

Even It Out!

Department heads and professors, in their schedule planning for individual courses, should use further insight into such planning in order to prevent a repetition of the assignment jam-up which characterized many classes during the last week of the Fall term.

Complaints filed by students indicate heavy burdens of homework dealt out in many courses at semester's end. Some professors covered fifty to one hundred pages in the last day of class. Others held students responsible for material never covered, due to time's running out. This situation does deserve a remedy and should be discussed in departmental and school meetings of the faculty. Teachers who hand out complete course schedules at first meetings appear to have less difficulty completing their task. There should be additional methods which would help improve this condition.

—Ted Rubin

© VARSITY Magazine For Young Men

"So what if she didn't show up last night! You don't think I care, do you?"

Letters from the Editor's Mailcall

(Editor's Note—In order to present completely for the first time the actual policy of the College towards political and other partisan student groups, the Daily Collegian deviates from its word limitation to reprint the following letter.)

Campus Political Groups TO THE EDITOR:

In Tuesday's issue your Phineas T. Glockenspiel committed a journalistic fault. In discussing student political groups and their use of campus facilities, he criticized a College policy that does not exist. He said, "They prohibit meetings of politically minded students on campus." If that were the policy, his criticism would be justified and I would join him in making them. That, however, is not the policy.

The long standing policy was most recently stated in a reply made by the Senate Committee on Student Welfare to a group of students petitioning for recognition as a local chapter of Young Progressive Citizens of America and reported in the Collegian. The same reply had been made before to student groups representing major political parties. Such politically minded groups may legitimately hold meetings for business and discussion purposes in rooms in College buildings, but they may not use campus auditoriums for public rallies or public meetings intended to promote the campaign of candidates running for public office or to promote the programs of partisan political parties or political action movements. That may be a wise or foolish policy, but for many years it has been deemed desirable. The same policy governs other fields. Schwab auditorium is used regularly for religious services, but its use would be denied to student members of the Methodist Church, for instance, for promoting the specific interests of that particular religious faith. I hope this letter may clarify Glockenspiel's understanding of the situation.

—A. R. Warnock
Dean of Men

National Youth Assembly

TO THE EDITOR: We recently received a call to a National Youth Assembly against UMT, to be held in Washington, D. C., this coming Sunday and Monday, February 15 and 16. The assembly is sponsored by some 200 youth and adult leaders from a large number of organizations.

The call to the assembly states: "...Without your efforts Universal Military Training may become the law of the land this spring. President Truman in his message on the State of the Union called for the passage of UMT at this session of Congress. There is no time for delay!..."

"We urge the attendance and participation of any individual or group who agrees that the adoption of UMT will be a threat to the American traditions of Peace, Freedom, Education, Health, and Moral standards."

We have just learned that Cornell U Campus is sending two bus loads of students, who will be among the thousands from all over the country attending. YPCA would like to hear from any individuals or organizations interested in the Assembly. We are immediately concerned with the problem of transportation and would like to hear from you car-owners.

On behalf of the Executive Committee. YPCA.
—Marvin Thall, 3986.

Students for Wallace

TO THE EDITOR: In an effort to allow the student body to participate in the nation-wide Students for Wallace movement, all students are cordially invited to attend the initial organizational meeting of the Penn State group in the Hugh Beaver Room, 304 Old Main, at 7:45 o'clock tonight.

The agenda:
Introductory remarks.
Reports on conferences and conventions.
The Wallace Program.
Question and Answer period.
Organization of Committees.
Distribution of Convention Calls.
Election of temporary officers.
Date for next meeting.
Respectfully submitted,
—Ted Rubin,
Students for Wallace.

Co-op Quotes

• The student co-operative association at U. of Washington recently purchased two houses which will house 45 students.

• The U. of Washington students Co-operative Assn. recently took over the complete responsibility for operation of International House.

CALENDAR

Friday, February 13

PENN State Bible Fellowship, 200 CH, 7:30 p.m.

HILLEL Palestine Festival, Hillel Foundation, 7:30 p.m.

At the Movies

CATHAUM—Captain from Castille.

STATE—My Girl Tisa.

NITTANY—Down to Earth.

Placement Service

Allied Chemical and Dye Corporation, Feb. 27, eighth semester men from Organic Chem., Phys. Chem., and men and women in Chem. and Com. Chem.

Firestone Tire and Rubber Co., Feb. 18, 19, 20, eighth semester men from Chem. Eng., Chem., EE, IE, ME, Accounting.

Radio Corporation of America, Feb. 23, eighth semester men from EE, ME, IE, Phy. (interested in development work).

THE DAILY COLLEGIAN

Successor to the Free Lance, est 1871

Published Tuesday through Saturday mornings during the College year by the staff of the Daily Collegian of the Pennsylvania State College. Entered as second class matter July 5, 1934, at the State College, Pa., Post Office under the act of March 3, 1879. $2.50 a semester; $4.25 the school year.

Man. Ed., Ben I. French, Jr.; News Ed., Roberta Hutchison; Sports Ed., Ted Rubin; Ass't. Sports Ed., Dave Adelman; Feature Ed., Eleanor Fehnel; Woman's Ed., Marjorie Mousley.

Alan W. Ostar - Editor
Donald W. Ellis - Bus Mgr.

STAFF THIS ISSUE

Managing Editor - Arni Gerton
Assistant - Bill Kauffman
News Editor - Jo Fox
Assistant - Jack Lapos
Copy Editor - Loretta Neville
Assistant - Dotie Werlinich
Advertising Manager - Kostis Bargas
Assistant - Selma Lampert

• At the U. of Chicago, the AVC co-operates with the Co-op Assn. to set up a veterans' co-operative association.

we're on a TIErade
see classified

NOW AT YOUR WARNER THEATER

Cathaum
TYRONE POWER
JEAN PETERS
"Captain from Castile"
In Technicolor

State
Lili Palmer
Sam Wanamaker
"MY GIRL TISA"

Nittany
RITA HAYWORTH
LARRY PARKS
"Down to Earth"
in TECHNICOLOR

THERE'S NO PLACE
ON EARTH LIKE . . .

HENRY'S
PARADISE CAFE

114 S. Spring Street
BELLEFONTE, PA.

VALENTINE'S DAY
SATURDAY, FEB. 14

with the

Tru-Blu Quintet

'Wild Dave' Briner
'Pops' Greenly
The Old Professor
'Shoeless Lou' Levi
'Mouse' Miller

On the Stand Again
Friday, February 13

8:30 - 12:30

ON THE AIR
OVER WMAJ

11:30 - 12

EXCELLENT SERVICE
No Cover - No Minimum

For Your Valentine
a heart-winning candlelight dinner at

COOK'S