

Regional NSA Establishes Transfer Student Program

By ALLAN OSTAR, NSA Delegate

(This is the fourth and final report on the NSA to the constitutional convention held at the University of Wisconsin last summer.)

Penn State will play an important role in the international activities of the NSA. At the Pennsylvania regional meeting held on campus at the beginning of Christmas vacation, Harold E. Brown, a sophomore Penn State delegate, was elected head of international affairs for the region.

Also to be set up on campus will be a regional commission to gather information and make arrangements for a student ship program. This program calls for the obtaining of converted troop ships from the Maritime Commission to provide low-cost transportation of American students to Europe for summer study or to aid in rehabilitation projects.

This commission was accepted by Penn State because of the experience of John H. Ferguson, head of the political science department, and J. Paul Selsam, professor of European history, both of whom conducted American students to Europe last summer, in State Department sponsored student ships.

Includes Publications

Projected international activities of NSA include the publication and exchange of articles written by students throughout the world. This will be done through cooperation with World Student News, the publication of the International Union of Students. Articles written by U. S. students will be sent to the American editor in Prague. There will also be an exchange of publications with student groups not affiliated with IUS.

Other projects include making

Players Present O'Neill Mask Play

"Great God Brown," a Eugene O'Neill play, will be the second Players' production slated for Schwab Auditorium during the Spring semester. It will be presented March 11, 12, and 13 under the direction of Robert E. Kendall, instructor of dramatics.

Only the principal characters have been cast. Tryouts for the remaining parts will be held at the beginning of next semester, said Kendall. Portman Paget will portray the title role of Billy Brown.

Wilma Brehm, William Preston, Dianne Scuderi, Jane Staus, and June Williams have been selected to play leading parts.

O'Neill explains the story as a mystery dealing with personalities. Throughout the play, the characters assume different personalities by the use of masks. The main plot deals with Brown, a businessman, and an artist, who are both in their own way searching for a satisfactory life.

Senior Class Meets

February graduates may express their preference for the senior class gift at a meeting of the class of '48 in the second floor lounge of Old Main at 7 p.m. Thursday, said Edward Banyai, senior class president. The meeting is for the entire senior class, he added, but one of the main purposes will be to let winter graduates make their preference known for the use of the $5,000 class gift fund.

CORE Elects Steering Group

The Committee on Racial Equality recently elected as vice chairman, Mrs. P. X. Rice, recording secretary, Frances Welker; corresponding secretary, Joan Bergdoll; and treasurer, Alex Atty. A chairman will be elected at the February meeting.

The steering committee of the CORE consists of Reverend Robert H. Eads, George Gearhart, William Meek, William Staley, and Edward Walecovitch.

The next meeting of the steering committee will be held in 415 Old Main at 7:15 p.m. February 9. The complete organization will meet at the same place and date at 8:30 p.m.

Members have been asked to contact their organizations for a contribution which will be used to institute the educational program of the CORE, said Frances Welker, recording secretary.

Allen Appoints Gabriel Head of Soph Hop Group

Robert Gabriel was appointed chairman of the Soph Hop committee by Ted Allen, sophomore president at a recent class meeting.

Others appointed to the committee, which is planning the February 27 dance, were Fred Brown, Virginia Fetter, Robert Harrison, Charles Jones, Howard McCoy, Alan Spinweber. Randy Brooks' orchestra will play for the dance.

Employment Office Lists Spring Jobs

Students seeking employment for the coming semester who have not previously registered at the Employment Office, 420 Old Main, should sign up this week.

Because of the work of the Student Employment Office, 900 students at the College have secured part-time work since the fall semester began.

The type of jobs that are usually available at the office include restaurant work, house work, calculating machine operators, dishwashers, pin-boys, baby-sitters, drafting, sales in retail stores, and window washing.

Collegian Vacation

Tomorrow's issue of the Daily Collegian will be the last of the semester, Allan W. Ostar, editor stated last night. The first issue of the Spring semester will appear on the opening day of Registration.

Committee Closes Student Campaign For Hetzel Fund

Campus participation in the Hetzel Memorial Fund drive will end tomorrow, said Willard F. Agnew, fund committee chairman.

The purpose of the fund is to raise $5,000 to purchase books for a memorial library in honor of the late Ralph Dorn Hetzel.

Half of the fund will be raised from the Penn State Alumni and its drive will extend into February. Members of the Alumni will be contacted through the next issue of the alumni magazine, Agnew said.

Contribution boxes for students have been placed at Student Union, dormitories, restaurants and other places in town. Fraternities, sororities and honoraries may, if they haven't as yet, turn in checks payable to the Hetzel Memorial Fund, at Student Union.

Town organizations have been contacted and their contributions have been received.

The proposed library, consisting of Dr. Hetzel's favorites and books on philosophy and psychology will be housed in the main library.

Chairman Agnew said the li-

YPCA Amendment Answers Protest

An amendment to the constitution of the Young Progressive Citizens of America was adopted recently in order to meet the College Senate committee's objections to the organization, said William R. Meek, chapter chairman.

The amendment states that "all public political meetings sponsored by this organization which are conducted on the campus of the Pennsylvania State College shall be of a non-partisan nature. This organization shall not endorse or support any political candidate or party on campus."

The initial senate sub-committee report refused YPCA its charter on the grounds that "it exists for the purpose of organizing support for legislation which it favors and for candidates for public office which it favors."

Jacqueline Heckert, Soprano, Wins All-College Talent Show

soprano, was selected by audience applause as the winner of the seventh annual All-College Talent Show in Schwab Auditorium Friday night.

The large, enthusiastic audience chose Miss Heckert, a third semester Liberal Arts student, by a decisive margin from among the five semi-finalists. The selections she sang were "Desert Song" from the show of the same name, and "My Hero" from the "Chocolate Soldier."

Second place winners were a quartet called the "Real Gone Gals." The Gals, made up of Bessie Battle, Mary Jane Louis, Reta Cranson, and Jane Winfield, did an original impersonation of a jazz combo without instruments. Bessie Battle was vocalist, singing the song "Real Gone Guy."

Third prize winner was William Walker, who sang a soulful version of "Stormy Weather." Walker placed second in last year's Talent Show.

Students Plug Co-op With Tags, Letters

Appeal Reaches Duff

HARRISBURG, Jan. 16—(AP)—A request for the commonwealth to intervene in a dispute over establishment of a student co-operative at the Pennsylvania State College was on Gov. James H. Duff's desk today.

Sen. John H. Dent, Senate Democratic leader, made public yesterday a letter to the governor appealing for intervention, which said:

"I have before me information and complaints from students at Penn State concerning action of the Board of Trustees in refusing a student sponsored cooperative store to provide cheaper commodities and so forth to thousands of G. I. students attending school with wives and families to support."

Dent said he "with 93 percent of the students at Penn State who voted for this endeavor" will "appreciate your help in getting a favorable decision for this project."

Drive Enters New Phase

In another attempt to convince the Board of Trustees of student enthusiasm for a campus co-op store, tags will be distributed by All-College co-op committee for wearing on Thursday, Friday, and especially Saturday, when the Board meets, said David Malickson, contact sub-committee chairman.

Printed in green on both sides of diamond-shaped tags will appear the slogan "Sure I'm Co-operating," and the twin evergreen symbol of the co-operative movement.

A stringing party will be held at the Alpha Zeta fraternity house from 7 to 9 o'clock tomorrow night. All students are invited to help put strings in the 5000 tags, in a move to save $15.

Approximately 1200 postal cards have been distributed to students for personal messages to Trustees, said Malickson yesterday. About 300 more were hoped to be used before completion of the campaign last night.

March of Dimes Campaign Receives Generous Support

"Early response to the campus March of Dimes campaign is excellent," said Arthur F. Davis, chairman of the College drive. The campaign against infantile paralysis is in its fifth day today.

Door to door canvassing is being conducted in the women's dormitories, campus cottages and town dorms by a committee under the supervision of Nancy Erb. Miss Erb said that, from all indications, this unit will exceed its goal of $100.

Music Students Appear In Department Recital

A student music recital, sponsored by the music department, will be presented in 117 Carnegie Hall, 8:30 tonight, announced Mrs. Elizabeth Reynolds and Professor Guy Woods, faculty members in charge.

A quartet including Rebecca Griffin, Paulette M. Zundel, Maynard Hill, and Howard Atwell, will sing the song cycle, "In a Persian Garden," by Liza Lehmann. The group will be accompanied by Paul Margolf.

The last movement of Rachmaninoff's Second Piano Concerto will be performed by Jack Kelly, with Professor Woods at the second piano.
