

Constructive Steps

Too often in our striving for "A Better Penn State," we lose sight of the accomplishments that are being made on campus day by day. It is easy to gripe but much more difficult to stop and say, "Thanks, for a job well done."

In looking through the issues of the Daily Collegian so far this semester, we find quite a few noteworthy efforts were made that passed without comment.

At the beginning of the new semester, the Book Exchange handled over $1000 worth of transactions, handicapped by an out-of-the-way location. . . . A more efficient registration system was used by the Administration to speed up one of college's most boring necessities. . . . The International Relations Club, sponsoring a UMT debate between AVC and Col. Chastaine, set a precedent for more discussion programs of vital national and international problems on campus.

All-College Cabinet came up with a good solution for the weak independent representation on Cabinet by establishing more representative Associations of Independent Men and Women. . . . A step towards a permanent Student Union was made when the TUB was opened by the Administration. . . . CORE's well-executed short-range program pointed out the unnecessary racial discrimination in State College and presented a plan for the solution. The Co-op committee continued on the job and convinced the Trustees to reconsider the proposal.

WSGA Senate and the Coed Coordinating committee, after months of work contacting other colleges, passed an intelligent system of "blanket permissions" for overnight trips. . . . The Student Union building moved another step closer to realization with the appointment of a committee to investigate other unions.

Not all the noble attempts on campus have been reviewed above, but it does show that students, faculty and administration members are moving toward improving Penn State.

There are those who gripe and then seek to remedy the situation by positive action.—BIF with the Cotton Bowl trip requires a lot of nerve.

The college missed a good opportunity to raise its "unknown" prestige in the eyes of the observing public when they "pinched pennies" at a time when they did not have the need to do it.

Termite Food Supply?

TO THE EDITOR: Mr. Scott Keyes and the A.V.C.—Rah, Rah, that's the way, boys! Let's advocate creating all the "permanent evils, for temporary wrongs," that we can concoct.

Let's strive for the F.H.A.'s building "low cost" housing units from here to Bellefonte, so that in a few years when the veterans are gone, the termites will be sure of an ample food supply.

The women's and children's wear industries offer rewarding opportunity to a variety of CREATIVE TALENTS

Virtually every type of creative ambition finds a satisfying outlet in the women's and children's wear industries of America.

These industries have, in fact, progressed to their present position as third largest in the United States by their effective utilization of these varied talents.

Whether the individual goal is business administration, fashion creation and production, merchandising, advertising or sales management, the fashion industries offer a rich field for the fulfillment of one's personal goal.
