America's foremost authority on young people's problems

Of the people you know, how many will you still be seeing ten years from now? Only the ones you know really well, you say. The kids you've grown up with. The new friends you've made best friends. All the others will fall by the wayside . . . out of sight and out of memory. You haven't time to keep them for posterity.

For with you . . . to be friends is to go all out. Being constantly together, sharing secrets, accumulating memories, plowing into new experiences shoulder to shoulder, dishing out big doses of devotion, possessing each other. There's no halfway measure. Being that close takes so much steam . . . you can be friends with only a few. There just isn't any more of you to go around.

You've probably settled down cozily to going steady with one boy. You have a man for all the big and little moments when you need one. You don't need other men, you think. Besides, there aren't any free dating hours.

In between dates, you run around with one special girl. She's your port in all storms, your constant abettor, your other half.

These best friends require a lot of attention. They don't thrive on separation, indifference or casual treatment.

So you sit back in your snug harbor and date only one boy . . . and meet no others. You trot with the same group of girls . . . and never raise your sights. While the rest of your acquaintances stay casual . . . just because you haven't time to draw them close.

You know . . . a girl is known by the company she keeps. Her friends are an indication of her taste and personality . . . just as are the clothes she wears, the things she reads, and the perfume she puts behind her ears.

A girl can always get by with just one good dress. But just wear it every day in the week and high days too . . . and it gets to be like a very old shoe. A wardrobe that offers changes to fit her moods is more colorful and more fun.

Pals of the bosom are a comfort and joy. But you can still be that all-out friend with people you don't see all the time. You can share life and laughs with friends you don't clutch close. You can pile up backlogs of memories with cronies you don't possess. You can keep lots of friendships thriving if you'll spread yourself thinner . . . and circulate.

Why not bedeck your future with a variety of good friends? Instead of letting them slip through your fingers . . . because you haven't time to keep them?
