but will be used in spot plays as a passer and punter.

On the line the Thundering Herd has what Coach Harry Lawrence calls "the best tackle and end in the country."

At the end post, the Bison mentor boasts Charles Gruneberg, 100-pound Shamokin gragger. A junior, Gruneberg is playing his third year of varsity football.

A scoring tackle, Don Davidson, marked up the final six-pointer last Saturday against Alfred U. when he intercepted a pass on the Bucknell 45 and ran 55 yards for the score. Davidson, a 200-pound Harrisburg product, played varsity ball his freshman year and is touted as "one of the fastest tackles in the business."

Larry Bacon, another Bucknell tackle, will enter Saturday's game wearing a novel piece of football gear. While serving in the Marines on the Marshall Islands in 1944, the 205-pound under study to Davidson lost his left hand.

He drew up plans for a protector for his arm, sent the pattern to a sporting goods company, and the result is that he now holds down the right tackle post on the Herd.

A line averaging close to 200-pounds will represent Penn State against the visitors. With Sam Tamburo and Bob Hicks at the end posts, Negley Norton and John Finley at the tackle positions, Joe Drazenovich and John Simon or Paul Kelly at the guards and Ray Hedderick at center, the Nittanyites will try to equal their defensive record of last season.

RESERVES

Except for two positions—tackle and center—the home team will have ample reserves to send into the battle. At the ends posts, Dennie Hoggard, Lloyd Amprim, Dan Kline, Dalton Rumberger and John Smidansky will be ready to spell Tamburo and Hicks.

Bob Ross, Don (Duck) Murray and Norm Erickson will relieve Finley and Norton if the two regular tackles have to leave the battle, but none of the three reserves have the weight or Lion experience of the starting pair.

In the Nittany power-packed backfield Coach Higgins will call on Wally Triplett, Chuck Drazenovich, Joe Colone and Bill Luther for the starting assignments with an equally powerful set of backs ready for service on a moment's notice.

Only at the blocking-back position is the backfield weak in reserve power. Should Drazenovich leave the game, Captain Joe Colone will move to the number-two back spot and Franny Rogel will replace Colone.

Larry Cooney, who played his outstanding game last season in the Cotton Bowl, will alternate with Triplett at the wingback position. Also on the reserve list for number-one back are Bill Scherer, Lee Henry and Owen Dougherty.

Ready to replace Rogel and Colone will be Fran Smutney and Clarence Gorinski. Gorinski saw a lot of service last season but both he and Smutney were on the injured list during early Fall workout.

Eight fast and tricky tailbacks will await Coach Higgins' nod to relieve Bill Luther in the number-four-back position.

Should the Lions receive, Larry Joe and Cooney will replace Luther and Triplett in the opening play.

Between The Lions

Consensus

Conscientious Clancy, our admiring fraternity brother, two days ago sat down to the mammoth job of surveying the predictions of ten "leading" football soothsayers.

Yesterday Clancy came up with a consensus prediction that puts the Nittany Lions in the East's 1948 top drawer and seventh in the nation at the end of the season.

Misleading

The age-old concept of a "starting lineup" in football is now misleading. Time was when the names you read in the newspaper lineups accompanying football accounts belonged to eleven first-stringers in the true sense of the word.

But in modern football, substitutions are so frequent that a starting lineup means nothing. A coach may start a second-string tailback, pull him out after a couple minutes and then relegate him to the bench the rest of the game. But the fellow still gets his name in the paper as a starting back.

Mishap

Two years ago at California State Teachers College, Francis "Punchy" Rogel played the part of CSTC's plucky, persistent, indestructible gridiron fullback for a full season and then went home to North Braddock only to receive a chipped ankle bone in a friendly session of vacant-lot touch football.

Fully recovered now, of course!

Booters Win Opener

Displaying a fast-breaking and accurate passing attack, the Lion soccer forces shut out Army's Cadets at West Point yesterday by a 2-0 margin.

Harry Little, diminutive line-man who starred on Jeffrey's 1945 footing aggregation, played the game of his life. Carrying the brunt of the attack he scored the Blue and White's first tally unassisted late in the third period to put the Jeffrey men ahead.

Then early in the last canto he added the convincer to give the Lions the margin of victory. He had to be removed from the game late in the last quarter because of a minor leg injury.

The triumph established the Lions as a definite threat to the "unofficial" eastern soccer honors and it also gave them their sweet revenge for last year's 2-1 setback handed them by the Cadets.

The Lions however, failed to sweep the Army series when the Cadet junior varsity handed the Nittany jayvee booters a 6-1 lacing.

Charles (Chuck) Medlar, Penn State athletic trainer, is a former collegiate and professional baseball pitcher.
