?

And may we compare the new Nittany Dorms with the new Women's Dorms under construction. Double rooms in W.D. will be 12x17 feet while our boudoirs are 10x12 feet. Even single rooms will be larger than our double rooms. Compared with your small double dressers with 8 large drawers and four small ones, we have a large single dresser with four large drawers and two small drawers: one dresser for two men. And is comparing night table and telephone to double bunks and bare floors rubbing it in? Are lovely open dust-catching closets comparable to sliding door wardrobes? Need we continue?

From six men who never had it so good.
Howard W. Eckert, Walter P. Lehnert,
Kenneth Saff, Jack Frassinelli, Daniel Baker, Guy W. Denniston
P.S. And we have no view!

Where Was the Blue Band?

TO THE EDITOR: Where was the Penn State Blue Band on New Year's Day? Certainly not in Dallas, Texas, where it should have been! The College made about $75,000 from the Cotton Bowl game and yet couldn't afford to spend part of that and send the Blue Band to Dallas. Instead, State pays a Texas High School band to play.

If the football squad receives a bowl bid next year, I hope the College feels it can spend a little of the money earned this year on the men who give their time and spirit to play for the scheduled football games, and send the Band as well as the squad.

The South will talk about the mighty Penn State football team, but there would be a lot more "noise" if it could have seen and heard our Band in action.

Why didn't the Blue Band go to Dallas???

—Margaret Leister

• The Blue Band didn't go to Dallas because of a decision by Mr. S. K. Hostetter, assistant to the president in charge of business and finance, and Mr. Harold R. Gilbert, graduate manager of athletics. It was felt that, since athletics have been a drain on the general fund for many years, the money received from the Cotton Bowl would help the deficit.

The White Oak High School Band, which represented Penn State at the Cotton Bowl, volunteered its services and received no pay from the College. Observers claim that this band far outshone the SMU band.

Evidently the College officials believed that the estimated $18,000 needed to send the Blue Band to Dallas could be put to better use in the athletic program. Whether the money is put to good use remains to be seen.

From the Forgotten Men

TO THE EDITOR: The forgotten men of "Mud Row" Nittany Dorms plead once again for better conditions. The piling up of insult upon injury has become just a little bit more than this person can bear. I bring before the public eye just two of the most recent gripes from the list of hundreds that we have to bear.

1. A recent noon meal of no meat; a dry, half-cooked potato with no gravy; carrots; some beat-up celery, and the usual bread, milk and dessert made someone fat, but it certainly surely wasn't the poor souls who had to eat it.

2. It has been the routine for our landlords to open their hearts and give us one clean sheet a week. That was until yesterday, when for no good reason, the higher few decided that we will have to use our already dirty sheet for another week. I ask you, is such an action for the benefit of our health, or is it to save some Christmas pin money from the laundry bill?

I rest my case.

—Disgusted

Glad to Hear It

TO THE EDITOR: Last Sunday at noon, there was a welcome home rally for the football team in front of the Corner Room. It was one of the largest rallies that I've seen this semester. There were a few students, and about 2,000 townspeople there. The town band that was there played the College songs, and everyone from a six-month-old child to a man well over eighty cheered as the three buses rolled in.

It was something that I wished every student could have seen. It was one of the too-few times that the people in town showed the students that they were behind them, and supporting them. It was a wonderful gesture on the part of everyone to come out and give the team the welcome home they deserved. I'm sure that everyone who wanted to be there, help in the cheering will be happy to know that the team WAS received in style.

—Chuck Weiss

• The students at Central State Teachers College in Stevens Point, Wis., recently organized a student co-op cafeteria on campus.
• The U. of Wisconsin established a consumer co-op grocery store on their campus last year.

Editorials and features in The Daily Collegian reflect the opinions of the writer. They make no claim to represent student or College opinion. All unsigned editorials are by the editor.