

Household, Farm Problems Extension Workshop Topics

Problems that confront not only the farmer of America but also those that may interest the average American housewife are being discussed this week by the Agricultural Workshop in Nittany Lion Inn.

Marketing experts from 12 northeastern states and the District of Columbia are attending the workshop being conducted by the Agricultural Extension Service of the College. These experts will discuss new methods and problems in marketing and take recommendations back to their various states.

In the opening address, Monday, Director J. M. Fry of the Pennsylvania State Agricultural Extension Service told the assembly that homemakers want information on varieties, grades, and price spreads on sizes and qualities of products. By keeping them informed on crop harvests, he said, they can take advantage of favorable prices and help avoid surpluses and waste.

Mr. Fry also referred to the development of roadside produce stands, curb markets, and co-operative marketing as trends in a move aimed at giving the buying public "fresh fruits and vegetables at fair prices, and the farmer maximum net return."

Yesterday Dr. George E. Brandow, professor of Ag Economics, explained the farmer's share in prices. On highly processed foods such as canned fruits and vegetables or bakery products, Dr. Brandow said, the farmer makes only from 15 to 25 per cent. On meats, butter, and eggs, he makes 65 to 75 per cent. The further away from the market the farmer is, the smaller his share of the consumer's dollar. In 1947, his average share of the purchaser's dollar was 54 cents.

There is no economic or other basis on which the future of prices can be reliably predicted, said Dr. Brandow. Chances that the boom in this country will continue for at least nine months or a year seem good, he stated.

Mr. F. W. Peck, director of the Farm Foundation, Chicago, also spoke on Monday. Dr. George F. Johnson, visual aids specialist of the Pennsylvania Extension Service, also spoke last night.

Navy Offers Engineers Temporary Summer Work

The Naval Ordnance Laboratory, Washington, D. C., is offering temporary work for engineering students who will receive degrees in June.

Positions are open only to American citizens who have never indicated disloyalty to the United States. Those who are accepted will work on important naval development projects at a pay of $60 for a 40 hour week. Jobs are of 12 weeks duration.

Students interested may contact Prof. Eric A. Walker, head of the electrical engineering department, in 105 EE.

Dean Lyman E. Jackson and Dr. Fred F. Lininger, director of the Ag Experimental Station, will give short talks on the College at today's session.

Mr. E. A. Meyer, administrator of the Research and Marketing Act of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, will speak at Saturday morning's session.

Mr. W. A. Munson, director of the Massachusetts Agricultural Extension Service, and Mr. P. J. Findlen, senior extension economist, Washington, are serving as co-chairmen of the workshop. Dr. Kenneth Hood, Ag Extension economist at the College, made the local arrangements.

Festival Features Artist, Art Films

George Biddle, prominent Philadelphia-born artist and sculptor, will speak on "Modern Painting" in 121 Sparks at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow night as part of the program of the Combined Arts festival, which will continue until May 13.

Also as part of the festival, four French films will be shown in 119 Osmond Lab at 7 o'clock tonight. They are "Ballet Mecanique," "Smiling Madame Bludent," "Menilmontant," and "Entr-Acte." The films were made in 1923-25 and are Cubist surrealist pictures. The showing will last an hour and 30 minutes.

In connection with Biddle's talk, 50 of his drawings are on exhibit in the central library and will remain there until the end of the month.

Biddle has had more than 50 one-man exhibits in Paris, Vienna, Rome, Mexico City and many American cities.

During World War II, he was sent to North Africa to help obtain a pictorial record of the war. He is author of "Artist at War" and several other books.

Cabinet-

 Senior Ball, an additional sum up to $500 will be given to WSSU. Disbursements of money over $1500 would be determined by the new Cabinet.

Other financial appropriations included $2000 for a campus co-operative store, should one be set up in the next year. Otherwise the money automatically reverts to the permanent student union building fund.

Expenses of delegates to national and state National Student Association conventions was approved up to $1000. Reimbursements of $10 each for students who participated in Orientation Week last fall was also favored.

Final approval of the constitution for the Association of Independent Men by the concerned organizations, Independent Student Council and Pollock Circle and Nittany Dorm Councils, was reported by Troxell, chairman of the committee for the revision of the constitution.

Elect. of AIM Council members by all independent men will be conducted before the end of the semester so that it may be organized, and its Cabinet representative elected.

A banquet for old and incoming Cabinet members and guests will take place at the Nittany Lion Inn Thursday, May 13.

Bereavment of ZTA: Sorrowful Despite Smell of Fish

Black crepes hung from the doors in the Zeta Tau Alpha suite recently. The Zetas were mourning for Martha Manderbach in her hour of sorrow.

"Mandy" had left the suite with a notice on her door stating that she had lost a loved one. When she came in at 11, her sorority sisters held a candle-light service. The room was draped in black. It was a macabre scene.

The cause of the great sadness was the death of Mandy's pet goldfish.

As the girls left the room, they murmured to themselves, "Only two more days until 'fish' day in the dining room. Who knows what we'll be eating?"

Pat Patterson to Play For Ag Frolic, May 15

Climaxing Ag Hill Day, Pat Patterson and his band will play for the annual Ag Frolic, an informal dance to be held in Rec Hall 9-12 p.m. Saturday.

Country Fair and carnival will be the theme of the affair, said Bill Hamlon, chairman of the dance committee. The dance, sponsored by the Ag Student Council, will have each of the 13 Ag clubs adding a specific share to the evening's entertainment.

Barnyard duds will be the order of the day for the dance, and a prize will be given to the couple best typifying the fair atmosphere.

Other members of the dance committee are Harry Schaffer, Maria Hughes and Don Sclpt.

ROTC Honorary Elects Manchester President

Company "H," 1st Regiment of the National Society of Scabbard, recently elected officers for the fall semester.

Succeeding Samuel Neeley as commanding officer is Richard Manchester. Others elected were Andrew Lock as executive officer; Charles Mebus, treasurer; John W. Holmes, first sergeant; and Joseph Pislack as senior member.

Installation of the new officers will take place at the Scabbard and Blade dinner dance to be held at the State College Hotel on Friday, May 14.

Paul Grove and his orchestra will provide the music for the evening.
