

'Three Men'—

er, as Al, her photographer; John Devlin, as Harry, the affable bartender; Joy Polikoff, as the un-inspired maid; Herbert Rossman, as Mr. Carver, Erwin's confused employer; and Kermit Staaf, as Clarence, his exasperating brother-in-law.

Henri Groenheim, as the delivery boy; George Miller, as the elevator man; and Sydney Pulver, as the tailor, complete the cast.

Prof. Warren Smith, director, characterized the show as sure-fire comedy. "Always accepted as one of the best in American farce," he said, "it has been enthusiastically received in revival productions since its Broadway closing."

"Watch for Jean Bickerton's scene as Mabel," he advised. "Our researchers report that it's the first burlesque act ever staged by Players."

"Three Men on a Horse" was specifically selected for its qualities as broad comedy, both to balance an otherwise serious fare of Players' shows, and because of its appeal to the collegiate group, he said.

Hetzel—

In the field of education and his great contribution to the cultural development of the youth of Pennsylvania.

Received Many Awards

Appreciation of Dr. Hetzel's work was also felt by the students and he was the constant recipient of presents and awards from them. The first of these was a silver loving cup presented to Dr. and Mrs. Hetzel when they first came to the College in January, 1937.

His correspondence files contain many letters from students, fraternal and social groups, as well as from faculty members. On the occasion of his tenth anniversary at the College, President Hetzel kept a scrapbook of congratulatory letters and telegrams, pictures and newspaper clippings.

There are, included in the gift, many pictures of the President and his family, as well as honorary degrees and diplomas, his testimonials and scrolls which he had received during his career.
