

Dean Urges Coed Tidiness In Dining Common Dress

Coeds are urged to be more careful in their dress for the dining commons according to a recent letter to all women students from Pearl O. Weston, Dean of Women.

The letter stressed the fact that neatness and cleanliness should be the keynote of the coeds' appearance at all times.

Dean Weston also asked the co-operation of the coeds in never appearing in the dining room in raincoats, jeans, shirts hanging out, kerchiefs on the head, bedroom slippers, pajamas, bathrobes, any night clothes, shorts, or halter-style dresses.

In answer to inquiry on the problem of coeds who have swimming class before meals, Dean Weston said that a neat turban over the hair would be permitted in case of emergency. She also stated that there is no objection to coeds wearing slacks to breakfast or lunch.

Beginning Monday hostesses will remind girls who do not comply to Dean Weston's request. There will be no penalty and the coeds will be allowed to have their meal at the dining common.

Suzanne Romig, President of WSGA, reminded the coeds that blackmarks will only be given for slacks or jeans worn at dinner and that the present suggestions of Dean Weston carry no penalties unless this is decided at a future Senate meeting.

eral chairs and a coatrack were upset.

According to Copenhaver, he told Millard he didn't care to discuss the question any further, but the student kept it up. The barber said that it got to the point where he could take it no longer, and asked Millard to leave.

One of AVC's state lawyers has also been contacted in relation to the trouble occurring in the barber shop.

If grounds are sufficient to file suit, it is probable that Mr. Roosevelt will be engaged as the attorney for AVC, according to Katinsky.

We The Women

By Marjorie Mousley

A recent letter from Dean Weston to all coeds concerning the appearance of the coeds in the dining commons has stirred up many new bull sessions in the dormitories.

The idea itself seems to be agreeable to most coeds. It's the method of presentation that bothers them. Although approximately 95 percent of the coeds dress as they are expected to, they understand that there are some offenders who could improve their dress.

Some of the details of the new suggestion have caused comment, such as the one on no kerchiefs on the head, but since Dean Weston has explained that in case of emergency a neat turban may be worn, this difficulty has been taken care of.

The fact that the suggestion came from the Dean of Women and not from the Women's Student Government Association, which is supposed to make all rules and regulations governing women, is the topic of the bull sessions.

Senate members were just as much surprised as the other coeds to see the letter, but they do agree with the idea behind it. Perhaps in the future the coeds would be more satisfied if such regulations and suggestions came from the group they elected to govern themselves.

ican Veterans Committee is negotiating with Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., member of the AVC National Planning Committee, to find out if there is any possibility of legal action against Smith's barber shop, because of the ejection of a student patron from the shop on Thursday.

Ernest H. Millard, a member of the AVC, was the student ejected.

The dispute started when Millard attempted to discuss the racial discrimination question with barber Russell Copenhaver. Millard said that he was ordered off the chair before his haircut was completed by the barber, and after paying for the haircut, started to leave the shop. Copenhaver took his arm and led him to the door, when Millard resisted. A tussle followed and sev-
