Truman Address Stirs Speculation

WASHINGTON—When President Truman addresses Congress today, most officials believe he might call for Universal Military Training and greater speed in getting the Marshall Plan underway. There also is the guess that he might warn Italian voters that they will lose American aid if they vote for the Communists next month. Some members of Congress think the President may go as far as to ask for a return of the wartime draft.

Foreign Ministers Meet

PARIS—Speculation among foreign ministers of 16 European nations meeting to work out problems in connection with their participation in the Marshall Plan, is that the Truman doctrine, to use military and economic warfare against Communism, has already superseded the Marshall Plan, which contemplated economic aid alone. The feeling is that Mr. Truman will ask Congress to bulwark economic aid with military assistance.

New Strikes Called

WASHINGTON—Two labor disputes are in the forefront of the domestic news. Some 100,000 CIO Packinghouse Workers are on strike, and in soft coal fields about 300,000 United Mine Workers left their jobs in a dispute over pensions.

NAACP Organizes Campus Chapter

A new step to combat racial discrimination was taken Sunday when a group of students, faculty members, and townspeople organized a Penn State chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. Main issues discussed at the first meeting were bringing Negro faculty members to the campus, erecting a booth in Old Main for the Ingram case, and future action against discriminatory practices in State College. Mitchell H. Williams was elected temporary chairman. Other temporary officers are Eleanor Casey, secretary, and Jeanne Taylor, treasurer.

A rally with speakers representing the national office, faculty members and the student body is tentatively scheduled for April 11. Williams also visited the Bucknell chapter over the weekend at which time a joint meeting of the Bucknell, Wilkes College, Williamsport, and the College chapters to be held here at a future date was discussed. At the next meeting to be held in Woman's Building Lounge at 2 p. m. Sunday, the origin and history of NAACP will be given by Williams. Students, faculty and staff members, and townspeople are invited to attend.

Tickets for the dance will be $1.20 per couple and will be available at the Student Union desk and at the TUB on the night of the dance. Sales will be limited to 275 couples.

Carl Rutkowski is chairman of the dance committee with Vance Klepper, Edward Leonard, Jack Lowery, Richard Smith, and Frank Stoner assisting him.

Shamrocks Appear To Honor Saint Patrick

Shamrocks are growing in several Old Main offices today in honor of the Irish and St. Patrick.

The man responsible for them is Albert F. Hildebrandt, gardener from the Botany Greenhouses, who has grown the three-leaved plants from seeds sent him by the University of Dublin.

Although he is not Irish himself he has lived with them and admires them so he gives his Irish friends, and some that are not, shamrocks on St. Patrick's Day "just to be friendly."

Other loyal Irish on campus will be wearing the green and breaking out in their best brogue and blarney today in honor of their country's patron saint.

Allen Seeks Sophs To Plan Program

Sophomores interested in planning a program of Sunday entertainment were urged yesterday by Class President Ted Allen to contact him as soon as possible. Issuing a call for volunteers for a special committee to study the project, Allen said that the program will be an all-Sophomore presentation but will be open to everyone.

He stressed contacting him immediately so that he may appoint committee members in sufficient time to have a plan formulated before the next class meeting, tentatively set for the week of April 4.

Sophomores appointed to a "pre-orientation" committee at the last meeting were Nancy Gray, chairman; Robert Bemis, Bernard Carbeau, William Dittenhoffer, Ethelmae Miller, Robert Pee. This group will set up an orientation program, subject to the approval of the All-College orientation committee, that can be directed at the student before he arrives on campus as a sophomore.

Allen pointed out that questions concerning current deductions from book refund checks will be answered at the next class meeting.

All students in the Sophomore class who have or believe they have a refund coming on their LaVie fees may discuss it at the meeting.

Students for Wallace Aid in November Primary

Students for Wallace will aid in the statewide movement to replace the Progressive Party and Henry Wallace on November's ballot.

The College group has set a goal of 250 names of Centre County registered voters. The Pennsylvania goal is 50,000, although only slightly less than 8,000 are required by law.

Students for Wallace are also maintaining an active alliance with the 22nd Congressional District's movement centered in Altoona.

Red Cross Drive Passes Mid-Point

Over half of the $1500 quota in the student drive for American Red Cross has been received, according to Frank Tidona, chairman of the campus unit.

Every leader of every organization on campus has received a letter asking for a lump sum from their treasury. The operating committee expects this last phase of the campaign to top the present quota.

"No charity is so important as the one at home. No charity strengthens our American structure so much as that which eases the plight of some of our own desperately needy. When you give you are giving not for Red Cross' sake, but for the sake of American citizens who are even now suffering hardships because they lack the basic human needs of food and shelter," said Tidona.

St. John Speaks On Greek Tragedy

"Modern Greek Tragedy" will be the topic of Robert St. John's talk when he appears in Schwab Auditorium at 8 o'clock Friday night.

From his observations and experiences in foreign countries, St. John has become convinced of and advocates two points; that the most dangerous trouble spot in the world is along the invisible line separating Yugoslavia from Greece, and that diplomacy can, and eventually will, solve the problems of the day and prevent a third world war.

Backing up his first conviction, St. John says, "The Yugoslav-Greek border line is important because it is the separation point of two great colossi. Here, two ways of life stand face to face. The people of this region have the opportunity of comparing these two ways of life."

Dr. Frank C. Whitmore, late dean of the School of Chemistry and Physics, has received another remembrance as "one of the outstanding members of the American chemical profession" in the publication of his last scientific paper in "Chemical and Engineering News" for March 8.

Editors of the American Chemistry news magazine lauded Dean Whitmore for his ability, enthusiasm, boundless energy and capacity for friendship. He was president of the society in 1938.

Written in characteristic Whitmore simplicity, the article discusses in detail the formation, reactions and applications of the carbonium ion, which he considers the master key to understanding many processes of hydrocarbon chemistry.
