Pitt Sale Opens Monday

Student applications for the Pitt-Penn State football game will be accepted by mail next Monday.

The move to prevent a recurrence of the Penn "dawn patrol" was decided by four student leaders called in by Harold R. Gilbert, graduate manager of athletics.

Applications postmarked earlier than 7 p.m. Sunday or after midnight Monday will be ignored. Each student may apply for, and will receive either one or two tickets, as long as the 3500 allotted seats last.

Groups desiring to sit together are permitted to mail applications and checks in the same envelope. Checks must be made out in the exact amount of the purchase, at $3.90 per ticket, to the Penn State Athletic Association.

Members of the student "committees" were Joseph Colone, men's Athletic Association president; William Lawless, All-College president; Terrell Ruhlman, senior class president; and Lewis Stone, Daily Collegian editor.

Meter Receipts Show Parking Jump In Pa.

Parking is on the increase in Pennsylvania.

At least that's what the figures show. According to the Institute of Local Government at the College more than $2,000,000 was collected in parking meters in Pennsylvania last year.

The increase over 1946 figures was 48 percent. The 1947 figures were more than double 1945 collections.

Meters vary in their collecting ability, too, according to the report. Meters in York, for instance, collected $125.65 each, while Carbondale's parking guardians could collect only $5.72.

The number of meters in Pennsylvania cities ranges from 1427 in Pittsburgh to only 49 in Point Marion.

But Pennsylvania, leading the nation in parking meters, must lead in parking as well.

The report failed to explain that the figures represent only parking meter receipts. As yet the Institute has no figures on "parking" where there are no meters.

Forum Allots Lecture Seats

Drawing for reserved seats for the 1948-49 Community Forum lecture-discussion series will be conducted at the Student Union desk in Old Main starting at 9 a.m. Thursday.

The new series opens Nov. 4 in Schwab Auditorium with Fairfield Osborn, author of "Our Plundered Planet," speaking on the title of the book. A discussion of conservation practice already in effect as well as practices needed will follow the lecture. Prof. Herbert R. Albrecht, head of the department of agronomy and Prof. William M. Myers, chief of the division of mineral economics will lead the discussion.

The series also presents Dr. O. Spurgeon English, speaking on the "Kinsey Report" on Dec. 2; Quincy Howe, "The Soviet-American Future," Jan 18; Hanson Baldwin, "Security in the Atomic Age," Feb. 15 and Ellis Arnall, "The South Today," April 21.

Season tickets are three dollars, including tax.

Movies Justify Clipping Penalty

The clipping penalty which nullified George Guerre's 100 yard touchdown run in last Saturday's game was justified, movies shown to students in Schwab auditorium last night indicate.

The motion pictures show clearly that John Yocca, Michigan State guard, cut down John Finley, Lion tackle who was following the play, from behind on the 20 yard line.

With the game ending in a 14-14 tie, the penalty resulting from the clipping nullified what might have proved the margin of victory, and broken Penn State's unbeaten streak, now extended to 14 games.

Missed Tackles
Finley and center Chuck Beatty, the movies show, missed a chance to tackle the high-stepping Guerre on the 40 yard line when he reversed his field.

Trailing Guerre, the Lion tackle was the subject of a needless block, since he was clearly unable to prevent the touchdown, the pictures show.

Finley was struck with a slashing oblique block and turned his back to Yocca consciously or unconsciously as he fell, thus creating a clipping situation, the film reveals.

Penna. Boy
Following Coach Bob Higgins' recent statement that Pennsylvania coaches should join in urging players from the state to compete at home, Yocca ironically is from Winber, Pa.

Sports writers and other impartial observers of Saturday's game joined in commending Guerre's brilliant pass-interception and runback, coming in the final seconds of the first half, as the top thrill of a spine-tingling contest.

AVC To Sponsor Election Petition

Kidder said the petitions are to be presented to Wilmer E. Kenworthy, executive secretary to the College president, at noon today. They probably will bear about 1,100 signatures, he said, reporting that 600 were listed already.

A holiday was denied, but student voters were excused from classes Election day under a recent ruling of the College Senate.

Independents Abandon Move To Form 3rd Political Party

A move to form a third political party on campus was abandoned with the decision to join one of the established parties, at a meeting held in Nittany Dorm 42 Tuesday night.

The meeting was originally called by Myron Goldstone for the purpose of setting up an independent group. Former class officers from several freshman centers attended.

"It seems to me that in relationship to the number of independent men and women on campus, both parties are being run by fraternities and sororities," said Goldstone. He added, however, that "if the parties are willing to give the independents on campus a break, then we are willing to go along with the one that will give us the better deal."

Non-Committal

"We are not committing ourselves yet," he continued. "We are definitely not State Party or Lion Party by any means. All we are trying to do is get a man in office who will fight for the independents."

"In case things don't turn out in the coming election as we wish, you can be assured that there definitely will be a third party in the spring elections for junior class officers." He went on to point out that the independents are not looking for any concessions.

Equal Basis

"We want everything on an equal basis. If we are dissatisfied, then there are lots of others who are, too." Twelve representatives are already at work looking about for a suitable candidate for the post of sophomore president, he said.

"One more thing that I want to make clear," Goldstone added, "is that we are not only looking out for the independent men, but also the independent women. When candidates are selected, Atherton Hall girls aren't given any posts, but sorority girls are. We plan to see that the independent women get a break, too."

Les Michener and his Bucknellians will play for the dance from 8 p.m. until midnight. Tickets may be purchased at the Student Union or at the dance at $1.50 per couple.

The name "Plumb Bob" is taken from an instrument used by civil engineers to indicate a vertical direction.

Paris Negotiations
