Town, College Display Talent

Faculty, student, and town talent combined to present a variety show to a large crowd in Schwab Auditorium Monday night. Virgil Neilly, graduate student well known for his numerous appearances in Thespian shows and other musical presentations, acted as master of ceremonies.

The accompaniment of a full length silent movie was given on two pianos by Hum Fishburn and Guy Woods of the music department. They also played their own arrangement of the ever popular "Margie."

Ann Riley, six-year-old daughter of Ridge Riley, did a ballet entitled "The Swan."

Or the more serious side, George Ceiga played "Hymn of Glory" and "Chinoiseri" on the organ. Mr. Ceiga mentioned that the first piece required the use of "everything but the kitchen sink."

The master of ceremonies was then called upon to sing several numbers in the Hoagy Carmichael style. Mr. Neilly chose "Lazy River" and "Academic Blues." The latter piece was one of the numbers written for a recent Thespian show which advised a little less study and more fun.

Several violin selections were presented by Ann Wisdom, concertmaster for the College Symphony. For an encore, Miss Wisdom played Fritz Kreisler's arrangement of "Nobody Knows the Trouble I've Seen."

Jim Beach introduced the Honey Boys as the next feature on the program. The group sang several novelty numbers, among them "Wedding Bells Are Breaking Up That Old Gang of Mine," "A Fraternity Man," and "Honey." Members of the group are Boyd Bell, Floyd Schlegel, Paul Margolf, Bill Davy, and Jim Beach.

As a final surprise feature, the Summer Swingsters, under the direction of Al Cerrutti of Union City, presented a program of modern dance music. The band, which was organized just several hours before the show, used Mr. Cerrutti's arrangements for "Jingle Bells," "Sweet and Lovely" and "Cherokee."

Book Institute Open to Public

Second annual County Library Institute sponsored jointly by the county library section of the Pennsylvania Library Association and the College Summer Library school will be held in 121 Sparks tomorrow.

The theme of the morning meeting, which opens at 10 o'clock, will be "Understanding the Rural Community." It will be presented by William R. Gordon, professor of rural sociology extension; Clay Burkholder, assistant superintendent of the Mifflin County schools; and Dr. Carroll D. Champlin, professor of education.

Following the luncheon session at the Hotel State College, an inspection of bookmobiles will be held in the Recreation Hall parking area.

The afternoon session, which opens at 2:30 o'clock, will feature a talk by Dr. Alfred D. Keator, director of the Pennsylvania State Library and Museum, and an informal discussion of bookmobiles. It will be led by Miss Kathryn Oller, assistant extension librarian of the State Library and visiting instructor in the Summer library school.

The public is invited to attend all sessions of the Institute and those desiring reservations for the luncheon should make them with Miss Evelyn Hensel, assistant librarian of the College Library. Reservations are $1.25.

McAfee Lauds US State Dept.

"Because of the complex duties performed, the U. S. State Department has been open to much criticism," William McAfee, of the division of Chinese affairs, Department of State, and a former teacher in State College high school, said to the Pennsylvania Workshop on Monday.

McAfee pointed out that since the war, the duties of the Department of State have been greatly expanded as many war-time agencies have been transferred to that department. He pointed out that at one time there were only eight men in the Department of State while today there are more than 12,000 employees in the foreign service alone.

"Despite its growth, a high level of ability has been maintained among State Department employees, many of whom are veterans with first-hand knowledge of foreign conditions," McAfee said.
