Lawn Displays Depict Gala Past of College

Preliminary Tour To Precede Judging

Fraternity lawn displays will be judged beginning at 7 o'clock tonight.

The three judges selected by the IFC, George Donovan, Robert E. Galbraith, and Wilmer E. Kenworthy, will first take a preliminary tour through the fraternity section to acquaint themselves with the various displays.

With members of the committee to act as guides, the official tour will then be made along a prescribed route already established by the lawn display committee.

Results of tonight's judging will be announced during the halftime intermission at tomorrow's football game with Michigan State. Both the name of the winning house and the names of those houses which received honorable mention will be given.

The winning fraternity will be presented with a cup donated by the Athletic Association. Winner of last year's award was Beta Theta Pi.

Thirty-nine fraternities have signed up at Student Union, indicating their desire to have a lawn display judged.

Each display will be graded on the basis of a possible 100 points; 35 for originality, 35 for time and effort, 20 for artistic ability, and 10 for relation to the theme, Penn State Through the Years.

Fairly Heavy Vote Marks LA Election

Twenty-five students were elected to the Liberal Arts Student Council in two-day voting which ended yesterday. The vote was "fairly heavy," said Selma Zasofsky, president.

The council includes seven seniors, eleven juniors, and seven sophomores. The 25 elected were part of a preliminary list of 40 students chosen by the incumbent members from the original nominees.

New senior members are Michael Deckman, Joan Fox, Robert Leeper, Clare Lefkoe, Jean Moore, Peter Prifti, and Richard Schlegel.

The 11 juniors include Karl Borish, Norman Borish, Edwin Hoffman, Robert Keller, Elliot Krane, Thomas Morgan, Sylvia Ockner, Joseph Reinheimer, Earl Schaffer, Richard Shultz, and Herbert Wittman.

Sophomores elected are Leonard Abrams, Patricia Bender, Joel Fleming, Corinne Mittelman, Howard Rosen, David Schmuckler, and Jane Sutherland.

The new council will meet at the Penn State Photo Shop to have its LaVie picture taken, 7:15 p. m. Monday, the president said. She also requested members to submit their class schedules to her at the office of the Daily Collegian this week.

Israel Seeks Peace

Paris—The Council of Nations was notified yesterday that Israel is ready to observe a cease-fire order in Southern Palestine. The Israeli note said the Jews would stop the shooting within 12 hours after they had been assured that their Egyptian opponents also would hold their fire.

Crash Kills 39

Nine Americans were among the 39 persons killed yesterday when a New York-bound Dutch airliner crashed at Prestwick, Scotland. Only one person survived the crash, and he is reported to have been critically injured.

Blanketed in heavy fog, the four-engine plane raced into a high tension wire, burst into flames, and crashed in a pasture.

Fraternities Greet Homecoming Alumni

Many homecoming alumni should be pleasantly surprised to find scenes which remind them of undergraduate days long past, brought to life again in fraternity displays ranging from the development of the Jordan fertility plots to the history of the typical Penn State coed.

Thirty-nine fraternities have arranged lawn displays for the gala homecoming weekend, most of them following the theme, "Penn State Through the Years," very closely.

Several of the displays trace the growth of phases of Penn State life down through the years. Alpha Chi Rho will show improvements in coeds from 1855 to 1960, complete with special lighting effects.

FLAG POLE FIGHTS
AEPi recalls the days of flag-pole fights with a simulated fight on their lawn. Alpha Gamma Rho features a robot depicting the Jordan fertility plots being pushed away to make room for new buildings.

Alpha Phi Delta will show the development of Old Main as will KDR. The latter version includes special lighting and sound effects. ATO has prepared scenes from past and present college life, the old on a haywagon; the new in a trailer.

The Beta Sigs, closely tying their theme in with tomorrow's football game, present football fans from a "purr to a roar." Beta Theta Pi, attempting to recapture the cup they won last year, will have on their lawn a stuffed lion throwing years through the past with scenes in the background tracing the progress of the College.

FOOTBALL THEMES
Themes on the Lion-Spartan football contest abound. Kappa Sigma will have both a movable Lion and Spartan, the Lion winning cartoons depicting Penn State through the years. Phi (Continued on page three)

French Film at Nittany

"Marias," a French film with English subtitles will be shown at the Nittany Theatre Monday and Tuesday in collaboration with the International Film Club and modern language department.

"Marias" is a part of a trilogy consisting also of "Panny" and "Cesar." The other two films will be shown at a later date. Raimu and Fernandel, who were recently seen in "The Well-Digger's Daughter," will act in all three films.

As an experiment, the Nittany Theatre will hold continuous shows in the afternoon and evening.

"The idea of presenting a foreign language film each week," said Edward Abramson, head of the International Film Club, "has been highly successful so far."

Lines from the Lion East Lansing

Dear Gang:
Remember this guy Guerre? (pronounced gur or just plain grr). He is terrific. He hits the line like a pile driver, races up the field like Barney Ewell and tackles bounce off him as is he were Doc Blanchard.

And mind you he could be Elwood Petchel's brother. The lil' guy is only 5'5" and weighs 156 pounds. But nevertheless he'll probably cause many goose pimples to appear on Blue and White faithfuls, for that little keg of dynamite blew up on a bright shiny October day just two years ago.

It lit a fuse under him and 'Lil Dynamite' should explode before the Spartans pull into Nittany Valley. If he doesn't Chuck Draz promised me personally that he'd personally provide the spark to ignite the TNT the first time he tries to run through the line.

I'm staying at the Olds Hotel and met a cute girl who works behind the soda fountain there. When she saw me she asked me if I knew two guys by the name of Larry Cooney and "Rip" Shearer. She said she met them two years ago when they played up here.

"They promised to come and see me as soon as I got my divorce but they never did," she told me.

Everyone knows that 7 is a lucky number. So twice 7 (which totals 14 for you unfortunate Liberal Artists) should be twice as lucky. Remember tomorrow we're going after that 14th game without a set back.

For the Glory.

Forestry Honors 52 War Casualties

A plaque, bearing the names of 52 graduates and former students in the department of forestry at the College who gave their lives in World War I and World War II, will be dedicated tomorrow morning.

The dedication arranged by the Penn State-Mont Alto Forestry Alumni Association, will be held at 10:30 a. m. in the Forestry Building. The plaque will be mounted in the lobby of the building.

The ceremony will include opening remarks by Rev. Malcolm Koehler of the First Presbyterian Church, Clyde, O.; a description of the memorial project by Dr. William C. Bramble, professor of forestry at the College; and the reading of the names on the plaque by Col. Herman Work, of Covington, Va., who is chairman of the plaque committee.

James N. Morton, of the Pennsylvania Department of Forests and Waters, will deliver the eulogy and Dr. Lyman E. Jackson, dean of the School of Agriculture, will deliver the acceptance speech.

James Milholland, acting president of the College, and Victor Beede, professor and head of the department of forestry, also will speak briefly at the ceremony. H. Norton Cope, professor of for-

Old Timers Gather At Pep Rally Tonight

Returning alumni will get their first taste of the "back to the campus" spirit at the pre-Michigan State pep rally which will be staged in front of Old Main at 7 o'clock tonight.

"We'll try to have spotlights to light up the space in front of Old Main since we were criticized for not having them at the last two rallies," commented William Bonsall, head cheerleader.

Complete plans for the homecoming weekend were sent out by the Alumni Association, and grid stars of yesteryear were asked to return to be introduced to the student body at tonight's rally.

The Blue Band as well as team members of the '48 grid squad also have been asked to attend the rally but it is uncertain whether conditions will permit them to attend.

Commenting on last week's inaugural of the flash card system, William Bonsall said:

"Many mistakes were made the first try but we're going to correct them this week. The cooperation we received was wonderful except for the few characters who threw their cards away after the game."

Students sitting in adjoining sections K and L are asked not to throw away their cards after the game but to pass them over toward the center aisle where they will be collected by Blue Key, junior men's honorary. Last week the cards were collected by Skull and Bones, men's upper-class honorary.

Four new patterns were added to the present array of designs and they are expected to be ready for use for tomorrow's game with Michigan State.

Nittany Dorm Council Selects New Officers

Daniel Cottone, dorm 36, was elected president of the Nittany dormitory council at elections held Monday night.

Paul Kritsky, dorm 39, was elected vice-president, William Smiles, dorm 30, secretary, and Donald Paul, dorm 29, treasurer. Paul was also appointed social chairman.

Arrangements were also made to stage a mixer with Atherton hall independent coeds in the PUB October 31.

Naval Reservists Meet to Plan Unit

A reorganizational meeting of Electronic Warfare company 4-12, Volunteer Naval Reserve, will be held either next Tuesday or Thursday, Lieut. Francis Yonker, commanding officer, said yesterday.

He asked all former members of the company and other men interested in the organization to attend the meeting; the place will be announced later.

Yonker said that the company this year was planning to operate an emergency and practice short-wave radio station on campus and that classes in use of radar would be held.

Juba Lists Rules For Grid Traffic

Special traffic regulations to handle Saturday afternoon's football traffic were announced today by John R. Juba, State College police chief.

One way streets after the game: Beaver avenue from Pugh to Atherton, going East. College avenue from Pugh to Atherton, going West.

Chief Juba said that traffic leaving the campus on Burrowes street will not be allowed to make the left turn toward E. College.

No parking will be allowed on either side of S. Allen street Highland alley to the intersection of the Old Boalsburg Road after tomorrow noon.

From Saturday morning until after the game, no parking will be allowed on:

West side of S. Burrowes, between College and Beaver.

East side of N. Burrowes. Ridge avenue from Sunset Road to the end of Hartswick avenue.

Borough and State Police will direct the traffic at all the busy intersections.

Gilbert Releases Ticket Schedule

Special instructions for obtaining Penn tickets have been issued by Harold R. Gilbert, graduate manager of athletics, to prevent any necessity for the formation of long lines.

Students whose last initials are between A and G inclusive will get theirs Monday; from H to O, Tuesday; and P to Z, Wednesday. Those unable to get tickets on the assigned day may do so any day during the remainder of the week.

Matriculation cards must be presented in order to receive the tickets and any refund which may be due if the order had to be cut. The Athletic Association windows in Old Main will be open each day from 8 a. m. to noon and 1:30 to 4:30 p. m.

Student applications for tickets to the Pitt game will not be accepted Monday and Tuesday, Gilbert added, but at a date to be announced later in the Collegian.

Orchids for 'Wingback' Opening; Singing, Dancing, Comedy Tops

By Loretta Neville

The curtain went down last night on the first performance of the Thespians fifty-first fall show, "Bring Back My Wingback" and there are orchids once again for its outstanding cast.

Aaron Osopow, better known in the show as the director, stole the entire show with his comical characterization as the director of the blue band. Peggy Cunningham as Nancy was at her singing best as was Tad Komorowski who plays the part of Danny, the hero.

The capacity audience got many a laugh when Candy McEstery, will lead the singing. Collom as "Hippy" Rose Magee, strutted and sang her best in a glorified drum mapporette's costume. Billie Cooper as the secretary rolled her eyes in the well-known and inimitable Cooper style. Irene Cameron not only played her part as a sophisticated college girl, but put her songs over with the same polish.

Among others deserving of praise in the show were the band room tumblers in Scene 3. The chorus was at least up to the best standard set in recent Thespian productions.

The show, on the whole, was remarkable for the lack of off-color lines and jokes.

One of the better songs of the show was the title number, "Bring Back My Wingback," at the end of Act I. Miss Cunningham's performance with the sextet was one of the high spots of the show.

On the whole, Thespians have once again turned out an enjoyable evening.
