

"Colgate No Breather"

Higgins Gets Team In Shape For Saturday's Grid Skirmish

How to prepare a team for a game two days away when it will mentally be playing the following Saturday's game will be Coach Bob Higgins' problem as he rounds the Penn State grid aggregation into condition for Saturday's fray with Colgate.

Sandwiched between two major gridiron battles, Michigan State and Pennsylvania, the Colgate game was regarded as a "breather" by the Lion coaching staff until Coach Earle Edwards, who scouted the Raiders, reported that the New York State team will provide plenty of opposition for the undefeated Lions.

"This is the last home game for Colgate and also Homecoming," warned the Nittany coach. They'll put everything they have into the game, and they'll really be "up" for the battle.

HOLY CROSS UPSET

Last Saturday the Red Raiders upset a highly favored Holy Cross squad 14-13. The Colgate squad rolled up 116 yards with five passes and gained 131 yards on the ground against the Crusaders. Three times the Colgate line repulsed the Holy Cross team in goal line stands, the last, a four-down attempt from the Colgate four yard line.

"Ray Scott, a sophomore, is an excellent passer in the Colgate 'T' formation nattack," commented Coach Edwards. "He has replaced McLaughlin, the Colgate quarterback of last year's squad, and is the spark of the offensive team."

Following the "new look" in football teams, Coach Paul Bixler uses a two-platoon system of substitution. Only center Warren Davis is used on both squads, while twenty gridgers change positions about every four plays.

COLGATE'S RECORD

Colgate's record of two wins against three defeats is a poor indicator of the relative power of the team. In score comparison, the Raiders outrank the Lions, having topped Holy Cross 14-13 while Holy Cross smashed Syracuse 33-7, a team that allowed Penn State a 20 point margin of victory.

After trouncing Buffalo 25-0, the Bixler team ran into trouble and dropped a 19-34 battle to Rutgers, a 13-14 decision to an inferior Boston College team, and a 16-41 rout to Dartmouth.

"Six pass interceptions made the difference in the Dartmouth game," remarked Coach Edwards. "Both teams were evenly matched, but the interceptions took the life out of Colgate."

SPOTLIGHT on SPORTS

By HUR'S MEN'S SHOP New Jersey Fisherman

In New Jersey there's a group of fishing cronies that never miss an opening day of trout season, come hell or high water. This group includes one John Abell, who claims to be able to tell if the fish are biting by the feel of his bones. Now, on this particular opening day of trout season, the wind was up, the barometer was falling, there was a snow flurry, three inches of snow was on the ground, and the temperature was below freezing. Yet, only crazy men would go looking for rainbow trout on a day like this.

Each man admitted that he was crazy, and this little group braved the weather in their hunting clothes to take advantage of John's feeling. In less than three hours, each had his limit, some having thrown fish back in order to catch larger ones... on a day like this! John Abell offered this explanation: "The fish are there, and we're here; we put a nice live worm on a hook, and the fish says O.K., I'll bite, and... sure enough, we catch fish!" Opening Day is Friday for Hur's Men Shop Odds and Ends Sale. Come in Fri., Sat. and Monday and see some Great Values at HUR'S MEN SHOP
