Schools Entertain At Open House; Renew Custom

"Open houses" will be held by the School of Chemistry and Physics and the School of Engineering Saturday.

Both programs will begin at 2 p.m. The chemistry and physics open house will close at 5:30 p.m. and the engineering open house will close at 10 p.m.

The Engineering open house, according to George Bearer, student chairman, is a renewal of a custom started prior to the war, but discontinued during the war because of military security. The Chemistry and Physics open house will be the first of its kind, Douglas Brace, student chairman, explained.

Demonstrations, teachings, training devices and operations used for the various curricula, and a visit to the Army and Navy ROTC departments will be covered by the Engineering open house.

Visitors to the Electrical Engineering building will have an opportunity to witness an amateur radio station in operation. Under the guidance of Gilbert Crossley, assistant professor of electrical engineering, student operators will transmit messages of the visitors to all parts of the world.

The buildings to be open for the Chemistry and Physics open house include Osmond and Pond Laboratories and the Chemical Engineering and Textile Chemistry buildings.

The chemistry department will have equipment in operation and on display in all the laboratories, particularly in quantitative analysis, microscopy, physical chemistry, unit processes, and nutrition, laundry and dry cleaning.

The physics department will have the undergraduate as well as the graduate laboratories open.

Men Take Over Cheering Squad

A return to the pre-war system of using all men cheerleaders for athletic events has been voted upon by a six-man committee and will be put into effect immediately, said Stanley Eisman, head cheerleader.

In fairness to present members three women will remain on the squad as senior cheerleaders, Eisman added.

The committee composed of the head cheerleader, the graduate manager of athletics, the head of the music department, the president of the Athletic Association, the dean of the Physical Education School, and the football coach, made this decision to comply with the original Constitution, said Eisman.

The constitution calls for a 10-man squad consisting of three seniors, three juniors, and four sophomores, but during the war this rule was suspended. In the future the class quota will be adhered to and members of each board will move up to a higher rank at the end of the year.

Practice sessions for candidates who will be juniors in the fall are now being held on the lawn behind the Armory at 7 p.m. Mondays through Thursdays. Those who were unable to attend the first meeting are urged to report for practice. At the end of a three week period junior finalists will be selected. Tryouts for sophomore squad members will be held next year.

Windcrest Residents

Windcrest residents who have not advised the Faculty Counselor of Veterans that they are vacating upon graduation, or interrupting their occupancy for any period this summer are requested by that office to do so before May 14.

Arts Festival Programs Swing to Music and Drama

Dr. Paul Popenoe

Popenoe Leads Marital Institute

Dr. Paul Popenoe, nationally known marriage counselor and lecturer, will head the staff of specialists contributing to the PSCA "Marriage Institute" Monday and Tuesday. Dr. Popenoe is director of the American Institute of Family Relations.

College Staff To Contribute

The Institute culminates the series of weekly Courtship and Marriage Seminars that have been conducted every Wednesday by the Rev. Bruce Gideon, student pastor of the Wesley Foundation. These seminars have covered the various phases of dating, courtship and marriage.

Staff members of the College who will contribute in their fields are Dr. Jessie Bernard, family sociology; Dr. C. R. Carpenter, physiology of reproduction; the Rev. Robert Eads and the Rev. Bruce Gideon, the spiritual side of marriage; Prof. Marion S. McDowell, marriage and the family; Dr. Winona Morgan, child development; Dr. Will Smith, early marital adjustment; and Dr. W. U. Snyder, emotions and marital adjustment.

Dr. Popenoe will lead two classes in the department of home economics Monday at 10 and 11 a.m., and will be guest speaker at a faculty luncheon Monday. "Helping Youth Prepare for Marriage" will be his topic at a mass meeting 121 Sparks, 7:30 p.m. Monday.

Private interviews with Windcrest students are scheduled at the Windcrest Community Hall 2 to 4 p.m. Monday, and for all students Tuesday morning in the (Continued on page eight)

Programs of the Combined Arts Festival swing to music and dramatics the latter part of this week.

An organ recital by Ray Robinson in Schwab auditorium at 4 o'clock this afternoon is today's feature of the festival.

Players Production

Another allied art will be presented in the same auditorium at 8 o'clock tonight, when the curtain goes up on the Players production "Years Ago."

"Years Ago" continues until Saturday, when another exhibition of dramatic art is presented, the arena production, "Hotel Universe." Arena shows are presented at Woodman's Hall.

Orchestra Concert

Music again takes the spotlight, in Schwab Auditorium at 3 p.m. Sunday when the Symphony Orchestra presents a concert.

The program for this afternoon's concert includes "Gottes Sohn First Kommen," by Bach, "Chanson," by Groton, "Will o' the Wisp," by Nevin, and "Grand Choeur," by Spence.

All throughout the two-week Combined Arts Festival, White Hall is the scene of an exhibition of student work in architecture, painting, sculpture, dance, music, scene design, and ornamental and landscape horticulture.

Phi Eta Sigma To Accept Sophs

All men of the sophomore class whose scholastic average at the end of the first semester of the academic year of 1947-1948 was 2.50 or better are eligible for candidacy to membership in Phi Eta Sigma, the national freshman honorary fraternity.

Dr. Franklin D. Krauss, the faculty advisor of the local chapter, announces that these candidates are invited to register their names with the officers of the chapter and to learn of the objectives of Phi Eta Sigma in 12 Sparks between 7 p.m. and 9 p.m. tonight. This registration will not commit a candidate to any financial obligation.

Initiation into the organization here on campus has not been possible before now, said Dr. Krauss, owing to the fact that eligible candidates were attending some one of the cooperating institutions during their freshman year.

Dr. Andrew Borland

Dairy Students To Honor Borland

As a tribute to Professor Andrew A. Borland, retiring head of the dairy department, the students voted unanimously to dedicate their 23rd Annual Dairy Exposition this Saturday to him.

Special recognition will be extended Professor Borland at the annual dairy banquet Saturday night by members of the Dairy Science Club. Students in charge of arrangements have invited officers of each of the breed associations of Pennsylvania, as well as the Pennsylvania Dairymen's Association. They have also added several contests, exhibitions, and events to Saturday afternoon's busy program.

Educator 50 Years

Professor Borland has been an educator for the past 50 years. In 1905, he gave up teaching a Mercer County school, where he had been for seven years, to become a student at the College. He graduated in 1909, and attended the University of Wisconsin, where he received his master's degree in 1910.

He returned to the College twice, permanently in 1915, when he became a dairy specialist in the newly organized Agricultural Extension Service.

Named Dairy Head

In 1919, he was named head of the Dairy department, a position he has held ever since. During that time, Professor Borland has always been in demand to talk to dairy groups in this and other states.

In 1928, he was elected as the U. S. delegate to the Eighth World's Dairy Congress, London (Continued on page eight)

Student Leaders Installed Before Audience of 400

Back Your Government, Urges All-College Head

All-College and class officers were installed on the steps of Old Main yesterday, as about 400 students witnessed the ceremonies in a drizzling rain and joined in singing the Alma Mater.

Thomas J. Lannen, retiring All-College president, thanked the students for their cooperation during his term of office, then expressed the wish that the new officers will find the same spirit.

"A Big Job"

After being sworn in by Alan Hack, Tribunal chairman, the new All-College president, William Lawless, said that student government has a "big job ahead."

"This is the greatest honor of my life," Lawless continued. "We shall try, with the cooperation of the students, to see that the best things are accomplished. This is our student government—let's get back of it."

Administers Oaths

Lawless then administered the oath of office to Terry Ruhlman, senior class president. As the words were being spoken, the Old Main chimes rang out the noon hour.

Robert Wine, president of the junior class, next received the oath from Lawless.

Accompanied by a section of the Blue Band, those present sang all four verses of the Alma Mater, concluding the first outdoor inaugural in the College's history.

Violence Flares In Jerusalem

JERUSALEM—Violence broke out briefly in Jerusalem last night, as efforts to engineer an Arab-Jewish truce in the Holy City apparently bogged down.

After a peaceful day throughout the city, the thunder and flash of explosives erupted in the Moslem Shiekh Jarrah quarter, a few blocks north of the old walled city.

Parliament Halt

ATHENS—The Greek parliament last night was suspended for one month as the result of a government crises caused by a quarrel between the Liberal and Populist parties over reshuffling the cabinet. Greek Premier Sophoulis announced the suspension following a conference with United States officials.

Taft Leads in Ohio

COLUMBUS—Returns from the Ohio primary indicate that Senator Robert Taft has won 14 of that state's 23 contested Republican convention seats. Harold Stassen apparently has won nine. Senator Taft got 30 without opposition. Both men interpret the results as a victory.

Ad Contest

Want to make $185.50 for a penny investment? Just write the correct answer to the "It's in the Ads" contest on a post card and mail it to "Ad Contest, Collegian."

Today's prizes are a floor lamp from the Wolf Furniture Company and $10 in credit from Keeler's Book Store.

Sixteen other prizes ranging from a pair of shoes to a fishing rod complete the list of awards in the ad contest.

Tickets Remain for 'Years Ago'

Tickets for Saturday night's performance of "Years Ago" were nearly sold out late yesterday. Many good seats still remain for the Thursday and Friday show.

Curtain time for "Years Ago," Players' production directed by Robert D. Reifsnieder, is 8 p.m. in Schwab auditorium. The play, written by Ruth Gordon, is based on the author's recollections of her youthful stage struck days, and is being run in conjunction with the Combined Arts Festival, May 2 to 15.

The lead spotlight is on Ruthye Cohen as Ruth. Ruth, who idolizes Hazel Dawn,

Independent Clubs Plan Joint Social Activities

Philotes, independent women's association, and the Penn State Club, independent men's organization, decided at a meeting last Tuesday night to work together on a social cooperative basis. Fred Peruzzi, publicity chairman of the Penn State Club, said yesterday.

He stated that the agreement was reached in order to bring about a closer relationship between the two independent organizations.

Under the new arrangement, Philotes will have access to the Penn State clubroom, 321 Old Main.

The first joint activity of the two organizations will be an outing on May 16, location of which has not yet been designated.

prominent actress of the day, has made secret plans for a stage interview in Boston. Unfortunately the date of the Boston interview conflicts with Ruth's appointment with two physical culture teachers, Miss Glavin, played by Joy Polikoff, and Mr. Bagley, played by Joseph Bird. The gymnasts have come all the way from Sargent's School of Physical Culture on the request of Ruth's father, who is determined that his daughter shall follow in their footsteps.

The father, a gruff mannered retiree sailor, with an aversion for cats, is portrayed by Winfield Clearwater. Ann Balmer plays Ruth's mother, while Fred Leuschner plays Fred, Ruth's boyfriend from Harvard. Other's in the cast are Mary Alice Hodgson as Anna, Jean Bickerton as Katherine and Thomas Monaghan as Mr. Sparrow.
