

Nittany Gridders Leave Today For Night Battle at Syracuse

Seeking to add another scalp to the den wall, the Lion football team will leave State College at 6 o'clock this evening for tomorrow night's game against Syracuse.

With Head Coach Bob Higgins and End Coach Earle Edwards in command of the 36-man squad, the aggregation will travel to Elmira, N. Y., by bus tonight and then proceed to Syracuse Friday afternoon. The junior varsity squad will travel with the varsity, but to reach Syracuse for their afternoon game, will leave Elmira in the morning.

ITHACA

Saturday, the team plans to stop at Ithaca, N. Y., to witness the Harvard-Cornell battle and then return to State College late Saturday night.

In the final home workout of the week, Backfield Coach Al Michaels drilled the Nittany gridders on pass defense in preparation for the expected air attack launched by Syracuse sophomore Bernie Custis.

Now in his second year as mentor of the Orange team, Coach Reaves Baysinger calls Custis one of the finest college passers he had ever seen, even though Baysinger's own son is doing the flinging for Navy.

In the 25-year series between the two colleges, both teams have won ten contests while five games ended in ties. After opening the series in 1922 with a 0-0 deadlock, Syracuse took the next four games and it was not until 1927 that the Lion could squeeze a 9-6 decision out of the Orange.

The Orangemen took four in a row from 1932-35. It was then that the Lion snapped out of its lethargy and racked up a 33-6 victory in 1938, played to stalemates in '39 and '40, and then piled up 168 points to 32 for Syracuse in (Continued on page three)

Ticket Demand Exceeds Quota

Final tabulations yesterday evening revealed that 4447 students had applied for a total of 7065 Penn football tickets, according to Harold R. Gilbert, graduate manager of athletics.

Since the student allotment of 5200 was far exceeded by the unusual demand, the last 753 applicants for two tickets will receive only one apiece. Tickets and refund checks will be available at the Athletic Association windows from October 25.

At the same time, Gilbert announced that reserve seats for the West Virginia and Michigan State games at home had been completely sold out. He indicated that alumni orders would be cut from four to two for both the Penn and Michigan State games.

Freak Accidents Jinx Hapless Engineer Year-Round

How, unseasonal can one person become?

Probably the best answer the College can supply is Alvin Schwartz, a junior in the School of Engineering.

Schwartz was treated at the dispensary Tuesday afternoon for a severe case of sunburn in the midst of the first cool wave to hit the campus.

Cause of the freak accident was a sun lamp which he left turned on while he fell asleep.

But that's not all! Last May Schwartz was treated at the dispensary for frostbite incurred when a cartridge of carbon dioxide exploded in his hand.

Football Movies

Movies of Penn State football games will be shown every Wednesday night instead of Thursday, as was reported yesterday, said Ray Conger, director of recreational activities at the College.

The movies will be shown at Schwab Auditorium at 7 o'clock every Wednesday night. If attendance should prove heavy, as it did last season, additional showings will probably be provided.

Since the films are silent, a running comment will be furnished by members of the football coaching staff.

Industrial Ed

The Industrial Education Society will hold its first monthly meeting in 203 Eng B at 7:30 o'clock tonight. All members are urged to attend. Special invitation is extended to all graduate students of the industrial engineering department.

Penn State Club Accepts 82 Men

Eighty-two new members were accepted by the Penn State Club at its initial meeting of the fall semester Tuesday night, Fred Peruzzi, publicity chairman, announced yesterday.

"Additional applications from prospective members will be accepted every day this week at the club room, 321 Old Main, and at succeeding meetings of the organization," Peruzzi added.

"Independent men who wish to play touch football may affiliate with the Penn State Club team, entered in the intramural league, by becoming members of the club," Donald Tanner, athletic chairman, reported.

Opening their fall social season, the Penn Staters have scheduled a record dance in conjunction with Philotes, independent women's organization, at the club room, 321 Old Main, 8 p.m. Saturday.

Casual wear is the theme of the dance. Refreshments will be served. A card party has been scheduled for Sunday afternoon, beginning at 1:30 p.m.

AIM Committee Submits District Voting Plan, Town Independents to Elect Representatives

Preliminary plans for placing independent male students living in town in a specified "ward" for voting purposes were made by the Association of Independent Men committee meeting Tuesday night.

Groundwork was also laid for the actual elections by all independent men, of representatives to the executive committee of AIM.

Under the proposed plan, each independent man living in town will be placed in a voting district. All voters in that particular dis-

Wards Established

Arbitrary wards have already been established on a map of State College, based on a student census taken last semester by Robert Troxell, then chairman of the AIM committee.

"We plan now to contact each town student individually by letter or postcard to inform him

Student Christians Plan Conference

The fall Area Conference of the Student Christian movement will be held this weekend at Camp Michaux, near Carlisle, according to officers of the Penn State Christian Association.

Prof. Ira Reid, professor of sociology at Swarthmore College, will give the platform address at the convention. His theme for this and other talks will be "Can Students Be Christian Today?" Seminars on this topic will also be conducted during the weekend.

The conference starts Friday evening with supper, continuing through Sunday noon. However, arrangements have been made for students who may find it impossible to arrive at the camp until sometime Saturday.

For further information concerning transportation, program, expenses and registration, students may inquire at the PSCA office, 304 Old Main.

Cabinet Holds First Meeting To Discuss Student Issues

With five issues slated for discussion, All-College Cabinet will hold the first formal meeting of the school year in 201 Old Main at 8 o'clock tonight.

Included on the Cabinet agenda are reports from student agencies, sophomore elections committee and association of independent men, and the naming of a committee to select members for Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges. Cabinet will decide on a method for choosing the members.

A report will be given by the committee to discuss trophies for members of the College national intercollegiate gymnastic champions of 1948.

WMAJ Features Collegian Newscast

The Daily Collegian is presenting a five-minute summary of campus news three times weekly over radio station WMAJ. Titled "The Daily Collegian on the Air," the newscast was inaugurated yesterday afternoon.

Scheduled for Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoons at 5:25 o'clock, the program features news gathered and edited by members of the Daily Collegian staff. The show is sponsored by College Sports-wear, Inc.

"We hope to bring students more timely coverage of campus news through the facilities of the Daily Collegian and WMAJ," said Lewis Stone, Daily Collegian editor. "This is the only instance of a sponsored news program prepared by a college daily of which we know in the East."

Jack Pheil, WMAJ announcer and a recent graduate of the College, is the newscaster for the program.

Five Ag Clubs Give Hort Show

The first Horticultural Show on the campus since 1941 will be held as a feature of the Homecoming weekend, October 23 and 24, said Louise Rave, acting president of the Hort Club, after a meeting Thursday night.

Four other clubs including the Forestry Club, the Dendrologic Society, the Home Ec Club, and the Clover Club, will cooperate with the Hort Club in producing this show which will be open free of charge to the public.

The stock pavilion, site of the show, will be open Friday afternoon, October 22, all day Saturday, and on Sunday.

William Custer, who was elected president of the Hort Club last Spring, has enlisted in active naval service. His place is being filled by acting president Rave, who, with George Teel, secretary, is forming the publicity committee for the show.

William McLaine has been named show manager, assisted by James J. McElwain. Patricia Carlisle was chosen show secretary, and Robert Calhoun, Hort Club treasurer, will serve as show treasurer.
