

UN To Reconsider Palestine Problem

Lake Success—The United Nations Security Council has decided to call a special session of the UN assembly to reconsider the Palestine problem in New York City April 16. The vote came immediately after the Council voted unanimously to ask once more for a truce between Arabs and Jews in the Holy Land.

U.S. Flies Food to Berlin

Berlin—American officials have started flying food into Berlin to get around the Russian squeeze-play on rail and road transportation in and out of the German capital. For several hours after clamping down on travel the Russians maintained a rigid inspection along the edges of their Berlin sector. The air was still free, however, and after a conference of military officials, it was decided to use airplanes to supply the 8500 American military personnel and civilians in the city.

ERP Excludes Spain

Washington—A committee from both Houses decided to knock Spain out of the European Recovery Program unless the other countries involved invite the Franco government to participate.

WSGA Names Lyons Head

Janet Lyons and Pauline Globisch were elected presidents of WSGA and WRA respectively. The two runners-up, Marjorie Gorham and Elaine Nelson, will be secretary of the former and senior advisor of the latter organization.

Both newly elected presidents have served in their respective organizations before. Miss Lyons was this year's Vice-President of WSGA, and Miss Globisch was on the WRA Executive Board as Chairman of the Club President's Board.

Shirley Gauger is the new vice-president of WSGA; Madelyn Bush, senior senator; Joan Bergdoll and Ann Fickenscher, junior senators; and Susan Bissey, town senator. An independent senator will be elected by IWA.

The new officers will be installed at the end of May. The president-elect and vice-president-elect will accompany Miss Ellamae Jackson of the Dean of Women's office in attending a regional conference at Cornell University April 8, 9, and 10.

Nancy Smith was elected vice-president of WRA and Virginia Miller, intramural chairman. The three officers will be installed Tuesday night.

Borough Sets Stations For Bicycle Inspection

Borough officials last week approved Krumrine's Bike Shop, Metzger's, Breen's Atlantic Service Station, Cole's Service Station, and Coll's Mobil Station as inspection stations for the licensing of bicycles in State College.

Under borough ordinance all bicycles operated in State College must be inspected and carry a borough license. Inspection fees are 25 cents and licensing fees are 25 cents.

The licensing period ended in March, but 1948 license tags have only now become available.

Borough officials also noted that all bicycles operated after dark must carry a forward light and a reflector.

Grove Plays for Costume Ball

Paul Grove and his orchestra will be featured at the Beaux Arts Carnival to be held at the TUB from 9 to 12 o'clock tomorrow night.

Final preparations for the gala affair are being made by the Fine Arts and Architectural Societies, sponsors of the Ball. The stage decorations will be highlighted by a three-dimensional effect of a dancing girl. Ted Mann and Al Stone's comedy team will provide the entertainment during the intermission.

Students may have the fortune teller palm off some words about their future, and have their caricature sketched. For remembrances of the festive evening, a roving photographer will snap pictures.

Prizes will be awarded during intermission for the individual man, woman and couple wearing the most original costumes. The judges will be the faculty members of the Fine Arts and Architectural Departments.

Tickets priced at $2 apiece, on sale today and tomorrow at Student Union, may also be obtained from members of Pi Gamma Alpha, Scarab, and Esquisse, the three organizations sponsoring the carnival.

As a preview of the festivity, the TUB has posted photos of last year's costume winners.

BULLETIN

(Special to the Collegian)
By Leo Houck

MADISON, Wis., April 2—Ambidextrous Johnny Benglian, Madison Catholic University's Tom Cronin here yesterday to move into tonight's semi-finals.

Penn State's lone entry in the NCAA fisticuffs tournament will meet Jim Sreenan of Wisconsin who won a preliminary bout yesterday over Chuck Townsend of San Jose State Teachers College of California.

Benglian led on points throughout the three rounds using hard right jabs with extreme pediculousness in addition to his jarring rights.

Cronin proved very obstreperous in the first round but Benglian came back in the second round with damaging counter punches and Cronin faded in the third.

Sportswriters here called the fight one of the better bouts on the afternoon card of 12 fights.

"Fred" Benglian's opponent today did not box when Penn State met Wisconsin earlier this season.

Prize Shirts

Today's prize for "It's in the Ads" contest, four Esley shirts or its equivalent value of $15.95, was donated by the College Sportswear Shop.

Cabinet Adopts Peace Proposal

All-College Cabinet last night adopted a resolution urging creation of a world state and universal disarmament. This resolution will be sent to the President of the United States, National Student Association, and all colleges and universities in the country in an attempt for them to pass similar resolutions.

The resolution, introduced by Ed Banyai, senior class president, reads as follows:

"We, the student government of the Pennsylvania State College, representing 8,000 men and women students, realize the complex, tangled and serious world situation which is tending each day to make war inevitable and do hereby urge you, Mr. President, as leader of our nation, to take the necessary steps to achieve world peace, a peace which insures fundamental rights and freedom to all nations and all peoples of the world.

"In furtherance of this aim, we urge you to immediately call a world conference, at which time the following points, among others, should be given special consideration:

"1. All nations of the world relinquish sufficient national sovereignty to create a world police force.

"2. Abolish the veto in the Security Council of the United Nations.

"3. Effectuate disarmament among all nations of the world."

Riding Class

All students who desire to enter riding classes during the main summer session must apply for an authorization form in 101 White Hall before preparing pre-registration schedules.

AA Sells Tickets For Gym Tryouts

Tickets for the final Olympic gymnastic tryouts and National Amateur Athletic Union gymnastic championships, to be held in Rec Hall Saturday, May 1, are now on sale at the AA office in Old Main.

Of international importance in gymnastics, the event will be divided into two sections, from 2 to 5 p.m., and 8 to 11 p.m. Available are 3,000 tickets for unreserved bleacher seats at $1.20 each, and 2,000 tickets for reserved balcony seats at $1.80 each. One ticket will be good for both afternoon and evening sessions.

Over 100 top gymnasts, both collegiate and non-collegiate, will perform and all the 1947 national champions in ten events will defend their titles. Spectators will witness the selection of the Olympic team members, manager and coach who will represent the United States in London in July.

Special acrobatic numbers, demonstrations by women gymnasts and Indian club exhibitions will have musical background supplied by stringed instruments, an organ and the College Glee Club.

PSCA To Elect 10 For New Cabinet

A committee of ten which will form the basic student group for the new cabinet of the Penn State Christian Association will be elected today by the active contributing membership of the Association. Ballots may be cast at the Student Union Desk, Old Main, from 8 to 12 o'clock and from 1 to 5 o'clock.

Election officials further stated that according to the PSCA Constitution the committee of ten will in turn select the executive committee for the new cabinet. The executive committee is composed of the president, vice-president, treasurer, recording secretary and corresponding secretary.

Nominations were made at the last official open meeting of the Association held March 18. Nominated for the committee were Dorothy Park, Charles Delp, Patricia Babbitt, Dorothy Fleagle, Wilbur Kraybill, Ted Allen, Marjorie Gorham, Donald Seipt, David Binns and William Renshaw.

Additional nominations were made from the floor and include Walter Gabel, Jean Richards, Joyce Shuey, Jean Moore, June Kirscher, George Rhoad, Ruth McWhirter, Warren Myers, Philip Neely, David Huber, and Richard Gillespie. Those voting in the elections may select ten from the total of 21 nominated.

Junior Men's Honorary Holds Annual Dance

Blue Key, junior men's honorary, will present its annual formal dance at the Hotel State College at 9 o'clock tonight.

Pat Patterson's Orchestra will furnish the music for the formal affair. A dinner in the banquet room at 6:30 will precede the dance.

Pillsbury named the following men to help plan the dance: Decoration committee, Bernard Ashner, chairman; Robert Bench and Richard Clair, invitations; William Bickford, publicity; Malcolm White, Orchestra committee; Albert Hirshfield, chairman; Warren Hinks and Donald Myers.

Admission to the dance will be by invitation only said Pillsbury but all former Blue Key members and their dates are also cordially invited. The dinner will be for active members and their dates only.

'It's in the Ads' Contest Begins

Prizes ranging from radios to a set of golf clubs will be given to the winners in the Daily Collegian's "It's in the Ads" contest sponsored jointly by the merchants of State College and the Collegian.

Both townspeople and students are eligible to enter the contest which starts today and runs until the winning entry is received.

As the contest progresses, the prizes for the previous days will be added to the current prize. If the winning entry were received on the tenth day the sender would receive ten prizes.

chants donating the prizes can be found on pages four and five of today's paper.

Members of the Collegian staff as well as State College merchants supplying prizes and their families are not eligible for the contest.
