

Austin Opposes Palestine Split

LAKE SUCCESS — The United States has gone into reverse on the Palestine problem. The American delegate, Warren Austin, urged the United Nations to give up the partition project. He proposed instead that the general assembly be called to set up a trusteeship to administer the Holy Land. A high United Nations official immediately said this is the end of partition, while the Jewish Agency called the Austin announcement an "amazing reversal." The agency also said it will do incalculable harm to the prestige and authority of the UN.

Marshall Warns Nations

He repeated his charge that Russian moves in Europe cannot go unchecked. Despite his blunt talk to Russia, Marshall said in conclusion that Americans must try to understand other peoples, however difficult it may be.

Presidents Call Election Invalid

The WSGA, WRA primary elections held yesterday have been called invalid, and a re-election is scheduled from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday. The final election will still be held on Tuesday.

Suzanne Romig and Lee Ann Wagner, presidents of WSGA and WRA, explained that a re-election was imperative because the ballots used in yesterday's election were printed incorrectly. The semester qualifications as listed on the ballot stated that a student could vote only for offices to be filled by girls the same semester as she. This system left all eighth semester girls ineligible to vote.

According to the WSGA, WRA voting regulations, every woman student on campus is eligible to vote for WSGA president and vice-president and for all offices in WRA.

Faculty Encouraging Despite Cynicism About Coeds

When asked their opinion of the ideal coed certain men students interviewed recently seemed to be a little bitter about the whole thing, but two faculty members, Thomas D. Bowman of the English literature department, and Vito J. Di Vincenzo of the Spanish department are much more encouraging.

"The Penn State coed compares favorably in beauty and intelligence with any university coed," said Mr. Di Vincenzo, "and the fact that the winner will appear on Sammy Kaye's radio show should certainly be an incentive for women to enter the contest." Mr. Bowman feels that "the typical Penn State coed is conscientious, well-mannered, vivacious, self-possessed—and pleasant for the eyes to rest upon."

Three Parties Discuss World Issues

Representatives from the three political parties are expected to discuss domestic and world issues in a public forum at Schwab Auditorium at 7:45 p. m. Tuesday.

The European Recovery Program, Taft-Hartley Act, and Civil Rights legislation are among the topics to be discussed, according to John Hamer, co-chairman of the committee in charge.

A short rebuttal and a period of questions from the floor will follow the main speaking.

Mrs. Marjorie H. Matson, assistant district attorney of Allegheny County, will speak for the Democratic party. Gerald Schafflander, executive director of the Progressive party of Pennsylvania, will represent the Wallace forces.

The speaker for the Republican party will be announced as soon as final commitments are received, Hamer said. Dr. Alfred Pundt, associate professor of history, will act as moderator.

No admission will be charged for the forum, sponsored jointly by Students for Democratic Action, the American Veterans Committee, Common Sense Club, International Relations Club, Young Progressive Citizens of America, and PSCA.

Columnist Offers Prizes For Letters

Five thousand dollars and four completely equipped Kaiser-Frazer sedans are the top prizes which will be awarded the writers of the five best letters of 250 words or less on "How to Make Democracy Live," in a contest sponsored by Drew Pearson.

Three special prizes of $500 each will go to the college student, veteran, and high school student who submit the best letters. Provided these winners are not among winners of the first five prizes.

Letters will be judged on the basis of their ideas, not on "stunts and literary tricks," according to contest information. Judges include James F. Byrnes, retired statesman, Attorney General Tom Clark, and former Representative Clare Booth Luce.

The contest closes April 29, 1948. Entries should be sent to Drew Pearson, Box 1622, Washington, D. C.

Choir Presents Spring Oratorios

Students and townspeople will have the opportunity of hearing two of the greatest oratorios of all time this Spring. Both will be presented by the 120-voice Chapel Choir, the first on Sunday morning and afternoon.

For the annual Easter Worship Service on Sunday, the choir will sing the Easter portion of Handel's "Messiah," accompanied by 30 members of the College Symphony Orchestra. On May 19, an evening program will feature Mendelssohn's "Elijah," also with orchestral accompaniment.

Soloists for Sunday's program are Maynard Hill, tenor; Jacqueline Heckert, soprano; and Thaddeus Komorowski, bass. The group will be directed by Mrs. Willa Taylor.

The concerts will be given at 11 o'clock and 3 o'clock in Schwab Auditorium, and the doors will be opened a half hour before each performance.

George Ceiga, chapel organist, will present several outstanding works of Handel for his part in the service. The prelude will be the overture to the "Messiah," the offertory the Larghetto from Handel's "Sixth Concerto," and the postlude the familiar Hallelujah Chorus from the "Messiah."

James T. Smith, acting chaplain, will conduct the brief worship service preceding the musical program.

The Model Convention, which will be held at the University of Pennsylvania, will be an exact imitation of the National Party Conventions to take place in Philadelphia this summer. All the delegates are asked to bring planks for the formulation of a platform, and at the convention these planks will be referred to a specific committee. Then they will be acted on and a final platform chosen.

The main action of the delegates is to nominate and elect a president. The trend of the student delegates is closely watched by national party officials, said Britton.

St. John Blasts Aid to Greece

By William Herrmann

In an interview last night, Robert St. John, nationally known correspondent, pointed out that recent events in Czechoslovakia are, in one way, Russia's answer to the policy of the United States in Greece for the past year.

"The only ultimate solution to the present world problem is the formation of a World State," he said.

Mr. St. John urged the formation of a branch of the World Federalists in State College.

The United States and Britain have sent over one billion dollars into Greece. Virtually none of this has gone for reconstruction. It has gone to support one of the most evil political gangs in the world today, the Greek Royalists, a government imposed upon the people by terror, he said.

United States has shipped 100,000 tons of military equipment into Greece. This equipment has gone for the support of one side in a purely civil war. "This action," he said, "is worse than anything the Russians have done anywhere in the world."

"Seventy-five million dollars worth of American food, medicine, and clothing was recently discovered locked in a warehouse where it had been for two years. Most of the supplies were spoiled and rotted," said St. John.

When asked about education in Greece, St. John said, "Any parent wishing to enter his child in high school or college must first obtain a certificate of approval from the Secret Security Police."

Answering a question on the position of the Greek press, he said, "Sixty-five newspapers have been suspended in the past year. I was in the office of an editor who kept behind his desk a list of 19 other editors who had been executed or imprisoned within the last year and a half for printing news unfavorable to the Royalists."

"There is no freedom in Greece today," he said.
