

Nutrition Head Lectures Today

Dr. Charles G. King, scientific director of the Nutrition Foundation in New York, will speak at 11 o'clock this morning and again at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Both lectures will be open to the public.

The morning lecture on "Feeding the Nation" will be in 3 Carnegie Hall as the ninth of the Pennsylvania Workshop series.

"The World Food Situation" will be his afternoon subject in a joint session of the Northeast Regional Red Cross Nutrition Workshop and the Home Economics Forum in 105 White Hall.

Dr. King is widely known in the biological chemistry field for his work in isolating Vitamin "C" from natural sources. This was accomplished in 1932 when he was professor of chemistry at the University of Pittsburgh where he had earlier received his doctor's degree. He did graduate work at Columbia University and at Cambridge University in England.

Dr. King received the Pennsylvania Award of Merit in 1938 and a year later the State Public Health Association Award. He is a member of the Food and Nutrition Board of the National Research Council.

Lost Entrance Cards Reissued

A sample poll of incoming freshmen at Penn State indicated that the vast majority of non-veterans will have completed at least one year of college before they become eligible for the draft.

William S. Hoffman, dean of admissions, said approximately half of the class will be wiped out before the start of the sophomore year and that practically all others will reach draft age either before or during their third year of study.

He said the sampling, in which he picked 200 forms at random from files containing approximately 3500 admissions, disclosed that only 20 per cent of the incoming freshmen are war veterans. He found no male student who is likely to finish four years of study before his 19th birthday.

Carpenter Speaks At Grad Banquet

Clarence R. Carpenter, professor of psychology at the College, will be the main speaker at a dinner for the graduate students of the School of Education, at the Nittany Lion Inn at 8 p.m. July 21.

The master of ceremonies will be Rave Conrad, a graduate student of the School of Education.

The price of the tickets is $2 and the tickets can be obtained from any member of the committee or from Anne Jane Hawkins, 127 Atherton Hall, Anne Tennant, Education Workshop Student Union, Old Main, and the Summer Sessions office.

Members of the committee for the dinner are Hollis Farnum, Thomas J. Horne, Mrs. Margaret Morris, James Black, Helen Kee-Fauver, and Rosana Eckman, chairman.

The faculty advisory committee consists of Dr. A. W. VanderMeer, department of education, Dr. William U. Snyder, department of psychology, Prof. Mary B. Allgood, department of home economics, Prof. Willa Taylor, department of music education, Prof. Urwin Rowntree, industrial education, and Dr. C. O. Williams, Education Extension Director.

Lingnan Books Await Shipment

More than 2500 books donated by students during spring semester final exam week are stacked up awaiting shipment to Lingnan University in Shanghai, China.

Men Beat Women In Radio 'Battle'

By the slim margin of two points the men downed the women in a Battle of the Sexes held in Schwab Auditorium Monday night. The program was the first in a series of Monday night entertainments planned by the Recreation department for the summer session. Final score, as read by Lou Bell, master of ceremonies for the broadcast's quiz program, was 53 points for the men as against 51 for the weaker sex.

Members of the panels named by Earle Edwards, director of recreation, were Misses Helen Hinsey, of Uniontown, Doris Settler, of Scranton, Virginia Skelton of McKeesport, and Julia Jones of Asheville, Mass., for the women, and Richard Kistler, of Norristown, Chris Groneman, of College Station, Tex., Herb McCollum of Yeadon, and Thomas Campion, of Upper Merion.

Questions fired at the experts were taken from the field of history, literature, sports and current events. As a chance for recapitulation, each team was given a set of bonus questions at the end of the twenty minute quiz. For the men these point getters dealt with strictly women's affairs and for the women, the subject matter was strictly masculine.

Successful conclusion by sorting and packing books should contact Dr. Henry S. Brunner, head of the agricultural education department and chairman of the Penn State-in-China committee.

Freight costs will be borne by the American Board of Trustees of Lingnan University of which Dr. Brunner is a member. Another unsolved problem is the shortage of wood for packing boxes.

Dr. King Speaks At Sunday Vespers

Dr. Herbert King, pastor of Grace Congregational church, Harlem, New York City, will be the guest speaker for the weekly Sunday evening vesper service to be held in Schwab auditorium this Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

Dr. King spoke at the college chapel services last Spring in connection with Religion-in-Life week.

Special organ music by George Ceiga of the Music department and vocal solos by Harold Campbell will complete the program.

Dancing Highlights PSCA Night of Fun

Dancing, games, and refreshments will highlight a night of fun given for all summer session students and their friends by the Penn State Christian Association in the Hugh Beaver room, 304 Old Main, at 8:30 p.m. Saturday.

Program and general get-together will be in charge of William Niering, president of the summer PSCA.

All students, regardless of faith, are urged by Niering to come and get acquainted so that a program of fun can be arranged for the remainder of the summer.
