Sponsor Lectures, Concerts

The local chapter hopes to bring Negro faculty members to the College and to sponsor lectures and concerts by Negro artists as a part of its objective of bringing about better feeling between white and colored people. More specific plans will be made at the conference.

The conference culminates the membership drive conducted this week. However, interested persons may join at any time, said Mitchell Williams, chairman of the local chapter. The conference is open to everyone.

in September, only to find that the tryout date had been moved up, and that his orders had been cancelled.

Letters and telegrams were ignored, and it looked like Taylor had muffed his big chance. But in New York, Hart was having troubles, too. All the roles for "Winged Victory" had been filled with the exception of "Pinky," a smart-aleck cadet who "washes out."

One of the messages from Florida must have reached Hart at the psychological moment, for Don was told to report immediately. Ten minutes after his meeting with the playwright, Don had the part.

"Naked City," the last film directed by Mark Hellinger before his death, is noted for its artistic effects of New York City. The critics laud it, and Penn State again smiles proudly at Alumnus Don Taylor.

The plan has been given impetus by the invention of the Perry-Higgins process of printing which, according to Joseph Zerbby, publisher of the Pottsville Republican and others, will permit the establishing of print shops at a fraction of the cost of present day methods.

The process, which is based on the use of magnesium plates, is being operated successfully on five newspapers in Florida. The initial cost of such a plant would be about $20,000.

If the Senior Class of 1948 votes to give its funds toward the development of such a plant, an organization called the Penn State Student Press, Inc. will be formed. This non-profit corporation would consist of ten members who would direct its policies. Five of these members, whose duty it would be to add stability, would be named from the faculty, and five student members would be elected by All-College Cabinet.

This body would issue bonds, handle finances, and determine when, where, and how a student printing establishment would be built.

Summer Work Camps Provide Opportunity for Employment

by Betty Ruth Gibbons

One phase of summer work offered by the American Friends Service Committee is that of Work Camps.

By taking a direct part in significant community affairs, work campers gain new insights into the social and economic problems of our country. Manual labor with people in need helps to get rid of prejudices and break barriers.

Work campers are given a complete program including evening discussion and study with local leaders, periods of lectures, field trips and worship. Campers volunteer their time and share in living expenses and other costs of the camp. Scholarship aid is usually available for those who cannot pay the full fee.

Assist Townspeople

This summer, for example, campers will assist in the coal mining town of Crawford, Tennessee, in remodeling and repairing the school. Structural repairs are needed on the roof and foundations; the school well will be opened and cleaned and a pump house erected over it.

In the Appalachian Highlands, where the Penland School of Handicrafts is located, the work camp will enlarge the facilities to make possible a new program, and will help in repairing other school property. Campers will be able to experiment in the crafts taught at the school and to study the cultural aspect of the region through discussions, field trips to mines, experimental communities, and T.V.A. demonstration projects.

Help Indians

Tuba City, Arizona, headquarters of the Indian Service for the Western Navaho Indian Reservation, has no place where a Navaho coming to town can secure overnight accommodations. The camp will assist in building sleeping quarters, showers, toilet facilities, cooking and dining units, and laundry facilities.

Campers will observe and discuss the conditions under which the American Indian lives.

Last year in Maine fires virtually leveled nine communities. A work camp will help rebuild public buildings in one of these rural villages, working with townsfolk on a town hall, a firehouse, or a school.

Summer Camps

Campers will be asked to contribute as much as possible to the $125 maintenance cost. Camps this summer will last the eight week period from July 2 to August 27.

According to the AFSC, students who "can discipline themselves to live cooperatively as part of a group, to interpret the way of peace to the community in which they work, to engage in hard physical labor, and to study sympathetically the social and economic problems of the area, should apply for summer work camps.

Requests for applications may be sent to the American Friends Service Committee, 20 S. 12th Street, Philadelphia, Pa. Further information may be had at the Christian Association office, 304 Old Main.

Coeds Draw Rooms At Dean of Women's Office on Monday

Women students who plan to be on campus next semester must report to the Dean of Women's Office any time from 7:40 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday to draw numbers for their room assignments. The office will be closed over the noon hour from 12:15 p.m. to 12:50 p.m.

Mrs. Cordella Hibbs, assistant to the dean in charge of dormitory assignments, went around to all the dormitory units this week and explained to the girls the changes in the dormitory room system.

In response to many inquiries Mrs. Hibbs stated that the dormitory offices requested the Dean of Women's Office, to house girls practice teaching or living in the practice house in one dormitory.

If sororities can easily exchange students who are going to take practice teaching within their suites, or with girls living in Woman's Building, they will be allowed to house girls for eight weeks.

Ag Hill-

Pork barbecue, baked beans, milk, punch and ice cream are on the menu, and the cost of the meal will be 25 cents.

A hay wagon will make round trips starting at 9 o'clock from Rec Hall to the Corner Room, past the girls' dorms and back to Rec Hall to haul couples to the dance.

While the carnival festivities are being held on the edges of the "carnival grounds," a jam-boree of square dancing and hokey-pokey will hold sway on the main dance floor of the gym.

Dungaree Dance Topping off the evening will be a dungaree dance featuring Pat Patterson and his band. During the intermission of the affair, a couple best typifying the "dungaree duds" spirit will be crowned king and queen of the dance.

Tickets for the evening affair are on sale at the Student Union desk at $2 or may be obtained from members of the Ag Student Council.

ATTENTION SENIORS

The Lingnan University Memorial Book Fund is the opportunity for the Class of 1948 to unselfishly help our war-devastated sister university.—Lingnan.

They have asked us for help and how can we refuse! Their library was plundered by the invading Japs, who robbed and destroyed it ruthlessly. Here is our chance to help them to rebuild from the ruins of their country.

This is an act which will receive for Penn State, the praise of students all over the world who are striving for lasting peace. If this suggestion is passed, it will indeed be a glorious chapter in the 37th year association of Penn State and Lingnan.

For Which Is Better You May Ask Yourself:

A permanent gift to world-wide friendship and one which will make Penn State more widely known?

... OR ...

A partial contribution toward a project which when completed will be strictly limited in its use to our campus?

Vote for the Memorial Book Fund for Lingnan University, Canton, China.
