

Cabinet Opposes CORE Plan

Lions Challenge Athletic Invaders

Five Nittany Lion teams will participate in a variety of contests in Rec Hall today, providing winter sports enthusiasts with a jam-packed weekend of activities.

Gene Wettstone's gymnasts will open the program when they face the once-beaten Navy squad at 1 o'clock. The Lions will be seeking their 12th consecutive win in dual competition. This meet will be of major importance as a triumph will move the Blue and White nearer the Eastern Intercollegiate crown.

The Cornell-Lion wrestling match will follow the gym meet at 2:30 o'clock. Coach Charlie Speidel's wrestlers hope to bolster their unimpressive record of a lone shut-out victory, three losses, and two deadlocks. Jayvee wrestlers of the respective squads follow.

Michigan State and Lion boxers will square off in the Rec Hall ring at 7 o'clock. The Spartans have an above-par record to date and boast a national champion, Chuck Davey, in their lineup.

John Lawther's courtmen play host to an avenging Colgate five at 8:30 o'clock.

Feminine Tootlers Bare Their Legs For Concert

Femininity will be preserved in the Blue Band when it presents its annual spring concert in Schwab Auditorium early in April. Coed members will wear royal blue, gored skirts with a kick pleat in front at their first public appearance this year. Jackets will be identical with those of the men.

Skirts and trousers at irregular intervals may destroy uniformity of appearance in a marching band but both the girls and James W. Dunlop, conductor, agree that a concert band looks just as well when the women wear skirts.

Instructs Delegate To Back New Shop

By Elliot Shapiro

All-College Cabinet has instructed its representative on CORE to vote for the establishment of a new barber shop to serve Negro students and others.

The decision came as a blow to many who had expected that Cabinet would support a withdrawal of patronage from barber shops as a means of ending discrimination. William Staley, Cabinet delegate to CORE, told of the different paths Cabinet might instruct him to follow.

One highly recommended by CORE members present at the meeting was the suspension of patronage. An alternative was the establishment of a new shop. Gayle Gearhart and William Meek explained to the group how the new shop would soon degenerate into a semi-Jim Crow shop and would not solve the basic problem.

Although Cabinet has only one vote in CORE, its opinion, since it represents all students, is (Continued on page two)

WMAJ Airs AVC Housing Forum; Editor, Economist, Contractor Speak

"Housing" will be the topic of the first AVC-sponsored round table discussion to be broadcast over radio station WMAJ from 9:30 to 10 p.m. Tuesday.

Speakers will be Robert Kagan, AVC representative; Jerome Weinstein, editor of the Centre Daily Times; John H. Henszey, contractor; Robert E. Galbraith, veterans' counselor; and Scott Keyes, housing economist. Kent Forster will act as moderator.

These men have been chosen because of their experience with the housing situation, and their wide variety of duties make them a group representative of all interests and capable of considering all sides of the problem.

The steering committee of the forum is composed of Alfred Pandt, professor of history; Wallace Brewster, professor of political science; Lynn Christy, professor of English composition; Joseph O'Brien, professor of public speaking; and Arthur Reede, professor of economics.

Pitt Men Present Program Of Choral Music in Schwab

Men's Glee Club from the University of Pittsburgh will present a program of choral music in Schwab Auditorium at 8 p.m. Tuesday. The newly organized campus chapter of the World Student Service Fund and the Penn State Glee Club are sponsoring the event.

Tickets at 60 cents may be purchased at the Student Union desk in Old Main, the Commerce Club or from members of the College Glee Club. Proceeds will be used for world student relief.

The club's repertoire includes several European folk songs, a Negro spiritual and songs by Grieg, Palestrina, Franck and Brahms.

The Christian Answer to the Need of Today" will be discussed by chapel speaker Dr. Frank E. Gaebelein, Bible conference speaker and preacher, at services in Schwab Auditorium at 11 o'clock tomorrow.

Chapel Choir, directed by Mrs. Willa Taylor, will present "Prelude in C Minor" by Mendelssohn, "Carillon" by Dellamarter, and "Fugue in C Minor" by Mendelssohn.

Dr. Gaebelein has toured the United States and Canada as a lecturer for the Griffith Thomas Memorial of the Dallas Theological Seminary, Texas.

Players Open Spring Series Of 'Universe'

"Hotel Universe," Philip Barry's psychological study of aspiration and denial, will be presented by Penn State Players at Center Stage at 8 o'clock tonight.

While all seats for the opening performance have been sold, reservations for subsequent shows may be made at the dramatics office. The audience is limited to 130. The play will be given each Saturday until further notice.

The cast includes Fanna Brown, Olivia Crider, Martha Ann Koons, Omar Lerman, Edward McCoy, Harry Natschke, Francine Toil and Fred Vogel. The production is under the direction of Prof. Kelly Yeaton.

The production staff includes Gerald Gilman, manager; Charlotte Gorrell and James Lotz, assistant managers; Florence Ciple, bookholder; Joy Stewart, property manager; Florence Zaliko, costume manager; Donald Gorny, light manager; and Pat Kinkead, advertising manager.

Described by Director Yeaton as "modern" and "experimental" despite the fact that it was written and produced nearly 20 years ago, "Hotel Universe" makes use of time and space as integral quantities of the action, rather than mere theatrical devices.

Scotch Author, Veteran of Two Wars, Discusses 'Conduct and Atom Bomb'

Those who will hear Bruce Marshall when he speaks on "Conduct and the Atom Bomb" in Schwab Auditorium at 8 p.m. Monday will hear a man influenced by his pity for the humble toiling people and an almost savage dislike of bullies, stuffed shirts, and phonies.

Marshall is being sponsored by the Newman Club. There will be no admission charge for the lecture which is open to the public. The Scottish novelist is now on his first American lecture tour.

A veteran of both World Wars, Marshall lost a leg in World War I. He lived in Paris following the Armistice of 1918 and remained there until the day before the Germans entered the city in 1940.

His life in Paris provided him with excellent opportunity to observe the common folk and gain much experience for his writings. "Yellow Tapers for Paris" is the result of his observation of the French.

Marshall served in the displaced persons division of the Allied Commission for Austria. From this experience he wrote his novel, "Vespers in Vienna."

Bohm Represents Council In Ed Faculty Meetings

Jack Bohm was named to represent the Education Student Council at Education faculty meetings and Robert Gabriel was appointed to fill the vacancy created by Joan Bissey's resignation at a recent meeting of the council.

Representation on the secondary education and the home economics faculty divisions has also been secured. A committee from the council will work with the home economics faculty in revising the student rating forms.

Teacher course rating forms are nearing completion. The project will be the largest of its kind used at the College.

Dr. Windrich Addresses Students for Wallace

Dr. Elaine Windrich, instructor in political science, will address Students for Wallace in 417 Old Main at 3 o'clock tomorrow.

Dr. Windrich's talk will trace the development and effects of third parties in American political history. A question and answer period will be another part of the program, along with the discussion of final plans for the Pennsylvania Progressive Party convention in York, March 7.

At its last meeting, Students for Wallace elected William Benson, John Biggers, Paul Cutler, Melvin Lurie and Edward Wiza to its executive board.

Music Honorary Plans Concert

Louise Homer Club, women's music honorary, will present selected choral, piano and violin music in the State College High School auditorium at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

No admission will be charged and the public is invited by the music section of the State College Woman's Club, sponsors of the concert.

The Louise Homer ensemble, a choral group of approximately 25, will open the program with songs by Heinrich Schutz, Palestrina and Gevaert. Ruth Graber will provide piano accompaniment.

Genevieve Taras and Birdie Berman, violinists, with Josephine Rotili, accompanist, will play the Second and Third Movements from Bach's "Concerto for Two Violins in D Minor."

Three songs by Robert Schumann, sung by the choral ensemble, will follow. Rebecca Griffin, soprano soloist, will sing "Il Regardait Mon Bouquet" by Pierre Monsigny, Henri Duparc's "Chanson Triste," Richard Hageman's "At the Well" and Rachmaninoff's "Floods of Spring."

Gilbert's "I Cannot Dance for You, My Lord" and Scott's "Annie Laurie" will be sung by Rebecca Griffin. The ensemble will conclude the program with Rasmussen's "Overtones" and Rodgers' "The Star," with Guy Woods, professor of music, conducting and Miss Rotili accompanying.

State Approves New Party

Reactions of State party leaders to the formation of a new campus political party have been favorable.

The new party, which has not yet been named, was started by a group of campus bigwigs to take the place of the defunct Nittany-Independent clique.

Abram Bosler, chairman of the State party, said, "It's a good thing to have a two party system on campus." Robert Troxell, All-College vice-president, termed the new party "a very healthy sign."

Troxell added that "The more people involved in campus politics, the better chance there is of getting good student government, which is what we desire."

Bosler added that the State party will meet a week from tomorrow to reorganize and get "new blood" into the party.

Czech Changes

PRAGUE—Ample evidence of the future pattern of Czech government appeared when the new Communist-dominated education minister announced that schools must be as political as the army and ordered new textbooks. A report said Stalin's picture has been ordered placed in some schools.

Get-Tougher Policy

WASHINGTON—Presidential candidate Henry Wallace says the Czech crisis is evidence that a get-tough policy only provokes a get-tougher policy. The third party leader says the Czechoslovakian story will repeat itself as long as the American policy of "guns and dollars" continues in Greece, China and elsewhere on Russia's doorstep.
