

Algie Moser Wins May Queen Election; Court Named at Ball

Algie Ann Moser, Delta Gamma candidate, was elected May Queen to head the May Day Ceremonies, May 8.

The May Queen has been active in campus politics, Red Cross, PSCA, and Modern Dance Club. The two runners-up, Lois Maloy, Kappa Kappa Gamma, and Eve Winter, Kappa Alpha Theta, will serve as attendants.

The sophomore maid of honor will be announced at the WSGA Coronation Ball, to be held May 7 in honor of the May Queen and her court, said Mary Magas and Martha Conley, co-chairmen of the elections. Maid of Honor will also serve as attendants. Contestants are Joyce Shuey, Alpha Xi Delta, Loraine Stotler, Gamma Phi Beta, and Tori Williams, Delta Gamma.

Coeds Throw Away Adage, Take on Part-Time Jobs

Not all Penn State coeds are guilty of the adage that "Women go to college just to get a husband." A least 85 of them are earnest in their desire to acquire an education, as evidenced by statistics in the Student Employment Bureau.

Allan M. Reece, head of the bureau, says that "baby sitting" leads the list of jobs held by women students, with housework running second in number. This seems contradictory to Reece's emphatic statement that "Girls don't like to do housework."

Home Ec Students Entertain Freshmen

Student organizations of the home economics department will entertain 90 freshmen from the centers tomorrow and Saturday at an open house for home economics and hotel administration majors.

The program begins with a dinner tomorrow night and on Saturday guests will tour the campus.

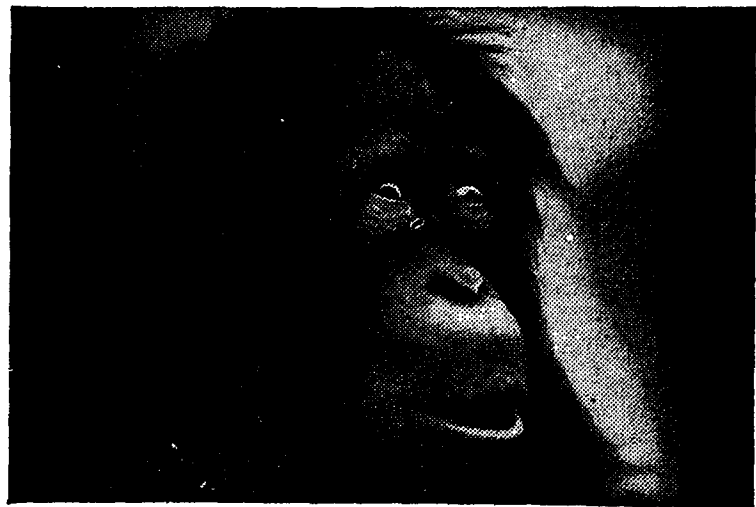

Delta Chi

Recently elected officers of Delta Chi fraternity are Iva, C. Kline, president; Paul H. Tompkins, vice-president; Malcolm A. White, secretary; Richard J. Querns, sheriff; and Donald D. Bowser, pledge trainer.

Pi Lambda Phi

A "Planetary" dance will be given by Pi Lambda Phi April 17. The decoration theme will be that of a planetarium and music will be furnished by Lee Mitchner, band from Bucknell.

WHAT CAN $2 DO?

Evidence of three years shows that a two dollar bill contributed by an American student or faculty member means from $6 to $20 worth of food, medical and other emergency supplies to the recipients of WSSF relief.

What can two dollars do?

Last year thirty-nine packages of food went out from Penn State to students of Rumania. Rumania thanked us this year in slightly better times by forwarding six tons of wheat for use by World Student Relief in feeding starving students elsewhere in the world.

What can two dollars do?

WSSF officials report letters and conversations by the thousands which spell out the alert interest specific groups of foreign students take in specific groups of American students whose aid has befriended them.

What can two dollars do?

The aim of this year's WSSF Operation Survival at Penn State are threefold: Build a hospital ward at the University of Bombay, India.

Underwrite two and one-half month's care for refugee European students at a Swedish tubercular sanatorium.

Provide funds for emergency food and medical supplies to meet immediate and desperate student needs throughout the world.

What can two dollars do?

We who solicit your contribution this week number in the hundreds. We have listened to and read reports of worldwide student suffering. An early report of our own contribution shows an average gift of $5 per person. We want the opportunity of calling on you personally. However, if we miss connections won't you please leave your contribution at Student Union? A receipt and our thanks are waiting there for you.

What can two dollars do?

You will be told what Penn State's contribution has done for specific students in specific foreign lands in the months to come. Give now so that we may all know what wonders of hope and strength—and life—our two dollars have individually and collectively created.
