

Chimes Active In Orientation

Chimes, national junior women's honorary, is the honor open to those girls who have particularly proven themselves active at the College during their sophomore year.

One of the main functions of Chimes is to help in the orientation of all those women who transfer to the College after their freshman year. Each member comes to school a week early in order to be on hand to help adjust newcomers. Chimes' principle function is to maintain this service throughout the school year.

Girls who have been selected on the basis of their leadership, scholarship, and activity are tapped during the spring semester of their sophomore year. Coeds must have a 1.5 All-College average and one main activity. Girls who have previously been tapped for Cwens, sophomore women's honorary, are ineligible.

Chimes became a national organization last year largely through the work of the chapter at the College.

The local junior honoraries at Penn State, Ohio State University, Temple University and University of West Virginia became the charter members of the new national junior honorary known as Chimes. The College chapter had been called Junior Service Board. Nancy Ault, former president of the College chapter, was the first national president.

Louise Homer Club

Louise Homer Club, a women's musical honorary, took the name of the great concert singer in 1929. Louise Homer, who died several months ago, was born in Pittsburgh.

Like so many groups on campus, the club was inactive during the war but was reorganized in the spring of 1946. Its membership increased from 13 to 40 during the past year.

Frosh Green Retires, Blue and White Moves In

No frosh, no green ribbons or dinks! Sophomore women, however, will be asked to wear blue and white bows and small name tags, while the sophomore men will be required to wear only the name cards.

Women will receive their name cards in the dormitory meetings tonight and men will be given theirs at counselor meetings Monday or Tuesday. Name tags should be worn immediately upon receiving them from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and during all classes. Further notice will be given to announce the last day of wearing them.

Girls must purchase the blue and white bows at the local five-and-ten cent store. These need not be worn until 8 a.m. Monday, September 27, and will be worn from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. each day for three weeks. The bows need not be worn to any social functions.

Previously, freshmen women were seen about campus adorned in green ribbons and bearing placards designating the wearer's name and home town. In addition and especially painful was the fact that new girls were not allowed to date or even speak to the opposite sex for three weeks.

Most of you sophomores have already been through a freshman initiation of customs and traditions peculiar to another campus, and thus the leniency shown now. Student government is calling upon the good sportsmanship of its new students in this effort to learn names and make new acquaintances.

Since the first woman was graduated in 1872, the College has granted diplomas to 7000 women students.

Organized gym classes began in 1893 with coeds donning heavy blue wool serge bloomers, middy blouses, black stockings and white tennis shoes.

PEARL O. WESTON

Dean Weston Greets Coeds

The members of my staff and I extend a sincere welcome to you who have come to the campus this fall. We hope that in your work here at The Pennsylvania State College you may continue to strive toward the standards and characteristics which mark the well educated person.

Your success in College will be determined by your ability to think, by your willingness to invest time and serious study in your academic subjects, and by your ability to implement what you study so that it becomes a part of you and your thinking.

We are here to help you. Come to our office, 105 Old Main, at any time for we are eager to become acquainted with you.

Pearl O. Weston,
Dean of Women

McAllister Hall was a men's dormitory until it was converted for women's used in 1915.

Grange Dormitory was constructed in 1929 from contributions of Pennsylvania's potato growers.

Coeds Register for Greeks, Attend Sorority Gatherings

All coeds on campus are eligible to join one of the 19 national sororities providing they have the required scholastic average. This is a 1.00 or 1.3 All-College average depending on the sorority.

Coed transfers who do not have a Penn State average cannot be initiated into a sorority until they have been on campus one semester. They may, however, pledge a sorority.

Women students who are interested in joining a sorority should register at the entrance of Atherton Hall between 8 and 5 p.m. on Thursday or at the same place between 8 and 12 noon on Monday. Registrants must have a 1.00 All-College average and pay a $1.00 registration fee. Students with deferred grades may not register.

Open Houses
The first Open House to acquaint new coeds with the sororities will be held in the sorority suites or houses from 2 to 5 p.m. on Saturday. Two Open Houses are scheduled for 2 to 5 p.m. and 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. on Sunday.

In order that the coeds may visit as many sororities as possible during the Open House a rotating schedule has been set up, reported Adelaide Finkelstein, president of Pan-Hellenic Council, sorority governing board. In this system the rushees have been divided into three sections geographically.

Section I of the sororities includes Kappa Alpha Theta, Delta Gamma, Alpha Xi Delta, Delta Zeta, Alpha Gamma Delta, and Zeta Tau Alpha.

Section II includes Alpha Chi Omega, Gamma Phi Beta, Chi Omega, Phi Mu, and Theta Phi Alpha.

Section III includes Alpha Omicron Pi, Beta Sigma Omicron, Delta Delta Delta, Kappa Delta, and Kappa Kappa Gamma.

Rushees are divided A to H, I to Q, and R to Z according to last names. Saturday from 2 to 5 p.m., Section I of the sororities will entertain rushees from A to H, while Section II entertains those from I to Q and Section III from R to Z.

On Sunday from 2 to 5 p.m., Section I entertains those from I to Q, Section II from R to Z; and Section III from A to H.

Sunday from 6:30 to 9:30 Section I entertains those from R to Z, Section II from A to H; and Section III from I to Q.

Jewish Groups

The three Jewish sororities will have only two Open Houses from 2 to 5 p.m. on Saturday and from 2 to 5 p.m. on Sunday. On Saturday, Alpha Epsilon Phi will entertain A to H from 2 to 3 p.m.; I to Q from 3 to 4 p.m.; and R to Z from 4 to 5 p.m.

Phi Sigma Sigma will entertain I to Q from 2 to 3 p.m.; R to Z from 3 to 4 p.m.; and A to H from 4 to 5 p.m. Sigma Delta Tau will entertain R to Z from 2 to 3 p.m.; A to H from 3 to 4 p.m.; and I to Q from 4 to 5 p.m.

On Sunday AEPH will entertain I to Q from 2 to 3 p.m.; R to Z from 3 to 4 p.m.; and A to H from 4 to 5 p.m. Phi Sig Sig will be hostesses to R to Z from 2 to 3 p.m.; A to H from 3 to 4 p.m.; and I to Q from 4 to 5 p.m. SDT will entertain A to H from 2 to 3 p.m.; I to Q from 3 to 4 p.m.; and R to Z from 4 to 5 p.m.

Other rushing information and the location of the sorority suites and houses will be printed in the Wednesday issue of the Daily Collegian.

When Home Economics was introduced in 1891, it was listed as Domestic Economy and explained as the application of science to work of the kitchen and laundry.

In 1888 a woman was selected as associate editor of Free Lance, predecessor of the Daily Collegian.
