

Hot Hoya Five Seeks Revenge

Hitting their early season stride for the first time since December, the Georgetown basketball team will try to maintain its winning form of the last two weeks when they search for vengeance at Rec Hall, 8 o'clock tonight.

Just a week ago the Hoyas overwhelmed the tenth highest scoring team in the nation, Villanova. Georgetown was in control of the game from the starting whistle and held a 35-14 lead at halftime.

secutive years, retiring it from competition.

Following a poll of New York sports writers and radio sportscasters, the Lambert Trophy committee last December voted Penn State the Eastern champion. The Lions topped Penn for the honor after the Quakers had led the balloting for most of the season.

Lavelle's visit to State College was arranged by the Lambert brothers, Victor and Henry, who established the trophy 12 years ago as a memorial to their father, founder of a New York jewelry firm and an avid football fan.

Besides the trophy presentation, members of the Blue and White grid team will receive gold-engraved leather photo frames.

Between Rounds

Two football players saw action in the boxing ring Saturday night. One won, one lost. Drzenovich, the Lion heavyweight, easily decided his opponent while George Smith, Spartan 175-pounder, was a loser. Both will meet on the gridiron next fall. Smith is also a quarterback for the Michigan State eleven and last season kicked 17 points after touchdowns.

Bouquets and bricks—the bouquets go to the Lion boxing managers. They looked very impressive in their tuxedos. Coach Leo Houck said since boxing was a gentleman's sport, the managers should look like gentlemen. Houck added, "I'll wear one also next week."

The bricks go to those spectators who still insist on smoking in Rec Hall during athletic contests.

Guest of honor at the Michigan State meet—Jack Gray, Lion 125-pounder in 1942 and winner of the Goodman Trophy that year.

John Tierney, Spartan 145-pounder, is a regular 130-pound starter but was moved up to give Al Lieberman, a boxing neophyte, a chance to show his wares. Lieberman performed very capably in his first collegiate fight. Tierney last season lost a decision in the 130-pound class against Glenn Hawthorne, Nittany 130-pound National champ. He decided Sheeche Saturday night.

Art Hughlett, veteran heavyweight performer for Michigan State, said that Chuck Drzenovich was the best conditioned and hardest hitting opponent he has encountered so far this season.

IM Office Slates Wrestling Tourney

Eugene Bischoff, head of the intramural department, asked that all entries for the wrestling tourney be turned in to the Intramural office in Rec Hall by 5 p.m., March 8.

Separate tourneys will be provided for both fraternity and independent groups. An organization may enter one contestant in each of the following weight classes: 121-lbs., 126-lbs., 135-lbs., 145-lbs., 155-lbs., 165-lbs., 175-lbs., and unlimited.

Contestants will be permitted a three-pound weight allowance. Weigh-ins will be immediately preceding each bout. Champions from previous years must move up one weight class from that in which they won a title.

Between the Lions

By Dave Adelman

The events at Rec Hall Saturday night may be ancient history to some, but to others they are still current topics of conversation.

At any rate it is true that both the boxing matches with Michigan State and the basketball game with the Red Raiders from Colgate caused more comment in these parts than any other Rec Hall spectacle this year.

Almost everybody, it seems, knows somebody who knows somebody else who has reliable information concerning exactly what it was that sent Jackie Tighe reeling to the canvas in his bout with the Spartans' Dougherty.

The only trouble is that all the reliable information is to a different effect. According to some who are "in the know" it was a belt on a chin that floored the redoubtable Tiger. According to others, it was an elbow over the ear.

Some claim that it was definitely a jab in the solar plexus that caused the damage, while footballer John Finley, who got it from Tighe, holds to the school that states it was a wallop near the temple that almost did for the 165-lb. EIBA champ.

Whatever it was, Tighe definitely was on his last legs. For this reason, plus the fact that an earlier bout saw stalking Johnny Benglian take a punch from an unknown kid named Lieberman that momentarily brought the glaze to his eyes, we believe that the boys who follow Penn State boxing will continue to mull over Saturday night's fistic occurrences for some time to come.

HOOP ANGLES

There are angles to the thrill packed hoop affair with Colgate that would fill a feature writer's book, but we have room for only a few of them.

Jack Biery, whose only miss from the free throw line came when a point would have meant certain victory for the Nittany Lions, once, in a practice session, sank 99 successive fouls, according to assistant manager Bob Vatz. Biery then missed the hundredth, and Saturday night was unfortunately the hundredth all over again.

Berletics, Cody Comets Win In IM Semi-Final Playoffs

With Joe Pasda hitting the basket from all angles, the Berletics came from behind in the final quarter to down Berks Independents 31-28 Monday night in the semi-finals of IM court play. In another headliner, Cody Comets coasted to an easy 47-25 victory over Beerers and earned the right to meet the Berletics five for the independent cage crown. IM finals took place last night.

Superior play off the boards spelled the margin of victory for the Berletics. Trailing 16-13 at halftime, they gradually pulled ahead in a hard-fought contest in which neither team ever had more than a three point lead. Pasda with 8 points was high for the winners, while Baier with 10 markers and Kurowski with 8 paced the Independents.

LEARN GETS 29

The Comets-Beerers contest turned into a two-man affair as Elmer Learn poured 29 points, a new season high, through the hoops for the Cody Comets, and Dick Mathew scored 17 for the losers. Ahead 24-15 at the intermission, the Comets were never pressed to take the win.

Phi Epsilon Pi edged past Delta Upsilon 33-28, and Sigma Nu, last year's champions, trounced Pi Kappa Alpha 42-25, to emerge as finalists in fraternity competition.

High scorer Marc Claster once more was the big gun in the Phi Ep attack as he racked up four field goals and a foul for a total of nine points. Dan Pearson, Delta Upsilon star, was high scorer of the evening, however, chalking up 11 points, as Delta Upsilon went down to its first defeat of the season.

In the second half Coach Elmer Ripley used his second string to keep the score from reaching three digits.

LAST TIME OUT

Penn State's last encounter with the Hilltoppers resulted in a closely pitched battle in which neither team could build up a substantial lead.

Shooting from the foul circle, Jack Biery made a field goal to tie the score and with less than 30 seconds to go Milt Simon sank a "peep" shot to give the Lions a 42-40 victory.

Coach Lawther's team dropped below the .500 mark last Saturday when it lost to Colgate and with the Temple battle slated for Saturday, tonight's game will be important if the team is to climb above the 50-50 line again.
